CONGRESS AGREES ON CURRENCY BILL

Prospect Good Now for Passage of Conference Committee's Emergency Measure by Next Friday.

DEMOCRATS TO BE GOOD.

Western Bankers Triumph in Retention of Clearing House Provision; Little Prospect of Filibuster by Minority.

BY RAYMOND.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—An agreement on the currency bill has been reached. The republican conferees of the house and senate held two sessions today and finally got together on a compromise substantially the same as that which was outlined exclusively in THE TRIBUNE Monday morning. This compromise is a combination of the house and senate bills embracing all the essential features of each.

The clearing house system provided by Mr. Vreeland is retained practically intact and banks joining such associations will be permitted to issue circulation based on commercial paper and preferred banks' assets.

Independent Deposits Allowed.

Individual banks which do not desire to join such associations may issue circulation based on bonds deposited direct with the treasurer of the United States.

The emergency feature of the new currency bill is emphasized by a limitation of three years.

The reserve feature of the Vreeland bill, which was strongly criticised at the time of its passage on the ground that it was unscientific to attempt to hold a reserve against secured currency, has been abandoned. In its place there is a provision for a deposit of 10 per cent of the emergency currency to form a redemption fund.

Circulation Is Restricted.

Circulation may be taken out not to exceed 90 per cent of the market value of bonds and kindred securities, and not to exceed 75 per cent of commercial paper and general bank assets, which, of course, includes railroad bonds.

The tax is fixed at 5 per cent, which is just half way between the figures of the Vreeland and the Aldrich bills. The total circulation remains at $500,000,000.

On the basis of the agreement which in all probability will be entered into tomorrow morning when the printed compromise is submitted at a preliminary meeting of the republican conferees. They agreed tonight on all the essential details and it is now only a question of phraseology. When they have had over the completed printed bill and agreed to it they will call in the democrats and make their reports to the house and senate.

Try It on the House First.

Assenting to the plan agreed upon tonight, the conference report is to be submitted first to the house. This will be done, if all goes well, soon after noon on Wednesday. Later the senators will have a chance to discuss the matter. The two democratic conferees, Culberson and Teller, have intimated that they and other democrats must have an opportunity to debate the report. Yesterday they talked in a threatening manner. Since then a number of the democratic leaders have come to the conclusion that it would be political suicide for them to shoulder the responsibility of defeating the currency legislation and that they would be playing into the hands of the republicans by so doing. For this reason it is believed that after the democrats in the senate have talked themselves out a bit they will permit the conference report to be voted upon. There are two or three republicans who are opposed to the Vreeland measure, and they, too, may talk a little. It is believed, however, that the bill can be reached by Friday night. In that case, adjournment may come on Saturday, for there is practically nothing of importance now before either house of congress except the currency and public building bill, the latter being utilized as a means of keeping the members in town.

Victory for Western Bankers.

President Roosevelt, Speaker Cannon, and other republican leaders have done excellent work in promoting a compromise. The measure which has been practically agreed upon by the conferees is a great triumph for the western bankers. It recognizes absolutely the broad principle for which they contended, that good commercial paper and gilt edged bank assets furnished the best possible basis for any emergency circulation. Then, along came Mr. Vreeland and conceived the idea of creating national clearing houses, and making the members jointly and severally responsible for the circulation issued under their guarantee. To this has now been added the single feature of the Aldrich bill which is intended to meet the objections of those bankers who did not wish to be forced into a clearing house association against their will, but who wanted to be given some basis on which to issue emergency circulation entirely independent of their neighbors.

Plenty of Currency if Needed.

As matters stand now, if a financial stringency comes in the fall there will be abundant currency in the country to meet all demands upon the banks. In the first place, any ten banks with an unimpaired capital and surplus of $5,000,000 may form a national clearing house association. Each bank may then submit to the executive committee of the clearing house any assets it chooses to put up, whether they be bonds, stocks, notes, warehouse certificates, or any other evidence of value or credit upon which banks are in the habit of loaning money. The clearing house committee will determine the sufficiency of these assets. After that is done the bank will be entitled to receive notes guaranteed by the United States of America to an amount not exceeding 75 per cent of the market value of the security or deposits. Ten per cent of the circulation goes direct to the United States treasury to create a redemption fund against which to pay off the notes which are first secured by the assets deposited, by the guarantee of the banks in the clearing house association and by the redemption fund.

Pay Deal Direct with Treasury.

But this is not all, although it is the main feature of the new emergency currency bill. Any bank which is in such a position financially that it prefers to act for itself alone

MINE WORTHLESS; $650,000 ALL GONE

Investors in the Amador Concern of Montana Learn They Will Never Get Back a Cent.

STOCK BOOMED FOR YEARS

D. E. Mackinnon, Who Maintained Head Offices in Chicago and Sold Shares, Can't Be Found.

Another mining bubble burst yesterday when it became known that the Amador Mining and Development company of Montana, a $10,000,000 corporation with headquarters in Chicago, had come to an end. Letters that will be mailed today will inform 1,400 stockholders, the majority Chicagoans, that the copper-gold mine in which they have sunk $650,000 is worthless.

With the crash of the concern, which had done a thriving business in selling stock for six years, interest increases in the whereabouts of the secretary and general manager, D. E. Mackinnon, who appears to be the only interested person who ever profited from the enterprise. Mr. Mackinnon organized the company and boomed the stock sales for five years. A year ago he departed to Boston, where he opened a branch office, and since that time he has spent only one day in Chicago.

Inquiries made by the stockholders' committee since the fiasco became apparent resulted in information that Mr. Mackinnon had left Boston for some place in Maine, the exact location of which all efforts have failed to establish.

Awakening of Stockholders.

The stockholders were considering a proposal to purchase Mackinnon's half interest in the mine for $150,000 when they woke up. They already had paid him $2,000 for an option on the property.

The president of the company is William Surman of Carlinville, Ill. George Lill, the Chicago coal dealer, is vice president. Robert M. Mahler is treasurer, and T. D. Fuller assistant secretary. Herman Goettsch is a director. The investigation of the mine, which resulted in the revelation of its worthlessness, was conducted by a committee headed by Mr. Lill.

In the six years' life of the company a total of only five cars of ore was taken from the mine. The stockholders' money was sunk in extravagant equipment on the surface, in glowing literature, expensive offices, and junkets of prospective investors.

Chicago Investors.

Among the Chicago investors and the amount of stock to which they are said to have subscribed, are the following:

George Lill	$35,000	S. H. Helm	2,500
Fridolin Fabst	15,000	J. H. Sinclair	1,500
H. Goettsch	13,500	George Sinclair	1,000
R. M. Mahler	5,000	Mrs. C. J. Fischer	2,500
S. D. Kelly	5,500	C. G. Fischer	3,000

A. E. Lindskog	3,000	B. Ottenheimer	3,000
E. C. Moeller	3,000	R. Von Tardy	1,500
		George Newell	2,000

There also are a large number of stockholders in Pittsburg, where the company had a branch office, and in Boston.

Mackinnon Arrived in 1902.

Mackinnon, who came originally from North Yakima, Wash., landed in Chicago in 1902, and sprung his mining proposition on the public. The mine was located on Cedar creek, near Amador, Missoula county, Montana. Mackinnon having staked out three claims in the neighborhood while he was practicing law at Wallace, Idaho.

The promoter opened up modest offices at first, but eventually worked up to a sumptuous suite in the Teutonic building, Washington street and Fifth avenue. The business was good from the start. Two million shares of stock were issued, Mackinnon keeping 800,000, and 980,000 being sold at large. All but Mackinnon's stock finally was pooled, and the owners have been unable to dispose of it.

Jumps from 10 Cents to $3.50.

Mackinnon organized many excursions to the mine and was prodigal of samples of the rich ore he said it contained. As a result the price of the stock rose from 10 cents to $3.50 a share. In the fall of 1906 the first shipment of ore was made from the mine. Mackinnon said the shipment was fifty cars, but the records show only five cars. Then Mackinnon issued a statement purporting to show that the ore assayed $153.43 a ton and that the mine was making a profit of $400 a day. After that the investors fairly tumbled in and the price of shares shot skyward.

A few months after Mackinnon departed for Boston Mr. Lill and other Chicago stockholders began to get uneasy about their expensive mine. They began to investigate. Then Mackinnon offered to sell his half interest at the sacrifice price of $150,000. The directors took the offer under consideration, and engaged F. Cushing Moore, a mining engineer at Wallace, Idaho, to make a thorough examination of the properties.

The engineer reported in a letter dated May 4 last that the mining property is "absolutely worthless and that further development of it would only increase the already gigantic sum standing on the debit side of the Amador account."

The engineer said that "over $500,000 had been squandered" on the property, and that the only chance of recovering any of this was in the sale of the equipment. He said the ore was commercially valueless.

In the letters which will be sent to the stockholders today by the board of directors are inclosed copies of the reports of Engineer Moore and of G. Scott Anderson & Son, another firm of engineers that examined the mine.

Offices to Close on May 31.

"It is unnecessary to comment on these reports, as they speak for themselves," says the letter. "Needless to say that the reports of the experts are a great surprise to us, and under exising conditions we cannot conscientiously offer any more stock for sale, and as the company has no money with which to pay expenses it will be forced to close its offices on May 31."

Mr. Lill said that he had personally inspected the mine and thought it a venture of great promise till the adverse reports of the experts were received. He added that his loss would not exceed $10,000.

CAMPAIGN CONTRIBUTIONS WILL BE SMALL THIS YEAR.

"DAVE" HENDERSON IS DEAD

Veteran Theatrical Man Victim of Long Siege of Disease.

END COMES IN SANITARIUM.

Career of Man Who in the '80s Made Chicago Producing Center.

David Henderson, once one of the famous theatrical managers and play producers in America, died at 12:30 o'clock this morning in the Drexel sanitarium, where he had been ill for several weeks. His death was caused by Bright's disease.

For upward of a year the veteran had been in poor health, and for a long time he was a patient in the Augustana hospital. His indomitable will got him on his feet again and again, and often his friends would hear how ill he was and then would be surprised to meet him on the street. During the last month, however, he was continuously a patient in the sanitarium at 4130 Drexel boulevard.

When he died his brother, Wemyss, and his sister were at his bedside. Funeral arrangements will be made today.

HIS LIFE IN REVIEW.

[BY BURNS MANTLE.]

"Dave" Henderson was, first and last, an American showman. For many years his name was writ large in American theatricals because he dared to do big things. In the matter of spectacular productions he was a creator in the sense that he led where others were too timid to venture, and elaborated where they reduced. He was the first American manager to combine a shrewd managerial sense with a reproduction of the London pantomime idea in entertainment and make it pay.

In the late '80s Henderson began achieving a national prominence as a producer. In 1888 he started that series of extravaganza productions in the Chicago opera house that employed the services of such later day celebrities as "Eddie" Foy, whom he took from the music halls of the west side; May Yohe, Ida Mulle, Burke, and Henry Norman. "The Arabian Nights," "Sinbad the Sailor," "Blue Beard Jr.," and "Ali Baba"—the memory of these is still strong with many a Chicago playgoer, and for ten or a dozen years—until, in fact, "The Wizard of Oz" style came in—they set the pace and furnished the example for all that extravaganza was expected to be through the middle and far western territory.

New York was the only town that frowned upon the Henderson extravaganza and this the old timers still declare, was due principally to the prejudice of the theatrical capital against Chicago productions, a prejudice that was much stronger twenty years ago than it is today.

Would Spend Vast Sums.

Often "Dave" Henderson would spend $30,000 and $40,000 on these productions, usually after he had been warned by his associate managers that he was courting ruin by his extravagance. So often was he fortunate in turning the laugh on them that he did not mark the change in public taste, and kept on pouring money into flashy productions even after the fickle playgoer had cast his heart and his amusement fund at the feet of the prettier, sprightlier, and neater newcomer—musical comedy. Henderson, who was a Scotchman, knew the stubbornness of his race, and it finally had something to do with his financial undoing.

The slump that followed the world's fair, or, to be nearer the facts, that came in with the panic days of 1893, caught the Henderson extravaganza amidships and stove holes in it fore and aft. It was, by the nature of its bulk and trimmings, an expensive luxury, and among the first to feel the pinch of diminished receipts. During the season of 1893-'94 Henderson's losses were something like $7,000 a week, and though he got a part of it back through road tours that were spasmodically successful, the most of it vanished as completely as one of his own disappearing demons.

"Dave," however, though often down, was never discouraged. He fully expected to make another fortune. If he was obliged to accept a position under some more successful manager, he looked upon it as merely a temporary necessity. It was not until the last few years that his spirit was completely broken, and even then he spoke often of the day that was surely coming when he again would take a hand in the fascinating gamble of amusements and prove to certain conceited youngsters just how a really good man played his hand.

Born in Scotland.

Henderson was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1830. He got into the newspaper business over there before he came to America, which he did when he was 19. With his brother he landed in New York, and as he had learned the printer's trade, first secured work in the composing room of the New York Herald. Afterward he did some reporting, and in 1877 came to Chicago.

He turned naturally to the theater through his interest in amusements, and worked at different times as dramatic editor of The Tribune and Inter Ocean. He was one of those interested in making a morning paper of what was then the Evening Telegraph, being associated at this time with Sisson Thompson, John Ballantyne, and other old Chicago newspaper men. The Chicago Herald was the final result of their efforts.

It was in 1884 that he heeded the call of the theater and determined to have less to do with the art preservative and more with the art of accumulating a substance. He became manager of the Chicago opera house, which had been built by John W. Norton. As an opening bill "Tom" Keene played "Hamlet," but it was far from a melancholy event, and immediately thereafter the new manager announced a determination to bring the greatest actors in the world to his playhouse. He kept that promise with a reasonable success, and the last Chicago performances given by the Edwin Booth-Lawrence Barrett company were played in the Chicago opera house.

Benefit Given for Him.

In 1888 the extravaganza series was started and continued, as said, until 1893. When the crash came it was reported Henderson sank $250,000 in his efforts to stem the tide and recover. For some years the defeated manager made his home in New York, but he has lived in Chicago since 1905. Some months ago a benefit was given in the Colonial theater under the auspices of the Chicago Press club, in which all the local managers assisted. The benefit netted a comfortable sum, and cheered him greatly.

STILL ANOTHER IN HIS BROOD; FATHER OF 27 IS JOYFUL.

James Allen Monroe at First Hides News from Friends, Who Now Shower Congratulations Upon Him.

James Allen Monroe, well known among live stock commission men at the stockyards as a shipper of cattle to eastern markets, and better known on the south side as the father of twenty-seven children, was the recipient yesterday of enthusiastic congratulations when his many friends learned of another addition to his already ample family.

A lively baby girl, named Virginia, is the latest acquisition, and, although she was born three weeks ago, Mr. Monroe's business associates did not learn the news until yesterday. Previous congratulations showered on the family had been so strenuous that Mr. Monroe decided to keep the news of this last addition quiet.

The present Mrs. Monroe is the third wife of Mr. Monroe, and the mother of thirteen of his children. Sixteen of the children are living, some being well along in years, the first child, John Allen Jr., being born in 1866.

Mr. Monroe is 65 years old, blunt and hearty, and tending to business every day, reaching his office at 8 o'clock in the morning and leaving at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

ROUTS THREE IN FACE OF GUN.

Operator Looks Calmly Into Pistol and Works His Own Revolver with Success.

Joliet, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—Three men tried to hold up Ernest Lockwood, night operator of the Elgin, Joliet, and Eastern railroad at Walker, near here early today.

Lockwood disregarded the command to hold up his hands, although it was accompanied by the pointing of a revolver at him, and, reaching for his own gun, began firing.

When he quit shooting and the smoke cleared away, he saw two of the would-be highwaymen carrying the third away. All escaped.

No tickets are sold at Walker and the operator had little money. A posse from this city is on the trail.

HETTY GREEN GIVES A DINNER!

World's Richest Woman Pays $20 Per Plate for Function.

DECLARES IT'S ALL RIGHT.

Serves Wines, Denies Entering Society; Simply Seeing Old Friends.

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hetty Green gave a dinner tonight at the Hotel Plaza for sixteen persons, paying $20 a plate for each guest. The floral decorations cost $50, while the music, fees to the waiters and a battery of bellboys who guarded the entrance to the private dining hall cost another $50.

It was the first social event of the kind in which Mrs. Green has ever figured. She planned the dinner some ten days ago, and requested that all mention of it be kept secret.

Mrs. Green and her daughter Sylvia received the guests at the entrance of the state apartment on the second floor. The dinner, for appointments and quality, has not been surpassed by any given at the Plaza.

Countess Among the Guests.

Among the guests were Countess Annie Leary, Rear Admiral Ide and Mrs. Ide, Mr. and Mrs. Amory Carhart, and Mr. and Mrs. Howland Bell.

"I expect to entertain sixteen friends on the 26th," Mrs. Green told the hotel management. "I want the dinner to be of the best." She was asked if she wanted to prepare the menu.

"You may have the chef prepare it for me. Let him submit it to me a few days in advance," was the final word.

The chef started to work on the dinner, but he was handicapped by not knowing the limit per plate. Mrs. Green was asked if she would give an estimate of how much she cared to pay.

"Twenty dollars a plate will serve a beautiful dinner," America's wealthiest woman was told.

"Then serve it please. And please again, I want a good dinner."

As Wet as Gage Park.

One of the surprising features of the dinner was the serving of champagne along with other wines. Mrs. Green was asked if she cared for wine.

"Why not?" she is quoted as replying, with some asperity. "Some of my guests will enjoy the wine. Let it be served."

Then Mrs. Green took an attendant into her confidence to the extent of saying:

"It is too bad that I cannot enjoy my friends, now that I am growing old, without so much questioning of my every action. The newspaper men bothered me for a time; now it is the turn of the magazine men. My daughter cannot leave the hotel without finding a battery of photographers on hand.

Scion of an Old Family.

"The people seem to forget that the Greens come from one of the oldest New York families.

"I suppose I must have my dinners noted among social affairs, but it is not Society I am entering. Rather, I am trying to entertain people I have known for years and people I like. So what is so mysterious about my living at the Plaza and doing what I am doing?"

FLAMES IN SASH AND DOOR PLANT FOLLOW AN EXPLOSION

First Alarm Quickly Succeeded by General Call for More Engines—Shock of Blast Felt Twelve Blocks Away.

Fire, which the police say resulted from an explosion in the plant of the Standard Sash and Door company, 5819 Center avenue, caused a general fire alarm to be sent in shortly before 2 o'clock this morning.

Policemen at the New City station, twelve blocks away, felt the shock of the explosion.

The sash and door plant is filled with combustible materials, including large quantities of paints and oils.

The first alarm was followed within a few minutes by the second call for engines.

At 2:30 o'clock the fire was reported to have spread to several frame buildings.

The sash and door plant is virtually destroyed. It was a three story brick structure.

COLLINS VERDICT; IS IT ACQUITTAL?

Jury Trying the Ex-Chief of Police Reaches an Agreement Shortly After Midnight.

TO BE ANNOUNCED TODAY.

Cheerfulness of the Twelve Men When Going to Hotel Gives an Impression of No Conviction.

The jury which had been hearing the conspiracy trial of ex-Chief of Police John M. Collins and ex-Police Attorney F. D. Comerford reached a verdict at 12:10 o'clock this morning.

The verdict was not announced and the jurors were taken under guard of bailiffs to the Alexandria hotel to remain until court convenes today.

The general report early this morning is that the result is an acquittal. The high spirits of the jurymen as they went to the hotel indicated that the two men had been found not guilty.

Another report was that the jury had agreed on a small fine for punishment; but the general opinion was "not guilty." Definite knowledge of the result, however, was not to be secured.

Early Rumors of Disagreement.

For several hours after 7 o'clock, when the jury retired with the judge's instructions, there were rumors of a disagreement, and when the Dunne officials on trial went to their homes they carried that impression.

During these evening hours of waiting Collins and Comerford sat around in the courtroom of Judge Arthur H. Chetlain with their friends.

"It must be awful to wait for a verdict when one is being tried for murder," commented former Commissioner of Public Works William L. O'Connell during the long wait. Mr. O'Connell was charged with an indictment himself, but his case has not been reached.

All the Strain Relaxed.

The story of the evening in the courtroom was that of a vigil with unique features. It was an amicable party that returned to the courtroom at 8:30 to await the verdict that some expected as early as 9 o'clock.

Among the watchers, aside from the defendants, were former Mayor Dunne, on whose account they got into trouble; former City Purchasing Agent E. H. Roche, Mr. O'Connell, and Nathaniel Sears, attorney with James Hamilton Lewis for the defense. In conformance with his invariable custom, Mr. Lewis had remained away from the courtroom while the jury was out. He never is in court when a verdict is returned if he can help it.

State's Attorney John J. Healy was present with Assistant State's Attorney James J. Barbour. Mrs. Comerford, who before her marriage to the former police attorney was Jean Cowgill, a newspaper woman, sat in a witness room from which she could look into the courtroom where the men sat smoking and watching the hands of the clock go round.

Collins and Barbour Joke.

Former Chief Collins sat cheek by jowl with Assistant State's Attorney Barbour and joked about Mr. Barbour's new suit of clothes.

"Are you going home in Collins' automobile, Barbour?" asked Mr. Roche. "You both live out the same way, don't you?"

"Barbour has more suits of clothes than I have automobiles," responded Collins, with a return of his old time raillery, and puffing vigorously at his short briar pipe. "I guess I'll walk home. I'm not a public official with an automobile any more."

Comerford also was in jocular mood, apparently. Mr. Roche passed around good cigars promiscuously and looked as happy as he used to when he was managing the Dunne speechmaking tours.

State's Attorney Healy entered into genial political discussions with the defendants, quite as if he were entertaining congenial guests of opposite political beliefs in his own home. Judge Chetlain sat in his shirtsleeves in his chambers and smoked.

Predict an "All Night Job."

When speculation as to the probable action of the jury was started the usual answer was: "Who can tell what a jury of twelve men will do?" Most of the watchers at 10 o'clock predicted an "all night job," a prophecy which proved untrue.

"I don't believe that jury will convict," said former Mayor Dunne without apparent conviction.

"They'll disagree," was the opinion hazarded by another man with equal information.

"I don't know," said the bailiff, telling the truth. Later, when he did know, he wouldn't tell.

Instructions Suit Both Sides.

The jury retired at 7:10 o'clock. At that hour Judge Chetlain finished reading sixty pages of typewritten instructions. The lawyers for both sides were satisfied with the instructions of Judge Chetlain.

In the courtroom, at the last hour of the trial, Mr. Collins and Mr. Comerford were supported by ex-Mayor Dunne, Mr. O'Connell, and Mr. Roche.

These three beacon lights of the last democratic administration, to whom the responsibility for Mr. Collins' actions as chief of police is traced definitely, did not remain in the courtroom while Mr. Healy was making the closing address of the trial. They sat through the talk of Attorney Sears, counsel for the defense, and appeared pleased by the efforts of the ex-judge. But they left when the state's attorney began to talk.

Mr. Healy's Address to Jury.

Mr. Healy's address was remarkable for its freedom from vindictiveness and partisanship. Though he had been assailed bitterly by the defense in the trial, he devoted the first few minutes of his address to a practical plea for the defense. Then he answered the charge that his actions in bringing the case against the deposed chief were prompted by political motives. He said in part:

"What is the duty of the men who represent the people in this case? Soon after the spring election of 1907 the civil service commission began an inquiry to find out if the police force had been used dishonestly in that election.

"There was no partisan politics there. The members of the civil service board were Dunne appointees. Ex-Judge Prentiss of the democratic faith after that hearing presented me in person with a transcript of the evidence and told me that it was a case for the grand jury to take up.

"They have charged politics against me. They have said this is a political trial. I tell them to their teeth that the charge is untrue. I am acting just as I would in any other criminal prosecution. We in the state's attorney's office expect these charges to be made against us. I was charged with playing politics when I sent a republican rascal to the penitentiary.

Has a Duty to Perform.

"If there were any politics in the case I would have left the matter of the punishment of these policemen to Mayor Busse, who now has command of the police force. He is in a position to do what he wishes with them. But I thought I owed a duty to this community. That duty was to make it impossible for Chief Shippy or any other chief of police ever again to levy a political assessment upon the police force or to use the police for anything except police duty. This prostitution of the police force as revealed in this trial and which the gentlemen of the defense tell you has existed for years is a vicious practice. Do you suppose that Collins was telling the truth when he said he willingly gave money for the success of the republican party in years past? He gave it and other democratic members of the force gave it because they feared punishment.

"It is for the good of the police department that I appeal to you. I ask you to wipe out this vile practice. It makes no difference whether it emanates from a democratic or a republican source. Where men receive $75 to $100 a month the $5 campaign money can much better be spent for a gown for the wife or shoes for the baby. The system must be stopped. There never will be a better time. That is why I ask you to convict these men.

Appeals for Verdict of Guilty.

"Collins tried to reach financially and politically not only the men he summoned to his office but every man on the police force.

"We cannot tell whether the people of Chicago suffered from this diversion of the police force or not. We cannot say that a policeman stationed on a corner, who was called to the office of the chief to discuss politics, might or might not have prevented a murder that took place on that corner while he was away. But we have the right to assume that some harm and some wrong that could have been prevented resulted to the people.

"Under the law you may send both these men to the penitentiary and fine them as high as $2,000 each, or you may fine them only, or punish one and let the other go. I am not asking any specific verdict, only that you find them guilty, in order to put a stop forever to the illegal use of the police force for political purposes."

Sears Accuses Prosecution.

Mr. Sears reasoned with the jurors as man to man on the issues in "this lawsuit," as he called it. Insincerity and pretense, he said, had been shown by the state all through the trial. Mr. Healy had tiptoed his way through the case with the gravity of an undertaker and the astuteness of a trained politician. The whole case was enveloped in a fog of sham and hypocrisy.

"I ask you in these last hours," he said, "strip off the cloak of pretense and look at the facts on the square. Even if all the allegations of the state had been proven in this case no one would be guilty of a crime, because it has not been shown that the community was cheated out of anything or that the police department was crippled. But the case of the state has not been proven. The statements of the prosecution in view of the evidence have been unfair. Mr. Barbour in his superheated imagination even has hinted that Collins was connected with the underworld of vice.

Declares Collins Honest.

"I want to tell you that not even the newspapers in this city ever dared to charge him with accepting a dishonest penny. John M. Collins is one of the few chiefs of police who has left that office, with all its temptations, without one cent of graft. Mr. Healy says this is not a political trial. If he is sincere in that let him put some of his own republican employés on the rack before the grand jury. Let him try Stenographer Binns, who went to Pontiac at the beck of Gov. Deneen. Let us see what the republicans on the throne of Illinois politics would say to him.

"Suppose President Roosevelt, desiring the nomination of Secretary Taft, should take a man from the postoffice, Mr. Hitchcock, and send him into the south to round up delegates. Would he be guilty of a crime? No, not unless the postoffice service was hurt. Suppose he should put a United States army man in the office of the Taft headquarters in Chicago. Would the president be guilty of a crime? No, not unless the army was crippled in its service.

Says Judges Do Same Thing.

"Are the judges of these courts guilty because they use their bailiffs to go out and get votes for them? No, not unless the courts are hurt. We must judge this man Collins in part by what other men are doing, for if he only does what the president and the governor and the state's attorney do it shows that his intent was not criminal.

"Mr. Barbour says that the public has been outraged by what Collins and Comerford have done and by the revelations of this trial. It is true, the public has been outraged. It is outraged by the spectacle of the state spending $10,000 in a political farce. It is outraged because politics has been carried into the grand jury room. It is the right and duty of every American citizen to exercise his right to citizenship. Let it never be said that in this country and in this state we have followed the example of Russia and France and persecuted for political offenses."

Comerford Talks an Hour.

Mr. Comerford argued in his own defense for one hour. He was limited to this time by agreement. He said in part:

"I am responsible for the twenty-five men who were sent to my office. I wanted to stop the illegal colonization of voters and round up the pickpockets. I took that method. I wanted to find out where the money was coming from that the street car companies were pouring into the election. I want to inform you gentlemen right here that democratic precinct captain after precinct captain was handed $100 on the night before the election and told to vote for the street car companies.

"In my efforts at that time I was actuated by as pure and noble motives as ever moved me. I was for Dunne—yes. But when they say that the office of police attorney was created as a bribe to get on Dunne's side they are saying something that is not warranted. Had I submitted to a bribe and remained silent at one time in my career I could have saved my family much heartache and sorrow.

What He Told the Police.

"Had I been willing to conspire, as it is charged I did, every officer in Chicago would have been instructed to vote and work for Dunne. I lectured the police behind closed doors during that spring and told them that all that the administration wanted of them was for them to be kind and faithful in the performance of their duties. Are you willing to believe that I accepted the office of police attorney and became a criminal for that job?

"While I was for Dunne, I think I did more than any other man in Chicago to defeat him. And I am glad and sorry for it. When we closed the hotels that were paying $40,000 a year to certain democratic politicians I knew and Collins knew that we were sacrificing thousands of votes for Dunne. It was a question of duty or expediency. No man in Illinois politics can say that he ever gave me orders. I elected to do my simple duty.

"I want to know if Mr. Healy thinks I am guilty of seeking to defraud the city. He knows in his heart that I am not. He knows that I begged him for an immediate trial and for a separate trial. He knows how I have suffered under this persecution.

"I insist that my innocence has been proved. I would be humiliated and I would hate myself as a caitiff and a coward if I asked you to find me innocent and not Collins. I have known and loved Collins for years. Day after day I saw him nailed to the cross of newspaper lies. If I am guilty, he is guilty. If I am innocent, he is innocent."

Mr. Lewis took the morning session for his closing argument. He carried the jury away on the sunlit heights of figurative oratory, leaving them clinging to the top and wondering where they were and how any one could live so depraved as to bring such angelic characters as Collins and Comerford to the bar of a criminal court.

Basis of the Case.

The Collins-Comerford conspiracy trial is the direct outgrowth of the city election of 1907. Mr. Collins was in command of the police force at that time and Mr. Comerford was the police attorney and acted as Mr. Collins' adviser in all his moves. The attempt to reelect Mayor Dunne brought about a wholesale use of the police force. The first trouble for Collins came when it was discovered that he ordered torn out of the police message books the political orders he had sent out.

Evidence of this was taken before the civil service board directly after the election—April 16. The hearing lasted two weeks.

The board took no action at that time, submitting the whole case to State's Attorney Healy for grand jury action.

The indictment was returned May 4, 1907, and since that time the case has been postponed and delayed for various reasons. The charge was that Collins and Comerford had conspired with each other and with persons unknown to divert from the city of Chicago the uses of its police force. Two other indictments were returned at the same time, one for the mutilation of public records and the other for levying a political assessment upon the members of the police force. W. L. O'Connell and Edward H. Roche were indicted with Mr. Collins on this later charge. The indictments against Mr. O'Connell later were quashed, but he was reindicted. This case and the two others against Collins now are pending on the calendar.

The trial, which threatened to last all summer, was shortened by the stipulation of the defense that all the inspectors and all the captains and all the lieutenants on the force would testify, if they were called, that they had been ordered by the chief to do what they could for Dunne and to collect campaign money.

More than 150 policemen took the witness stand. Many of these were young men on the force. They testified that ten days before the election the chief had called them into his office and told them to go out in any part of the city they wished and look for pickpockets, putting in a word for the mayor with their friends. To some these orders were positive. To others it sounded like a suggestion.

The testimony in the case closed last week. Arguments started Monday morning.

ASKS CHURCHES TO UNITE AND GOVERN CITY RIGHTLY.

John Thompson Tells Douglas Neighborhood Club Religious Organizations Ought to Run Things.

"If the churches would put their full strength into politics they could seat in the mayor's chair a man who would be looked up to as a minister of God and the unworthy aldermen could be cleaned out of the council."

This was the encouragement the Rev. John Thompson gave the men's union meeting at the First Baptist church last night during his talk on "Church and Politics." The gathering was under the auspices of the Douglas Neighborhood club, the Men's league of the First Baptist church, the Men's club of St. Paul's Universalist church, and the congregation of the K. A. M. temple. Sixty were present.

"I have been offered $2,000 or $3,000 more a year than my church will ever pay me to enter a certain kind of reform work," continued the minister, "but I believe my place is in the ministry, and that the church is mightier than ever.

"We ought to touch politics sufficiently to teach the mayor how to conduct the affairs of the city and show the people at Springfield what is expected of them. Some wards are represented in the council by immoral, intemperate men, and men identified with breweries. This can be changed. I once lived in a ward where every church sent two men out to canvass votes, and we put a prayer meeting man in council, and that ward has been represented by a churchman ever since."

ORDERS DEATH POND REMOVED.

Police Take Steps to Prevent More Drownings in Old Washington Park Race Course.

Inspector Nicholas Hunt yesterday ordered the owners of the old Washington park racetrack to fill in the pond where Chester McCormick and Ralph McCabe were drowned and to employ a night watchman to see that no one wandered into the pool.

"There are many paths across the old race course," said Inspector Hunt, "and for one who did not know there was a pool there it might prove his death, as the approach is unguarded."

The inquest over the bodies of the two boys was held in the morgue of William D. Freckelton, 5444 Ashland avenue. In giving its verdict the jury urged that the pond be filled up.

WOMAN BRINGS FALSE CHARGE.

Mrs. Mary Quinn Reprimanded for Accusing Michael O'Toole of Bruising Her Face.

Mrs. Mary Quinn, who caused the arrest of Michael O'Toole, 356 Franklin street, three days ago on a charge of assault, was reprimanded by Judge Going yesterday when she appeared without the scars and bruises which she alleged at first she had suffered.

Mrs. Quinn, when swearing out the warrant, had her face and head concealed under bandages. Yesterday she had no bandages and no bruises.

O'Toole said Mrs. Quinn wanted to frighten him into giving her the custody of her grandson, whom O'Toole adopted recently from the Juvenile court.

ASK FOR "L" INVESTIGATION.

Austin Men Urge City to Inquire Into Validity of Franchise and Suggest Transfer Changes.

At a meeting last night of the Southeast Austin Improvement association attended by 200 voters, a resolution was passed asking the city council to inquire into the validity of the franchise of the Chicago and Oak Park Elevated railroad. The meeting was held at Fifty-second avenue and Madison street, and was addressed by Ald. Race of the Thirty-fifth ward. The resolution also suggested that an effort be made to bring about the issuance of transfers between the Metropolitan elevated and the surface line in Fifty-second avenue.

TOTEM DELEGATES FIRST ON GROUND.

One National Representation, Complete with Many Ifs, Arrives from Alaska.

RIVALS CLOSE ON HEELS.

This Fight Just a Foretaste of Work Facing the Republican Convention.

One complete national delegation is on the ground ready for the republican convention—that is, it is complete unless the convention should decide to split its vote into fractions and seat three times the number of men provided for in the call, which is unlikely; and it is a delegation if it wins out before the national committee and the credentials committee of the convention.

With these few drawbacks it still remains the first complete delegation to reach Chicago, and it comes from Alaska. Whether it has brought totem poles this time remains to be seen. It consists of Delegates Shea and L. P. Shackleford, the Hoggett delegates from the territory.

John S. Heid, the national committeeman from Alaska, is reported as halfway down the Pacific coast and headed for Chicago with six delegates.

Heid and Gov. M. B. Hoggett represent the two contesting republican factions up north. The former has selected six delegates in the hope that the national committee will divide the two votes among them and give them all seats. The Hoggett republicans have elected Shea and Shackleford as the regular delegates and have named four others as provisional delegates in case the territory be given six seats with two votes.

The national committeemen are inclined to declare against this practice. It was done in the case of Alaska four years ago and the Alaskans are counting on a repetition.

Distant Members Early Birds.

The insular possessions and the territories are putting in their appearance ahead of time, owing to the uncertainty regarding the preliminary meeting of the national committee.

Chairman Harry S. New had written to the committeemen in the Philippines, Porto Rico, Hawaii, and Alaska that the committee probably would be called for June 1. Plenty of time had to be given the distant members of the national body to insure their arrival on time. They have heard nothing further as to the meeting and hence are coming in ahead of time.

Committeeman R. H. Todd of Porto Rico was reported in New York Monday and Committeeman H. B. McCoy of the Philippines was in Denver at the same time. A. G. M. Robertson of Hawaii has not been heard from further than to the effect that he will be present. His presence will deprive Prince Cupid, the Hawaiian delegate to congress, of his seat by proxy in the national committee. Prince Cupid represents Robertson ordinarily.

Alaska contains the only territorial contest of which the national committee has information. Secretary Elmer Dover asked Mr. Shackleford what they found to fight about up north, and was told that the whole issue was the national committeeship. The national committeeman is recognized by the president in the appointment of postmasters and federal officials in the territory, and that constitutes national politics in Alaska.

Situation in the States.

Two Illinois districts, the Twenty-second and Twenty-third, have failed thus far to get their credentials into the hands of the national committee. They have until 12 o'clock tonight to get them into the mails. Failure to send them by that time will result in the delegates from the two districts failing to get on the temporary roll call and will necessitate their appearance before the credentials committee to explain why they did not comply with the call.

Wisconsin is reported as being more backward in the matter of filing credentials than is any other state in the middle west. Owing to the Wisconsin state primary law it is necessary for each delegate to send in his own credentials signed by the secretary of state. Twelve delegates have failed to make good and no credentials for alternates have been received.

Nothing at all has been received from Montana, only half from Idaho, and the Vermont delegates-at-large and the delegates from one district are missing.

One district in Arkansas is so belligerent as to be inquiring already as to the procedure by which a contest can be carried from the credentials committee to the floor of the convention.

Big Body May Mark Time.

The national officials believe the convention will mark time from Tuesday afternoon until at least Thursday afternoon, and possibly until Friday morning, waiting for the report of the credentials committee.

The committee will get to work Tuesday afternoon, and it is figured that it will be in luck if it is able to report back on the permanent organization by Thursday afternoon.

In the meantime, from the perfection of the temporary organization on Tuesday and the delivery of Senator Julius C. Burrows' "keynote" speech there will be nothing for the delegates to do, outside of the committee work, except watch the marching club parade and "kill" time.

SIDESTEPPING LAID TO DENEEN.

Representative McGoorty Calls Primary Law Incomplete and Wants National Delegates Selected by Direct Vote.

Sullivan, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—Representative John P. McGoorty of Chicago spoke at Mattoon, Sullivan, and Shelbyville on the second day of his downstate campaign. At Sullivan he went into the findings of the committee which investigated state institutions and told of cases at St. Charles and Lincoln. He said the primary election law is incomplete, and favored the selection of national delegates by direct vote. He accused Gov. Deneen of "sidestepping" in his answer to the committee which investigated state institutions.

SHOWS OVERSIGHT IN PETITIONS

Attorney General in Circular Says Affidavit Must State Signers Are Legal Voters.

Springfield, Ill., May 26.—Attorney General Stead tonight sent circular letters to newspapers of the state, state central and county central committees of all parties, and other officials calling attention to the fact that the new primary law requires that affidavits to nominating petitions must state that the signers of the petition are qualified voters of the republican, democratic, prohibition, or other parties, as the case may be. Several petitions are being circulated which are not accompanied by this affidavit.

SANGAMON 'BOSS' QUITS DENEEN

Governor Refuses to Remove State House Employes for Richard Sullivan and Split Is Result.

Springfield, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—Richard Sullivan, agent of the board of prison industries and known as the republican "boss" of Sangamon county, quit Gov. Deneen today after a conference at the statehouse. Sullivan insisted upon the removal of certain statehouse employés opposed to his organization. Deneen refused to accede to his demands, and they parted company. This means a fight in Sangamon county.

Whale Captured Off Florida Coast.

Tampa, Fla., May 26.—A whale thirty-five feet long was captured this morning by a fishing party in Hillsborough bay, two miles off Palmetto beach. A bombardment of two hours with Winchester rifles was held before the whale was killed. It was then towed to the beach. It is the first seen in these waters in many years.

100 REPUBLICANS IN FIELD

Candidates for Office Submit Names to Central Committee.

JOHN J. HEALY MAY NOT RUN.

Many Renominations Expected, but Several Present Incumbents Drop Out.

Over 100 republican candidates for office submitted their names to the republican county central committee yesterday afternoon, and their cases, ostensibly at least, will be passed on by the subcommittee of "framers." Renominations will be in order so far as it is possible, but four of the present holders of county offices failed to come in.

In the case of State's Attorney John J. Healy, who had been counted on as a certain candidate for renomination, the failure means indecision. Mr. Healy and James Pease, the Twenty-fifth ward committeeman, have talked the matter over, and Mr. Healy is not inclined to become a candidate.

Mr. Pease has left the question entirely with Mr. Healy to decide. If he wants renomination the organization is prepared to give it to him, and professes not to fear the attack which will be made on him because of his prosecution of Sunday closing cases.

Democrats have been looking forward to Mr. Healy's renomination with much joy, considering that it made the chances of democratic success with this particular office exceedingly good, and this feeling has brought out a large field of democratic candidates.

Healy Not Inclined to Stand.

Mr. Healy is inclined not to stand for renomination and the only candidate whose name was handed in was Attorney F. H. Gansberger, Lincoln park commissioner, of the Twenty-third ward. There will be many others, particularly in the Twenty-fifth ward, to which the office is assigned by the present geographical division if Mr. Healy finally declines to enter.

Roy O. West did not submit his own name as a candidate for renomination on the board of review, but handed in that of J. H. Wilkerson, an assistant of United States District Attorney Sims, who aided in the prosecution of the Standard Oil cases. Mr. Sims, who is a resident of the Seventh ward, handed Mr. Wilkerson's name to Mr. West and it was turned in.

Mr. West has admitted that there was a little bit of doubt as to his candidacy, but there is not much and his name is likely to go before the subcommittee, of which he will be a member. Charles Vail, Superior court clerk, did not submit his candidacy. Vail is looking for something else, but probably will be a candidate for renomination just the same. Adam Wolf of the board of assessors was not made a candidate for renomination, but probably will be later.

Thirty-three candidates for the Municipal court were submitted and forty-one candidates for the county board.

Mayor Busse, Judge McEwen, William Cooke, and William Lorimer were the only committeemen absent. In the case of all but Mayor Busse the failure to attend indicates a probable refusal to abide by the slate making.

Democrats Discuss Slate.

The democratic subcommittee of sixteen members of the county central committee met in the afternoon and, according to all reports, spent an unprofitable two hours in discussion of methods by which a slate making caucus which would be a caucus and yet not look like a caucus could be held.

Marquis Eaton, president of the Hamilton club, has announced a complete list of committee appointments. The members of the new political action committee of the club are George W. Dixon, chairman; John H. Batten, H. W. Cooley, James E. Brown, Robert S. Iles.

NORTH CAROLINA WON BY "DRYS."

Forty Thousand Majority for Prohibition Law Stopping the Sale of Spirits.

LIQUOR MAKING OFF, TOO.

New Law Goes Into Effect Jan. 1, 1909; Dealers Fear Spread of Crusade.

Raleigh, N. C., May 26.—[Special.]—North Carolina was carried for state prohibition today by a majority that is estimated at from 40,000 to 42,000 on reports and estimates received up to midnight.

The exact majority on the question of ratifying the bill recently passed by the legislature forbidding the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors after Jan. 1, 1909, will not be known before tomorrow afternoon, but it is evident from the reports received in Raleigh tonight that probably seventy-eight out of the ninety-eight counties have voted against liquor, though in some instances the majorities indicated are considerably less than the estimates made by the prohibition leaders this morning. In a few counties the majorities for prohibition are larger than the figures given out in advance by the prohibitionists.

Want to Clinch the Matter.

The prohibitionists are desirous that the majority should not be less than 50,000, but indications are they will be disappointed. The prohibition leaders, including Gov. Glenn and United States Senator Simmons, declared on the stump and in circulars that nothing less than 50,000 would "settle the question definitely," and that the "wets" would renew the fight at the first opportunity if defeated by a small majority.

The "wets," especially the National Liquor Dealers' association, are interested in keeping the majority as low as possible because of the effect it might have on nearby states, especially Virginia.

Every Large Town Dry.

In Raleigh there was a majority of 77 for prohibition, the vote being 771 for prohibition, with 694 against. These figures are remarkable, because in last December's local option election the prohibitionists carried Raleigh by 600 majority. In Wake county, with four precincts missing, there is a majority of 621 for the anti-prohibitionists.

Every large town in the state except Wilmington and Durham went for prohibition.

Salisbury and Winston, both wet towns, voted dry today, while in the wet Wilmington city, where the anti-prohibitionists claimed 1,000 majority, they won by fewer than half that number.

POLICE LOOK NEAR AND FAR FOR JEWELRY OF HOLMES.

Murder Clews Run Down Without Success, So Description of Valuables Is Sent to Many Cities.

Nothing tangible has developed as yet from the police investigation into the death of Robert C. P. Holmes, purchasing agent for the Commonwealth Edison company, found murdered in a downtown alley last Wednesday night.

Chief Shippy, Assistant Chief Schuettler, Inspector Lavin, and Capt. O'Brien have worked day and night running down clews, but have been rewarded with no success. The police now base their only hope on getting some trace of the valuables wrenched from Holmes' clothing.

Bulletins describing the jewelry were sent out yesterday to every city in the United States.

PERIL IN DASHES OF "AUTO PIRATE."

Lone Reckless Scorcher Appropriates a City Number to Hide His Identity.

POLICE IN NEW CRUSADE.

Shippy Posts Sentinels with Pad and Pencil to Identify the Law's Violators.

The police are looking for an automobilist who, while "sailing under false colors," has been dashing along Chicago streets and boulevards, endangering scores of lives.

Women and children who have been forced to dodge the reckless motorist reported that the car bore but one license tag, in violation of the state law providing that the number shall be displayed both at the "prow" and the "helm" of the machine. The number in question was "7063." This is a city-machine number.

Chief of Police Shippy instituted an immediate investigation, and yesterday he discovered that there are two city machines bearing that number. However, each of the cars, it was said, had a number plate both at the front axle and the rear of the car.

Deny City Cars Were Out.

Martin Downey, a city chauffeur, is in command of the machine bearing No. 7063, while Bartholomew McNamara has charge of No. 7063A. The police made inquiries at the city garage and discovered neither car had been out of the barn on the days mentioned in the complaints.

Chief Shippy, who said he believed the number tag displayed by the "pirate motorist" was a fictitious one, ordered that a further investigation be made. Sergeant Patrick Ward, head of the vehicle department, and Detective Sergeants Kinne and Fetcher, in charge of the automobile bureau of the detective department, were detailed to find the "auto privateer" who sails "without a flag."

Police on Scorchers' Heels.

The police are going after all violators of the speed and license tag law with renewed energy, and it has been predicted that the scorching mania soon will be under control. Instructions to arrest automobilists who carried no license numbers were given to the police by Chief Shippy.

The chief ordered every policeman to keep a pencil and pad handy so he can jotdown the number of the passing car.

This is the first time in local automobile history that an autoist will be arrested who does not comply with the statute requiring two numbers.

Although the order has been in effect only a few days, it is estimated that over 200 owners of automobiles have been caught breaking either the speed law or the number provision.

"We average about two autoists a day at Ryde Park," said Inspector Nicholas Hunt. "We have men stationed especially along Woodlawn avenue and other well paved streets not boulevarded. Officer Patrick Tooley has caused most of the arrests along the street."

Sues Autoist and Chauffeur.

Walter S. Bogle, 852 North Park avenue, and his chauffeur, S. B. Reinhardt, were made defendants in a suit for $1,000, begun during the day in the Municipal court by Joseph Jurich, 25 years old, 649 Morgan street. Jurich alleges the defendants drove an automobile carelessly at Michigan avenue and Twenty-second street on Feb. 25 and knocked Jurich down, injuring him severely.

AS STRAW HATS MULTIPLY A SNOW STORM IS REPORTED.

First Heat Prostration of Season Proves Correctness of Chicago Forecaster's Prediction of "Fair and Hot."

It snowed yesterday.

Also the temperature was 32 degrees—freezing point.

Besides this, rains drenched the Mississippi valley.

But straw hats in Chicago multiplied like angle worms after a summer shower; no rain intervened to prevent the slaughter of the Cubs by the Giants at the west side ball park, and the forecaster in the Auditorium tower proved his superiority over the prophets in Washington.

The snow and freezing temperature were in Yellowstone National park. The drenching rain was almost everywhere between there and Chicago. The Washington forecaster prophesied rain for Chicago, but Prof. Cox said "Fair weather and hot"—and it was all of that. The temperature reached 82 degrees and one heat prostration—the first of the year—was reported. C. H. Beikles, 42 years old, 7815 Vincennes road, was overcome while working on a building at Seventy-first street and Vincennes road.

Dodge City, Kas., earned the right to a notice in the government records, being for the day the warmest spot in the United States, with a temperature of 94 degrees.

Chicago weather specialists are of the opinion that the mercury will hover around the top of the tube for another day and then take a decided drop. The southerly winds which have been keeping rain from Chicago will shift to westerly this afternoon, and with the west winds will come showers and lower temperature.

ATTEMPT TO HOLD UP POLICE.

Trio Lie in Wait with Guns—Fight Follows and Bandits Are Overpowered.

Three men, concealing themselves behind a coal wagon at the corner of Augusta street and Ashland avenue, made a bold but abortive attempt shortly after midnight last night to hold up Policemen Koehler and Polaski of the West Chicago avenue station. The officers were walking east on Augusta street when nearing the wagon they discovered the would-be holdup men just as two of the trio drew their guns. A fight followed in which the officers succeeded in overpowering the three. In the patrol wagon on the way to the station the prisoners again offered fight and gave the police a hard battle before they were subdued. They gave their names as John Flare, 153 Fry street; Joseph Borick, 86 Cornelia street, and Frank Lang, 21 Wells street.

HALF CLAD DANCER ARRESTED.

Woman Known as Chiquita Accused of Appearing on Stage in Improperly Scant Costume.

Detective O'Donald of Chief Shippy's office last night arrested a burlesque dancer, "Chiquita," at the close of her performance at a local theater on a warrant charging her with indecent exposure. The warrant was sworn out by Robert Ebel, who went before Municipal Judge Decker in the Harrison street court. The dancer was released on bonds of $300 signed by Isaac Broderick.

Chicago's Champion Family, Which Won Roosevelt's Approval.

[From a photograph taken for THE TRIBUNE.]

Pa J. C. W. Dunston — Lillie, Charlie, Bob, Jessie, Grace, Harry, Hannah, Annie, Mrs. Lottie Dunston, Florence, Billie.

Wouldn't this picture overjoy President Roosevelt? The nation's chief executive already has heard of the above aggregation, and the result was an expression of official and cordial approval from the White house. The picture is of a division of Chicago's famous family of fifteen, with a father of 43 and a mother of 38 years of age. Mr. Dunston and his wife, who live at 733 Wells street, have been married twenty years, and now, they say, every month in every year contains a birthday for one or more of their family. Both parents are quite proud of this robust family, ten members of which still live under the family treb. And, by the way, just to make matters more interesting, there are three sets of twins among the junior Dunstons. They are the liveliest eaters of the lot, too. This family made such a fine showing at the Knights of Pythias picnic last year that it won a prize of $35. The happy father is sole proprietor of Dunston's Chicago City Express company, 87 Washington street.

FIRE HORSES OUTCLASS MEN

Merit Board Finds Equine Service of Department Flawless.

WANTS HIGHER HUMAN TYPE

At Chief Horan's Suggestion Physical Tests Will Be Harder.

The horses of the fire department were accorded an enviable tribute of efficiency by the city civil service commission yesterday. The work of the animals that respond to the fire alarms was pronounced flawless, and steps were taken to bring the efficiency of the firemen up to the same high standard.

Hereafter the same painstaking care used in the selection of the horses that haul the engines and trucks is to be exercised in the recruiting of the ranks of the human fire fighters. The opinion of the commission is that if the firemen as a whole were as efficient as the horses the department would be above criticism.

The reform that will be put into effect within a fortnight was suggested to the commission through a chance observation dropped by Fire Marshal Horan.

"If we spent as much time and money getting good firemen as we do in getting good horses, there would not be an incompetent man in the department," said the chief. "We have too many one story firemen—they're all right at a ground floor blaze. But what we need is ten story firemen, and we need them badly."

Horses Pass Hardest Examination.

It then developed that the civil service examination given the horses is tremendously more rigid than the physical test of would be firemen. The animals are put through an intricate trial of strength, wind, endurance, speed, and behavior, the like of which would stagger a human being. Then they are subjected to a training of three or four months before they are allowed to run to their first fire. The result of this little civil service test instituted by Chief Horan has been the retirement of all the inferior horses previously put in the department through political pull, and their replacement by efficient workers.

The merit board discovered that in the examination of firemen the physical requirements were unduly subordinated to the mental. A knowledge of the duties of the work which the aspirant could not possibly know till he had received training was being given a weight of 6 out of 10 points.

So the board decided to lay more stress on the physical requirements and less on the mental. Bigger and heavier firemen are to be sought in the future. A man to become a fireman must be 5 feet 8 inches tall, instead of 5 feet 7 inches, as at present, and the required weight will be increased in proportion.

All Must Be Able to Wield Ax.

"I want every man in the department to be able to handle that ax," said Chief Horan to President Lower of the commission at a recent physical examination. "The way it is now I have to look around at a fire and pick out a man big and strong enough to wield that ax. I ought to be able to call forward the nearest man for the work. This means everything at a fire when seconds count like hours and human lives are to be saved."

The mental test in the future will be simple. A fireman will be required to have only a fair amount of intelligence. He must be able to read and write and add and subtract.

Similar Change for Policemen.

The commission also is contemplating a change along similar lines in the qualifications of policemen except that the mental test will be more important than in the case of the fireman.

The board announced the retirement of Inspector Kelly, who has been seriously ill at the Alexian Brothers' hospital for several months. He will be pensioned. Capt. Charles C. Dorman, who has been acting as inspector in the Maxwell street division, probably will be appointed to fill the vacancy. Dorman is second on the inspectors' eligible list, Capt. Stephen Healy being first and Capt. P. D. O'Brien third.

Lieut. "Mox" Heidelmeier will not be retired for a year and a half at least. He was supposed to be past 62, the minimum retiring age, and Chief Shippy was on the point of certifying his name to the retiring board when the lieutenant came to bat with imposing affidavits from his birthplace in Bavaria, countersigned by the nearest American consul. According to the document, which was a transcript of the parish register of births, Heidelmeier is not quite 61.

GO FISHING; NEVER RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Clausius May Be in Desplaines River.

PAIR MISSING SINCE SUNDAY.

Friends Fear They Are Drowned but Cannot Understand.

Oliver Clausius and his bride of a few months left their home at Park Ridge Sunday morning to fish in the Desplaines river and have not been seen since by their friends. It is believed both are drowned, though the case presents several problems.

It was their intention when they left home to fish from the banks of the river. It could not be learned yesterday that they had procured a boat. Their domestic relations were of the happiest, so that the idea of a double suicide has not been entertained. The man could swim.

With these facts to work upon, both the police and relatives of the missing couple found it impossible even to form a theory regarding the manner in which they met death if, as is generally believed, they are dead.

Carried Lunch and Tackle.

Clausius was 25 years old and his wife 28. When they left home they took a lunch basket with them and told friends they were going for a day's outing. They also carried fishing tackle. Mrs. Clausius wore no hat, having a shawl over her head.

The missing man's father is Dr. M. F. Clausius, 4291 Milwaukee avenue. He spent the day searching for his son, and after returning to his home last night said:

"I don't think there can be any doubt that they are dead. I can't understand, however, how it was possible for them to have drowned unless they procured a boat somewhere. But even if they had been in a boat and it capsized there would probably be some trace of the accident. Then, too, their lunch basket—what became of that?"

Policemen and relatives of Clausius searched both banks of the river during the day without finding a clew. The hunt will be resumed today and portions of the river may be dragged.

Nine Year Old Boy Missing.

Daniel Zorng, 9 years old, who disappeared Monday afternoon from his home at 6705 Normal avenue with a fishing pole, is sought for by the police, who believe the boy either ran away from home or has been drowned. He is a student at the St. Peter's Roman Catholic school, Sixty-fifth street and Normal avenue, failed in his lessons on Monday, and was reprimanded. As soon as school was over he returned home, put on a black sweater, and, taking his fishing pole, left the house.

DRAW GUNS TO FORCE VOTE?

Tunnel Men's Heads Say Factionists "Invaded" Meeting.

STRIKE NOT 'DECLARED OFF'

Disturbance Finally Ended When Police Are Summoned.

An unsuccessful attempt to call off the tunnel strike was made last night at a riotous meeting held at Clark and South Water streets. Officers of the tunnel employes' union declared that paid emissaries of the Illinois Tunnel company invaded the meeting and at the point of revolvers and other weapons forced a vote to declare the strike off.

President A. B. Cramer of the union was made a "prisoner" by the invaders and forced to carry out the orders of those wishing to terminate the strike. While the ballots were being counted W. C. Downey, business agent of the union, broke away from the meeting and returned with several policemen, who broke up the meeting and dispersed the crowd.

Say It Was Packed.

When the meeting was broken up by the police thirty-three votes had been counted in favor of calling the strike off. There were thirty-five tunnel workers present, fourteen of whom, officials of the union claimed, were sent to the meeting by the company for the purpose of "breaking the strike."

When the "invaders" arrived most of the 200 strikers had left the meeting.

Calls Act High Handed.

"It was the most high handed affair I have ever seen," said Downey. "The strike is not called off, and cannot be until every member is notified and has voted in favor of it. The emissaries of the company simply intimidated us with weapons to take a vote.

ENGINEER DIES; WILD DASH

Overland Limited Narrowly Escapes Frightful Smashup.

JUST MISSES A COLLISION.

St. Paul Road Fireman Discovers Superior's Body on Floor.

The Overland Limited, fastest train of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad system, ran Monday night at full speed of nearly sixty miles an hour over interlocking switches and past signals near Byron, Ill., with Engineer Albert Gauvins, 668 Park avenue, lying dead on the cab floor and no controlling hand on the throttle. The train, with a hundred passengers aboard, narrowly missed a smashup.

Officials of the railroad yesterday heard the story as told by Fireman Michael Nash. It proved a frightful tragedy had been averted as by a miracle.

Engineer Seemed Robust.

The train left Chicago on the journey to San Francisco at 8:30 Monday night, with Gauvins at the throttle, in apparent good health. The limited makes but two stops between Chicago and the Mississippi river. The first stop at Elgin was made as usual. Near Davis junction, at Byron, where the train slows down to cross the right of way of another road, Fireman Nash from his position between the cab and the tender noticed that the train was flying across switches and tracks at top speed, unmindful of adverse set signals.

Misses Train by Inches.

Just as the limited cleared the tracks of the other road a heavy train thundered across in the rear. Nash leaped back into the engine cab and discovered Gauvins' body lying on the floor. The train was stopped and help called. An examination showed the engineer was stone dead as the result of a hemorrhage of the brain.

After some delay another engineer was obtained and the train proceeded. Gauvins had been in the service of the road about twenty-five years.

The test of time which the Neglige Roll Collar has stood can't be beaten as an argument in its favor. One reason it has stood this test is its light weight. While it is four-ply, it is made of such fine, firm material that it never loses its shape, no matter how many times it goes to the laundry. This makes it the ideal collar for the man who, when he likes a thing, sticks to it regardless of every passing breath of fashion.

If you are that kind of a man, this is just the collar for you.

Both sides linen, "thinner thickness," reversible, edges corded.

TELLS HOW NIECE GOT SNELL'S CASH.

Daughter-in-Law of Millionaire Testifies as to Maybelle's Influence.

AT HER BECK AND CALL.

Aged Clintonite Dropped Other Plans Instanter When Inamorata Bid Him.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Clinton, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—It was a satisfied crowd of curiosity seekers that filed out of Judge Philbrick's court here today, after hearing Mrs. Hannah Snell, prominent in Bloomington society, recite the inner secrets of the eccentric old millionaire whose will is being contested.

Mrs. Snell told of Col. Tom Snell's relations with Maybelle Snell McNamara, and the subtle influences the latter brought to bear upon him to extract money from his strong box. Mrs. Snell is the widow of Thornton Snell, the favorite son of Col. Snell.

The afternoon's testimony brought out in a picturesque manner added idiosyncrasies of the millionaire. Mrs. Snell told how, from a wildly cursing maniac, the old man suddenly would become sufficiently docile to sing "Am I a Soldier of the Cross?"

The witness had been talking of her father-in-law's insane ravings for some time, when former Judge George K. Ingham asked her if Col. Snell ever swore in her presence.

Woman Tells of Snell's "Cussing."

"O, awfully," she exclaimed, raising one hand in token of horror.

"Well, tell the jury just what he said," the attorney requested.

After considerable hesitation Mrs. Snell pursed up her mouth and pronounced one mild little "cuss" word in a voice that could hardly be heard by the stenographer seated two feet from her chair.

This "near oath," however, did not satisfy the attorneys, who believed Col. Snell's swearing was being slighted, so Mrs. Snell was prevailed upon to repeat another which sounded more like those the witness had described.

Raved Over Maybelle's Letters.

"Well, he used to mutter to himself and go into ecstasies of delight when he read her letters," said Mrs. Snell in answer to the question, "What did Snell have to say about Maybelle Snell McNamara?"

"He always told me about his proposed trips with her," she continued. "He used to say he intended to go south with Maybelle, or any place else she might suggest. She could get money from Col. Snell any time she desired. After he had written out a check, if she didn't consider it large enough she tore it up and threw it in his face."

Mrs. Snell told of receiving this telegram addressed to Col. Snell from Maybelle Snell McNamara:

"Tom, I will be there in morning. Be prepared to return with me on the evening train.

"MAYBELLE."

This peremptory order, said Mrs. Snell, meant that Maybelle would be in Bloomington on the following morning and would take the old man back with her no matter what his plans might be.

It is planned to introduce the Maybelle letters in court for the purpose of examination tomorrow morning. The seals that have held their contents so long will be broken by Attorney Sweeney and he will read them to the jury. After the letters are read, alienists and psychologists will be summoned to tell what influence these letters had upon the mind of the aged man.

ROUBICK ADMITS SLAYING JEWELER

Tragedy of North Judson Explained by Kvasnicka's Former Hired Man.

POLICE SEEK ENEMIES.

Reported Implication of Victim's Widow Is Resented by Her Lawyer.

North Judson, Ind., May 26.—[Special.]—Albert Roubick in the county jail today confessed that he killed Emil F. Kvasnicka, the Chicago jeweler.

"Yes, I killed him," said Kvasnicka's former hired man, "but I was persuaded to do it. It was not altogether my fault."

Up to this afternoon Roubick protested his innocence. Circumstantial evidence was so strong against him that his confession was no surprise. It was expected before this. The officers, however, are confident that outside parties will be involved, possibly some Chicago persons who were enemies of the jewelry merchant.

Jeweler Had Many Enemies.

When Roubick was asked if Kvasnicka had any enemies who might be guilty of killing him, he answered promptly:

"O, plenty of them in North Judson, and Chicago, too."

While Mrs. Kvasnicka has not been placed under arrest, the local officers are watching all departing trains to see that she does not leave North Judson, as there is at least a possibility that she might be wanted.

Lawyer Defends Woman.

"Roubick's statement that Mrs. Kvasnicka is implicated in the murder of her husband is a contemptible lie," declared her lawyer, Joseph Sabath, yesterday.

"Roubick may have been in love with her, but she was too far above him to reciprocate. Perhaps while she was 'exiled' away on that farm Roubick had dreams about winning her when she secured her anticipated divorce, but I am satisfied she never encouraged him in any such thoughts. To me it looks like a cheap 'frame up' either to save his own neck or coerce her into supplying the funds for his defense.

"The story published in the afternoon papers was copied from the Denni Hlasatel, a Chicago Bohemian publication, whose representative interviewed the prisoner on Sunday. I believe Roubick said everything that is credited to him, but the story was evidently put into his head since his incarceration.

No Evidence Against Her.

"It was Mrs. Kvasnicka who told the authorities that Roubick killed her husband. If there had been a murder plot she would have said nothing and let the authorities clear it. If she had desired her husband slain she could have done so without the knowledge of Roubick. The authorities have already caught Roubick in a half dozen lies, one of which was his statement that he slept at the home of Joseph Durek the night of the murder, and they will find out this last statement is a lie.

"Roubick alone killed Kvasnicka, and the motive grew out of the hired man's inability to collect $60, four months' wages, from the dead man. If the crime had been committed before the reconciliation between the Kvasnickas there might be ground to suspect others. But Mrs. Kvasnicka was happy to be reconciled, overjoyed because Kvasnicka had given up other women, and because he was going to take her and the children back to Chicago. It was a new life for her.

Divorce Would Have Been Easy.

"Had she desired to get rid of her husband the divorce route was easy. I had been working up her case since March, and was ready to file suit, when I got word from both of them to drop the case, and that they were fully reconciled. For nearly six years she had been an 'exile' on that farm, he visiting her but once every three or four months. Her charge of desertion would have brought legal separation. Cruelty was another charge that would have severed the ties, and then we had positive proof that he was unduly friendly with other women."

GODLESS ONES IN EVANSTON

Clergyman Reproves Them, Next Time Finds Smaller Congregation.

Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy.

Taking into consideration this commandment, delivered with others to Moses on Mount Sinai, Evanstonians are asking: "Is it a sin to work on Sunday?" And if it is a sin, they ask: "Is it a mortal or a venial offense?"

The Rev. L. P. Edwards, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, in North Evanston, yesterday answered the first question in the affirmative in no uncertain manner. He also added:

"Evanstonians sometimes are a Godless people."

It all came about as the result of Dr. Edwards' discovery that his parishioners were mowing their lawns and playing golf on beautiful Sunday mornings instead of attending the services in St. Matthew's church.

Controversy On Since May 17.

The controversial combat has progressed since Sunday, May 17. The rector was walking from his home to the church, where he was going to deliver his regular Sunday morning sermon, when as he passed the houses of different members of his flock he noticed that without exception the head of every household was working with a lawnmower to reduce the growth of weeds and grass.

Now, the operation of a lawnmower requires the exercise of some muscle, and therefore is servile work, according to Dr. Edwards and the precepts of the church.

Upon his arrival at the church the rector found there, not the 150 families of his congregation, but a scattering of fifty women, seven men, and twenty-five choir boys. He changed the subject of his sermon, which was to have been on the gospel of the day, and preached powerfully on the laxity of members of the congregation in performing their duties towards the church.

He told them, however, that because of the beautiful weather and the temptations of summer, he would agree to a compromise. Each householder could mow his lawn or play golf until 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Then he could dress up in time to attend the morning church services, thus keeping his lawn trim and performing his religious duty too.

Attendance Grows Less.

Evanston awaited the result of these negotiations with interest. The test came last Sunday. Dr. Edwards hopefully entered the church sharp on time. But he was disappointed. The fifty women and twenty-five choir boys again were present, but only six men. All the others were busy trimming their lawns again or were on the golf links. The rector severely criticised the absentees. The people, however, while accepting the criticism in good spirit, refuse to admit they are wrong. In fact, they refuse to discuss the subject seriously and there the situation stands.

The pastor, who is much wrought up over this "summer indolence," as he calls the conduct of his people, reasserted his position more strongly than ever yesterday.

Even the Heathen Do Better.

"Even the heathen of the steppes of Asia and millions of the Chinese people regard God with more reverence and attention than do the people of Evanston," he said. "The people of this town lead moral lives, but sometimes they are Godless indeed. Now, viewing this matter in another light, it is an injustice to me. I do not wish to spend six hours on a sermon which is to be delivered to a handful of people. I want the men of this congregation to attend every Sunday morning service. That is their duty. I am willing that they shall enjoy themselves to the full the rest of the day, but their God should come first at least on one day of the week. Golf and lawn mowing are praiseworthy in their places, and I am sure that the women of this congregation would be especially pleased at evidences of industry in mowing the grass on some other time than Sunday morning."

STOCKHOLM ASKS FOR ERICSON.

His Native City in Sweden Offers Chicago City Engineer High Municipal Office.

City Engineer John Ericson has been honored by his native city, Stockholm, Sweden, with an offer to become its director of public works. The proffered position is far superior in salary, social prestige, and public importance to the one he now holds, but Mr. Ericson is undecided whether to accept it.

Mr. Ericson has resided in this country twenty-eight years, during twenty-four of which he has held public office. He is 49 years old. Because of his thorough Americanization he now fears that he would not be satisfied with European methods. He must decide by tomorrow.

The position in Stockholm carries with it an annual salary of 20,000 crowns, the equivalent of $7,000, which is considered to approximate $12,000 in America.

HARVESTER FIGHT SHIFTED TO ANNEX

Testimony in Suit Started by State of Kansas Will Be Taken at Hotel.

MUM AS TO WITNESSES.

Hearings to Begin Tomorrow Before Special U. S. Commissioner H. E. Ganse.

Chicago is to be the scene of a part of the fight being waged by the state of Kansas against the International Harvester Company of America. Tomorrow and the next day officials and employes of the corporation will testify before a special United States commissioner sitting at the Auditorium Annex.

The Chicago hearing is a result of the willingness of the Kansas state authorities to hear the case of the harvester company fairly and thoroughly and without causing too great inconvenience.

The state's case in the quo warranto proceedings, the hearing of which began last July, has been completed, and as the testimony of the defense was to be given largely by men whose offices are in Chicago, the "trust busters" and the commissioner consented to come to this city to expedite matters.

Henry E. Ganse, special United States commissioner, who has taken all the evidence up to this point, registered at the Annex with his secretary, E. H. Wade, yesterday morning. On the same train with them came Attorney Earle W. Evans of Wichita, Kas., who has represented the harvester company in that state as well as the Standard Oil company during similar litigation.

The representatives of the prosecution, it is expected, will arrive this morning. Attorney General Fred S. Jackson will be in charge, but will have as his special assistant C. C. Coleman, former attorney general, who began the fight upon the company.

Find Time for Ball Game.

Commissioner Ganse and Mr. Wade found time to root for New York at the afternoon ball game, but Attorney Evans was closeted for several hours in conference with E. A. Bancroft, general counsel for the harvester company.

"We cannot tell who our witnesses will be," he said, "and until we have another conference tomorrow I could not even estimate the number that we shall call. It is probable there will be several officials among the number, but we are not ready to disclose their names.

"I expect the taking of testimony will require about two days. Unless the number of witnesses is larger than we expect we will have the hearing in the hotel.

"We will not be ready with out case tomorrow, as we have had only a few hours for conference. I have been kept busy in Kansas for the last year, and when we present our case we wish to do it as rapidly and systematically as possible.

"It has not been determined whether the attorneys from the general legal offices of the company will take complete or partial charge of the examination of witnesses. That question will not be settled until tomorrow's conference is concluded."

Doesn't Object to Delay.

Commissioner Ganse returned to the hotel in a jovial mood over what he called a "record breaking game for hitting," and said that he would not protest against another day's delay in opening the hearing.

"The question of the location of our temporary courtroom rests with the people who are to present the testimony," he said. "I feel sure that they will provide ample accommodations for the hearing. From what I have been told it will cover about two days."

CONTEMPT? LABOR DENIES IT

Carpenters and Allies in Ignorance of Injunction?

THAT IS ISSUE IN NEW FIGHT

Proceedings Started, and Complications Begin to Pile Up.

A complicated situation in labor troubles will develop today when Judge Carpenter takes up the hearing of arguments in the contempt proceedings growing out of alleged violations of an injunction against the officers and members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and the Mill Workers' council.

Attorney James G. Elsdon, representing the Mears-Slayton Lumber company, which obtained the injunction a week ago, appeared before Judge Carpenter yesterday and asked for a rule holding the officers and members of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in contempt of court. Judge Carpenter continued the case until today to give Attorney John D. Farrell an opportunity to present arguments for the defendants.

Attorney Farrell will go into court this morning prepared to show that at least five officers and members of the carpenters' union never have been served with a notice of the injunction. An affidavit made by George Helmken, a private detective, shows that William Schardt and B. J. Fitzpatrick were served with notices May 15 and William Loos, Louis Deckhardt, and Charles G. Grassl were served with a notice May 21.

Here Are the Complications.

Schardt was in Nashville, Tenn., and Fitzpatrick was employed in Gary, Ind., May 15, and the other three members of the carpenters' union attended a funeral at Mount Olivet cemetery May 21. Attorney Farrell also is prepared to show that John J. Brittain, who called the strikes on the buildings where the Mears-Slayton Lumber company's materials were being used, is not a member of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, but is business agent of the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners, whose general officers and headquarters are in Manchester, England.

Neither Business Agent Brittain nor the Amalgamated Society of Carpenters and Joiners is a party to the injunction. The two carpenters' unions, however, work in harmony in all matters of working conditions.

Officers of the brotherhood assert the Mears-Slayton Lumber company violated its agreement with the union by reducing wages March 3 from 33 1-3 cents an hour to 30 cents an hour. Later the union succeeded in inducing the company to return to the old scale. The company, however, refused to grant an increase of 1 2-3 cents an hour April 1, it was claimed, in accordance with an agreement made a year ago. The carpenters then went out on strike.

Telegraphers' Herald Comes.

President W. W. Beatty of the commercial telegraphers' union arrived in Chicago in the morning to prepare for the national convention of telegraphers to be held in Milwaukee on June 8. The members of the national executive board will arrive today and a meeting of the board will be held tomorrow to complete the plans for the convention.

It is rumored a strike of telegraphers employed in the offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies will be called on June 10, the object being to tie up the telegraphic service of the republican national convention. Officers of the union refused to discuss the matter. The unions are said to be in poor shape for another strike after the fiasco of last summer and fall.

BAPTISTS ATTACK WHITE SLAVERY.

Convention at Oklahoma City Adopts Resolution Urging United States to Act.

WANT TREATY SIGNED.

Document Sanctioned Declares International Phase of Evil Rapidly Increases.

Oklahoma City, Ok., May 26.—[Special.]—Action against the international white slave traffic was secured today in the northern Baptist convention, through the efforts of the Rev. M. P. Boynton of Chicago.

The convention adopted a resolution introduced by Mr. Boynton commending organizations which are working against the traffic in white slaves, and calling upon President Roosevelt and the government to unite with other nations in suppressing this increasing evil by signing the treaty now in effect between many other countries.

Says Trade Is Growing.

The resolution says:

"Whereas, the traffic in womanhood and girls, commonly called the white slave traffic, is increasingly active in our large cities, proof of which is seen in the conviction and imprisonment of many persons for the crime of luring young women to the cities by promises of employment, only to sell them to houses of shame, where in many cases they are held in helpless and hopeless slavery.

"Resolved, that we commend such organizations as purpose the destruction of this unspeakable business.

"That we most respectfully urge upon President Roosevelt the high duty and desirability of our government uniting with other nations to suppress this traffic by agreeing to the treaty already signed by every civilized government but ours, which unites Christendom in the effort to abolish this traffic in its international phases.

Would Teach Self-Knowledge.

"That we encourage parents, pastors, teachers, and editors to instruct the youth of our land in the sacred laws of life and health so that the rising generation may walk in the light of self-knowledge and the liberty wherewith the truth makes free.

"That we suggest to the various state conventions action similar to this that the churches may have added emphasis upon the need of a constant warfare against this foe which threatens the ruin of the boys and girls of our beloved land."

Other resolutions indorse the work of the Anti-Saloon league and condemn the greed that demands child labor.

ENJOYING A STORE AS WELL AS ITS SHIRTS

The men whose business is worth most to a store like to enjoy its atmosphere as well as what they buy there. They consider their patronage is worth something better than perfunctory "salesmanship."

In our store the choicest imported fabrics—the highest order of custom skill—the patronage of the best men—all that our established prestige would be expected to confer, is theirs as a matter of course.

In addition they find here a sane application of art in shirt-making and a healthful doctrine of service in our store-methods and the personal conduct of our attendants.

Granted an equality with other shops in the merit of the merchandise, these things would be gladly paid extra for by plenty of men.

But here they do not pay a bonus, either for prestige or correct attention—and the shirts themselves are concededly BETTER than the best elsewhere.

Our shirtings (all exclusive with us) cannot be surpassed in New York—much less equaled in the West.

To individual measure, 4 to 18 dollars.

PARIS PRESS ASKS ENGLISH ALLIANCE

Time Ripe, Says Temps, but Great Britain Must Reorganize Army.

LAST STONE ROLLS AWAY.

Anglo-Russ Pact Removes Greatest Block to Treaty, Paper Declares.

PARIS, May 26.—The speeches exchanged in London between President Fallieres and King Edward have attracted much attention in the French press.

The Temps today says it considers the time ripe for the substitution of an Anglo-French alliance instead of the present entente; provided, that the British army be radically reorganized to render it capable of energetic action on the continent. Otherwise, the paper says, the benefits of the alliance would be one sided and in favor of England, and consequently inadvisable.

The Temps recognizes that the cordial relations between France and Great Britain, as manifested yesterday, are likely, in the event of a crisis, to breed identity of interests, but it thinks it dangerous to rely upon moral understandings.

"Forced to choose between Germany and Great Britain," the Temps declares, "France chooses Great Britain. We can with dignity live on correct terms with Germany, but the past forbids us going further.

Alliance Desirable for England.

"As for the future, Germany only wants what we cannot grant—namely: the admission of German funds to the Paris bourse. On the other hand, the greatest objection to a British alliance has disappeared with the reconciliation of our ally, Russia, with Great Britain.

"From the English standpoint this alliance is desirable. England, throughout her history, has always felt the necessity of a continental alliance and continental support. The French army would be of inestimable value to Great Britain in the event of war, but would British support be equally advantageous to us?

"British naval victories would not drive a single cannon from our frontier. It would be different if the British army was reorganized to render it capable of a powerful land diversion; in other words, if Great Britain became for France a second Russia.

Asks Modern British Army.

"The day upon which Great Britain gives the country a modern army; the day upon which Great Britain remembers Napoleon fell at Waterloo and not at Trafalgar, that day all far seeing Frenchmen will become partisans of a British alliance, the purpose of which would be to complete and enlarge that system of pacific defense which did not result from the Franco-Russian alliance of 1891.

"To those who express surprise," the Temps concludes, "that military considerations weigh so heavily in this argument, we observe that the value of diplomatic combinations for peace is measured by efficacy in war."

Fallieres Has a Busy Day.

LONDON, May 26.—M. Fallieres, president of the French republic, has had a busy day. He started in at an early hour by holding a reception to the Gallic colony in London at the French embassy, after which he made a round of ceremonial calls upon various members of the English reigning house.

In the afternoon, accompanied by King Edward and Queen Alexandra, he paid a state visit to the Franco-British exhibition at Shepherd's Bush.

At Buckingham palace tonight a great state ball was given in honor of M. Fallieres, the culminating feature of the day's entertainment. Everywhere the French president has been greeted with great enthusiasm. Early in the evening immense crowds gathered about the royal residences to witness the processions to the palace.

Directoire Gowns at Ball.

The scene within the walls of Buckingham was one of exceptional brilliancy. The royal guests assembled in the throne room and a fanfare of trumpets heralded their entry to the ballroom.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra, accompanied by M. Fallieres and the royal entourage, passed down the room between two rows of bowing guests. By the king's command the ladies' gowns were all of soft shades of color, most of them being fashioned after the directoire and empire periods. All of the embassies were represented and many high Indian officials were present.

There was a great display of jewels and orders. The queen alone wore a crown and gems computed to be worth $5,000,000. The Dorchester house party present included American Ambassador and Mrs. Reid, Miss Jennie Cocker, and Ogden Reid. Miss Jean Reid was not present. Prominent in the American circle was Lady Paget, formerly Miss Stevens of New York.

Allegorical Painting of Trial Damaged by Irate Nationalist in Gallery.

PARIS, May 26.—A man who gave the name of Ebner today attempted to destroy Renouard's allegorical picture, "The Trial of Dreyfus," in the salon of the Societie des Beaux Arts.

He first vainly tried to rip it with a knife, but the picture was covered with a thick glass, fear having been entertained when it was hung that just such an attempt might be made, and finally wrenched it from the wall and trampled it under foot. The picture was considerably damaged, but the damage can be repaired.

Ebner, who was placed under arrest, told the magistrate that he was a nationalist and was unable to control his indignation at the sight of the picture.

Edward A. Kimball Says in England Growth Is Also Rapid.

BY F. W. WILE.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

BERLIN, May 26.—Lecturing in Berlin tonight, Edward A. Kimball of Chicago, who is on a lecture tour for the church, declared that Christian Science is progressing at such a rate throughout the civilized world it has become necessary to open a new church every four days for the accommodation of converts, most of whom are those healed by Christian Science. Mr. Kimball says he finds Christian Science making headway everywhere in Europe, especially in England. Representatives of seven continental nationalities journeyed especially to Berlin to attend tonight's meeting, which attracted a large and intelligent German audience.

EXECUTION A PUBLIC EXAMPLE.

Foreigners Admitted to Hanging to Teach Them Fate of Murderers.

Pottsville, Pa., May 26.—In order that they may go among their countrymen and impress upon them the enormity of the crime of murder and the terrible punishment that the law of this country calls for, a large number of Slavs, Hungarians, Poles, Italians, Russians, Lithuanians, and other foreigners were invited to attend the execution here today of Felix Badzius, a young Pole convicted of the murder of a woman and her child at Shenandoah six months ago. The hanging took place in the yard of the Schuylkill county prison and about 500 persons were present. The idea of having present representatives of the various foreign elements in this section of the coal region originated with Sheriff Clay Evans, who thought the story of the execution as told from the lips of the foreigners will have a salutary effect in curbing the murderous tendency of some of the lawless element.

German Immigrant and Wife at Ellis Island in Deep Woe.

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—After a year and nine months' hardship and disappointment in this country Max Hainke and his wife Ernestina, natives of Nainau, Germany, went to Ellis island today and asked to be deported.

Hainke, however, was told that he could not be deported, as he had not come to the island in the custody of any officer, and otherwise he is not a public charge. Hainke next went to the German consulate, where he was referred to the German Immigrants' Aid society in State street, but he fared no better there. He was told that as he had been in this country over a year he must get out and hustle for himself.

Married Upon Arrival Here.

Penniless and worn out, both having walked fifteen miles from Clifton, N. J., to this city, carrying heavy satchels, Hainke and his wife said that on Aug. 22, 1906, they reached New York and at once were married at the city hall.

In a few days they went to Chicago, and after eight months' suffering and want Hainke and his wife went to Pittsburg, walking 494 miles in twenty-one days. On Sept. 14 Mrs. Hainke was taken to a hospital, where she gave birth to a little girl, which they named Agnes. A friend gave them money to get to New York, and upon his arrival here Hainke applied to the German consul to have him, his wife, and child deported.

Child an American Girl.

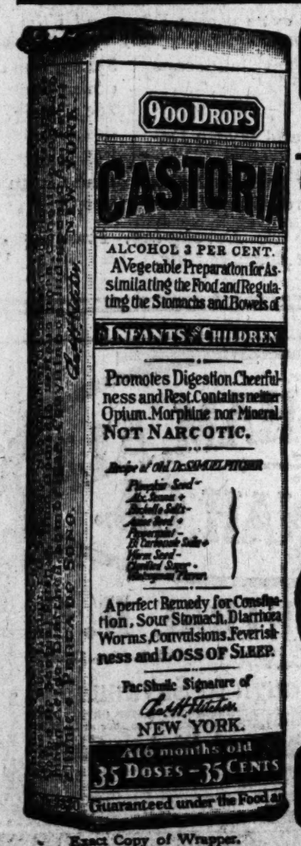

He was told, however, that as his child was born in this country it could not be deported. This last blow upset Hainke, and his sorrow increased, though this trouble ended when his baby contracted scarlet fever and died three days later in Riverside hospital.

Through friends Hainke secured work for himself and his wife on a farm at Clifton, N. J., but when he asked for their wages he was told that there was nothing due them.

THIS IS MARKET DAY

AT

THE FAIR

TEN THOUSAND HENS are robbed to get enough eggs for one Market Day at The Fair and we're not crowing very loudly at that—we're used to great big sales on the seventh floor. We retail but we never buy in a retail way. We deal at first hand and cut out every handling between the factory and The Fair and every time we avoid a middleman we escape a profit that doesn't have to increase our own. You can buy anything here for a little less than you can get it anywhere else—and "anything" isn't a random word either. If your pampered palate can be treated with only a $5 tea—we have that tea. If your husband's wage makes you a penny counting little housewife you can count farther here with less dollars. But, however wide the qualities may range, there is no difference in the scrupulous cleanliness of handling—or the absolute purity or the appetizing freshness of what we sell. All the meats are kept from taint in the same wonderful refrigerator. All the coffees and spices are airtighted and dustproofed in the same protecting sorts of canisters. The same spic-span healthy men serve you. The same wagons give you instant delivery. This is the perfected market of America. It is so huge that it is complete for every one. There is no specialty shop in any neighborhood that is better organized for the millionaire. There is no cut price corner grocery in the town that can sell the most inferior grades for as little as we will supply the purest.

JEROME DEFENDS OFFICIAL ACTS.

Denounces Charges Brought Against Him as "Flimsy and Mendacious."

CAMPAIGN FUNDS LEGAL?

District Attorney Declares There Was Justification for N. Y. Life Contribution.

Elizabethtown, N. Y., May 26.—District Attorney William T. Jerome of New York county was the central figure today in the final proceedings here before Commissioner Hand, appointed by Gov. Hughes to hear testimony in connection with the charges of dereliction in the performance of the district attorney's official duties, made by William A. King and others of New York City.

Mr. Jerome began his summing up after the filing of a brief by Franklin Pierce, attorney for the complainants. The district attorney launched into a lengthy analysis of the motives which, in his belief, animated those most active in bringing and pressing the charges against him. He supported his contention that the proceedings were "flimsy and mendacious" by asking the commissioner to note, for one thing, that the complaint had not been verified, "not even on information and belief."

Appeals on His Record.

"I have lived all my life in the city of New York," said the district attorney, "and the sixteen best years of my life there were given to the public service. Twice I have run for office in that city and have been elected, the last time against every political party and all alone; and I consider, sir, that I was elected to exercise my judgment in the discharge of the duties of that office, and not the judgment of irresponsible editors of yellow journals and what they might say I ought to do."

"I consider," continued Mr. Jerome, "that the duties that were laid upon me in that office, and which I have striven to discharge, were these: To be fair and just; to apply one law to all persons, not apply one law to the poor man and another to the rich man. I have stood, sir, under a great pressure before that grand jury room as a southern sheriff has often stood before a southern jail, when he knows that the prisoner within is guilty and worthy of punishment, but will only allow him to be punished as the law provides."

Campaign Gifts Good Business.

Regarding the charge that he had refused to advise the grand jury to indict George W. Perkins in the so-called $50,000 political contribution case, Mr. Jerome said:

"It was perfectly plain that Bryan's election would have been followed by a shrinkage in the value of the securities of the New York Life Insurance company of, say, at least 10 or 12 per cent, so that with $450,000,000 of securities this contribution by Mr. Perkins was a shrewd business move, even if it were illegal. But was it illegal? Moreover, there was abundant evidence that the officials of almost every financial institution in New York City had contributed to the republican party committee to help defeat Bryan, so that if Perkins was guilty then I had my work cut out for me good and plenty for a year or more ahead.

Judiciary Scared by Outcry.

"The judiciary of New York City was as scared as anybody in New York, because on one hand was J. Pierpont Morgan's partner and on the other hand the yellow journals were yamming and yowling."

Mr. Jerome said there was no rule of law by which he could have brought John A. McCall's evidence before the Armstrong committee to the attention of a grand jury.

"I have been called a liar and charged with being a bloodhound and many other awful things," he declared, "but there has never been even an insinuation that I have a dollar in the world except what I have received as salary."

Regarding the charge which related to the $24,000 which Thomas F. Ryan received from the Metropolitan securities, Mr. Jerome said that it was in 1903, when "one William N. Amory came to me with a weird tale against this company. It transpired about this time," he added, "that several men began a bear campaign in Wall street against Metropolitan securities."

Fail to Indict Ice Trust.

"It was," Mr. Jerome said, "important to find out the source of these bear rumors. Thomas A. Ryan spent some $24,000 of his own money for detectives and in other ways to clear up the matter. Subsequently the Metropolitan Securities company repaid to Mr. Ryan this $24,000, a perfectly legitimate proceeding, in my judgment."

Mr. Jerome then took up the investigation of the American Ice company. He said the January grand jury looked into the matter carefully and found no indictments and the present jury had been at it for two weeks and as yet had done nothing.

"At the most," said Mr. Jerome, "if it transpired that I erred in the 'ice trust' matter, it can only be an error of judgment on my part."

STRANGE DOMESTIC AFFAIRS REVEALED AT LAPORTE TRIAL.

Woman's Divorced Husband Lived with Family for Five Years Under Supposition That He Was Her Brother.

Laporte, Ind., May 26.—[Special.]—Enoch Asbury Stone, who deserted his wife in this city last fall and was arrested in Nebraska, has been found guilty in the Laporte Circuit court and fined $10 and costs and disfranchised for three years. But for one juror he would have been acquitted, because his defense was a most remarkable story.

Stone testified that he married his wife in Chicago in 1902 and soon thereafter a man, whom Mrs. Stone introduced as her brother, came to live with them. For five years this man, Harry Knott, resided with the Stones, when one day Stone discovered that the man was his wife's former husband and that they had been divorced after twenty years of married life, during which time the wife had become the mother of eight children. When recalled to the stand Mrs. Stone admitted the deception, but denied there had been anything wrong during that time. Even Knott's own children had been taught to call him uncle.

Previous to his marriage to the woman Stone had been a seaman and had sailed around the world eleven times. He will secure a divorce from his wife so that she may remarry Knott.

CHICAGO BOOSTERS ARE BUSY.

Entertained at Banquet at Springfield—Other Ohio Cities Will Do Honors Today.

Springfield, O., May 26.—"Nothing is foreign to Chicago that is of interest to you," is the spirit being fostered by the representatives of the Chicago Association of Commerce in the commercial invasion of Ohio, and it has met a ready acceptance from the commercial interests of the cities visited. Springfield sent a delegation, headed by David Snyder, president of the city council, and Mayor W. R. Burnett, to meet the party at Urbana. After a trip about the city the visitors were given a banquet by the Commercial club. Both Springfield and Chicago should profit greatly from the visit of this delegation in a closer union of their commercial interests. Xenia, Dayton, and Hamilton will entertain the delegation tomorrow.

Parents' Club Elects Officers.

The Oak Park Parents and Teachers' association held its annual election of officers last night at Scoville Institute, Kenilworth avenue and Lake street Oak Park, and the following were chosen: President, Howard H. Pierce; vice president, Willis Herrick; second vice president, Mrs. Leland Babcock; secretary, Mrs. Pierce Underwood; treasurer, E. M. Pike. Mrs. Underwood was president of the organization last year.

MRS. THAW WITHDRAWS SUIT

Her Lawyer Says Move for Annulment Was Prompted by Kin.

IS STILL LOYAL TO HARRY.

Young Wife Has Monthly Income of $1,000 from Husband's Family.

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Evelyn Thaw's suit for the annulment of her marriage to Harry K. Thaw, which has been pending before Referee Robert E. Deyo since May 11, was discontinued today upon motion by Evelyn Thaw's counsel, Daniel O'Reilly. Leave to withdraw the suit without costs was granted by the referee, as the motion was not opposed by Col. Franklin Bartlett, counsel for Mrs. William Thaw, or Russell A. Peabody, Harry Thaw's counsel.

Mr. O'Reilly was the only one to appear in person before the referee. After the hearing he gave out the following statement:

"There has been much misrepresentation as to Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's motive in first bringing an application for annulment and then subsequently discontinuing the same. Mrs. Thaw in the first instance reluctantly made such application in response to pressure brought by relatives of her husband.

Fears to Endanger Release.

"She withdraws from the action at this time because she believes her husband's present situation demands from her loyalty to his interests and that it would not serve any good purpose to prove at a time when he is attempting to gain his liberty that he was insane when he married her. Especially is this true in the light of the unfortunate conclusion of the last proceedings."

Mrs. Thaw can at any time renew her action for annulment of her marriage. When Mr. O'Reilly's statement was shown to Col. Franklin Bartlett, counsel for Mrs. William Thaw, he said:

"As counsel for Mrs. William Thaw I desire to say that so far as she is concerned, and any other relatives with whom I am acquainted, I know of no pressure being brought by the relatives of Mrs. Evelyn Thaw's husband to bring about annulment of their marriage.

Wishes Her Treated Fairly.

"The position of the family regarding this young woman is simple and just. Mrs. William Thaw desires that she shall be treated not only fairly but generously, and the young woman is now being paid $1,000 a month, which in my opinion as a lawyer of experience is far more than any court would allow her for her maintenance and support either as alimony or otherwise. And it is a more generous allowance than such as would be appropriated if based on Harry Thaw's income or if measured by her station in life."

When Col. Bartlett was asked about the report that Evelyn Thaw would seek to have herself appointed a conservator of Thaw's person and property he said:

"You may say as coming from Mrs. William Thaw and her family that if such application should be made it would be opposed."

MICHIGAN BARS PIPE AND BOWL.

Faculty Order for Dissolution of Sophomore Club Follows Rowdyism of Members.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 26.—[Special.]—The university senate today passed sentence of death on Pipe and Bowl, the sophomore convivial club, and expelled two students for pranks following the club's initiation of freshmen Saturday night.

John Van Brunt of Kansas City and Thomas Wanty of Grand Rapids were arrested early Sunday morning while in possession of a red lantern that ought to have been back downtown warning drivers away from a hole in the pavement. They were fined $50 by Justice Doty.

Hailed before the faculty today, they said their stunt with the lantern was part of an initiation program. Their suspension for one year, with the loss of this semester's credits, was decreed. President Angell then issued an order for the immediate dissolution of Pipe and Bowl.

Third Gas Victim Dies.

George Roberts Jr. died yesterday from the effects of illuminating gas, which killed his father and sister at their home, 3544 Harvard avenue, last Sunday. William Roberts and Benjamin Roberts are still in a critical condition at St. Anthony's hospital. The former is reported to have little chance of recovery.

GOTHAM'S RECOUNT FOR MAYOR TODAY

Secrets of Four and Maybe Five Ballot Boxes to Be Revealed.

LOBSTERS GO TO EUROPE.

Three Hundred American (Sea) Species Will Add Nocturnal Disquiet There.

NEW YORK BUREAU CHICAGO TRIBUNE.
New York, May 26.

Justice Lambert decided today that the ballot boxes may be opened in the Hearst proceedings to oust Mayor McClellan. Four boxes will be inspected and their contents recounted and recanvassed in part 18 of the Supreme court tomorrow morning. The boxes will be from the Second election district of the Sixth assembly district, and the Seventh, Eighth, and Tenth election districts of the Eighth assembly district. A ballot box from the Seventeenth election district of the Second assembly district may be inspected tomorrow also.

Recount in Mayoralty Fight Today.

Justice Lambert decided that all objections interposed by counsel for Mayor McClellan against opening any ballot box were untenable, and that the objection raised by the corporation counsel against the subpœna duces tecum, directing John T. Dooling, president of the board of elections, to produce the ballot boxes in court, was not worthy of consideration.

The American lobster, having been discovered by the epicures of Germany who occasionally visit these shores, is going abroad to induce nocturnal disturbances in royal circles and circumferences. Three hundred lobsters fresh from the ocean beds down east are aboard the steamship Kaiser Wilhelm II., which sailed today for Bremen.

800 Lobsters—Sea Species—Off to Europe.

The lobsters are in a big tank on the sun deck. They will go directly to their consignee in Bremen, who will distribute them to his royal and other patrons.

In another tank on the Kaiser are 200 frogs of the best and fattest American kind, consigned to a breeder in Bavaria, who is going to cultivate the Yankee kind of bull and cow frog in preference to the frogs of effete monarchies, not to mention the République Française.

The Metropolitan Museum of Art is to be the scene of the next winter exhibition of the best there is in modern German art. Arrangements for the exhibition are complete, and Emperor William has officially sanctioned the exhibition. The objects to be exhibited will consist of paintings and sculpture in marble and bronze. The proposal of the German government to give this exhibition was transmitted to the trustees of the Metropolitan museum by Karl Buens, German consul general in New York. It was unanimously accepted by the trustees, and the exhibition probably will be held next December.

Kaiser Sanctions Art Display.

Ground was broken today for the Maxine Elliott theater, Miss Elliott herself wielding the spade and pick that marked the commencement of work. When the theater is completed Miss Elliott will be installed as manager of the playhouse, which is in Thirty-ninth street, west of Sixth avenue. She will be the first woman manager here since the days of Laura Keene.

Railway Storekeepers Banquet.

A dinner, which was one event of the convention of the organization now in session, was held by the Railway Storekeepers' association in the Congress hotel last evening. J. H. Waterman of Lincoln, Neb., acted as toastmaster and the address of welcome was delivered by President J. M. Taylor of Chicago. Among those who responded to toasts were W. F. Goltra, Hugh M. Wilson, and C. B. Foster.

HULL OF MICHIGAN LAUNCHED

America's Nearest Approach to Dreadnought Over Half Done.

READY FOR USE IN A YEAR.

Great Fighting Ship to Carry 51 Officers, 758 Men.

Camden, N. J., May 26.—Into the waters of the Delaware river, on whose shores so many ships of the "new navy" have been built, was launched today the great steel hull of what will be the formidable battleship Michigan.

Built by the New York Shipbuilding company at South Camden, the Michigan, a sister ship to the South Carolina, under construction at the Cramps' shipyard on the Philadelphia side of the Delaware, is more than 50 per cent completed, and will be turned over to the government in about a year.

Miss Newberry the Sponsor.

The sponsor was Miss Carol Barnes Newberry of Detroit, daughter of Assistant Secretary Newberry. Following the launching the guests were entertained at luncheon by the officials of the company. Toasts were drunk to the president, the secretary, and assistant secretary of the navy, the sponsor, and the battleship.

The Michigan comes closer to the Dreadnought class of warships than any other fighting vessel in the American navy. It will carry eight twelve inch breech loading rifles. Its length on load water line is 450 feet; its extreme breadth, eighty feet; draft, 24 feet 6 inches; and coal bunker capacity, 2,200 tons.

Crew: 51 Officers, 758 Men.

The main battery will include two submerged torpedo tubes and the secondary battery twenty-two 3 inch (fourteen pounder) rapid fire guns, two three pounder semi-automatic guns, eight 1 inch semi-automatic guns, two 3 inch field pieces, and four machine guns of 0.30 caliber.

The hull is of steel throughout. The contract calls for a sustained speed of eighteen and a half knots an hour for four consecutive hours.

The hull will be protected on the water line by a belt of armor eight feet wide, having a thickness of eleven inches throughout the machinery spaces and twelve inches at the magazine spaces. For eight feet above the main belt will be the casemate armor, eight inches thick at the top to 10 inches thick at the bottom.

The propelling engines will be of the vertical twin screw, four cylinder, triple expansion type, of a combined indicated horse power of 16,500. The crew will consist of 51 officers and 758 men.

METHODISTS FILL BOARD OF BISHOPS

Electing Lewis, Hughes, McIntyre, and Bristol Ends Conference's Main Work.

TO DEBATE ON DANCING.

Motion to Consider Discipline Section Postponed for Action by Full Attendance.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Baltimore, Md., May 26.—[Special.]—The Methodist conference today completed its board of bishops by the election of four men, President W. S. Lewis of Morningside college, Iowa; President Hughes of De Pauw university, Indiana; the Rev. Dr. Robert McIntyre of Los Angeles, Cal., and the Rev. Dr. Frank M. Bristol of Washington, D. C.

Lewis and Hughes were chosen on the fifteenth ballot by votes respectively of 524 and 511. McIntyre was elected on the sixteenth ballot by 544 votes and Bristol on the eighteenth by 493 votes. The present residences and ages of the eight new Methodist bishops are as follows:

WILLIAM F. ANDERSON, New York, aged 69.

JOHN L. NUELSON, Berea, O., aged 42.

WILLIAM A. QUAYLE, Chicago, aged 46.

CHARLES W. SMITH, Pittsburg, aged 67.

WILSON S. LEWIS, Sioux City, Ia., aged 51.

EDWIN H. HUGHES, Greencastle, Ind., aged 41.

ROBERT McINTYRE, Los Angeles, Cal., aged 57.

FRANK M. BRISTOL, Washington, D. C., aged 56.

Of the eight men only three were serving as pastors when elected—Quayle, McIntyre, and Bristol. Anderson, Smith, and Hughes, however, have spent most of their lives in the pastorate, and it is said no general conference ever before elected four men of such acknowledged platform ability as Quayle, Hughes, McIntyre, and Bristol, each of whom has a national reputation for his oratorical power.

McIntyre Once Bricklayer.

The career of Dr. McIntyre is one of the most picturesque in the history of Methodism. In his early manhood he followed the trade of a bricklayer, and how he built with his own hands the first church of which he was pastor is familiar to most Methodists.

Possessing a most attractive pulpit personality, he soon grew in demand, and, instead of building plain edifices for himself, was selected to fill costly churches erected by congregations of wealth. He was the first pastor of the expensive Trinity church, Denver, leaving that to become the first pastor of the new St. James church, Chicago, and going thence to serve the new magnificent church at Los Angeles.

For the last twelve years Dr. McIntyre has been mentioned in connection with the episcopacy, but after his failure of election four years ago at the convention in his own city many of his admirers despaired of his ever attaining the office. Only those who knew how deeply the prize of the episcopacy, with its modest salary and heavy labors, appeals to ministers could understand why Dr. McIntyre, beloved by his Los Angeles congregation and privileged, probably, to preach there to great crowds for years to come, arrived in Baltimore entertaining the fond hope of attaining the episcopal goal. As he was escorted to the bishop's stage there was a great demonstration by the audience.

Bristol Formerly of Chicago.

When the ballot was read out announcing the election of Dr. Bristol the latter wept, the first of the bishops elect whose thankfulness displayed itself in this manner. The choice of Dr. Bristol, who was formerly pastor of Trinity church, Chicago, was not reached until after 6 p. m. Drs. Lewis and Hughes had been chosen on the ballot announced at 1 o'clock, Dr. McIntyre leading the others on this ballot with 481, while Dr. Bristol came next with 396.

Then the convention reassembled at 5 o'clock to hear the report of the sixteenth ballot, on which Dr. McIntyre was chosen, while Dr. Bristol stood second with 428 votes. The Washington minister lost four votes on the seventeenth ballot, which was taken and quickly counted, but on the eighteenth gained sixty-nine and was elected.

The conference then adjourned at once and tomorrow will take up the election of church secretaries and editors. The candidacy for the latter was greatly affected by the elections for the episcopacy, the chances of some men being helped and those of others defeated by the results for the episcopacy.

Shepard May Head De Pauw.

Had Dr. E. G. Downey of the Sunday school board been elected bishop, as it appeared he would be, Dr. W. O. Shepard of Chicago stood an excellent chance of being elected Dr. Downey's successor. It is reported tonight that Dr. Shepard is being seriously considered as the successor of Dr. Hughes as president of De Pauw university, whence Dr. Shepard graduated in 1885.

It is understood that Bishop-elect Lewis has followed the example set by Bishop Bashford four years ago and has been requested to be sent to China so that he and Bishop Bashford probably will assume these stations, which formerly were regarded as so undesirable. In this event Dr. Bristol, as the last bishop chosen at this conference, will inherit the South American assignment at Buenos Ayres, recently held by Bishop Neeley.

Bishop-elect McIntyre, it is believed, will be located at New Orleans, where his persuasive and graceful oratory may, it is thought, attract the friendship of many southern people, who in the past have given no attention to the Methodist Episcopal church of the north.

Card Playing Motion Tabled.

Consideration of section 248 of the church discipline, which forbids members to play cards, dance, or attend theaters, was almost forced upon the conference at an unexpected moment today. Dr. Henry Wade Rogers of Yale university offered a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to determine the constitutionality of section 248.

There were immediate and vehement protests, and Dr. Rogers' resolution seemed in a fair way to succeed until Dr. J. M. Buckley advocated postponement.

"Let us have a fair and square debate on this question," said he, "and not settle it by referring it to a committee of fifteen men. They are only human. This paragraph has stood in the discipline thirty-six years, and we should not try to get rid of it at this late day by questioning its constitutionality. If there are enough votes to retain it, it will be retained. If there are enough votes to get rid of it, we will get rid of it."

Dr. Buckley's advice was heeded, and the resolution was tabled.

An attempt to renew the local option debate was only staved off by urgent appeal of Gov. Hanly to stand by yesterday's action. A resolution protesting against the use of liquors at all state and national functions was carried.

KNOX PRESIDENT IS HONORED.

Peoria, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—The sixty-fifth annual meeting of the General Congregational association of Illinois was called to order at the First Congregational church by the Rev. R. W. Patton, retiring moderator, here this morning, and the election of his successor followed. Thomas McClelland, president of Knox college, Galesburg, was elected moderator; the Rev. Arthur Francis of Chicago, scribe, and Dr. Frank Lewis of Chillicothe, assistant scribe. The sessions today were devoted to the discussion of practical progress in Sunday school work, and addresses were made by Clement L. Clapp, Chicago; Miss Amelia Hofer, Chicago commons; Herbert W. Gates, Y. M. C. A., Chicago; the Rev. O. C. Helming, Chicago, and others.

Not a pair of shoes in our store is even as low-grade as mediocre. Every pair—for either men or women—at any of our various prices—is ready to give a degree of service far out of proportion to the difference in cost over ordinary shoes.

And we sell shoes as low as $6—which in many stores is cheerfully paid (once) for shoes inferior in every material sense, as well as deficient in elegance of contour and authority of fashion.

CONGRESS AGREES ON CURRENCY BILL

Conferees Complete Emergency Measure for Submission to Two Houses.

DEMOCRATS TO BE GOOD.

Supporters Believe Now Passage Can Be Obtained by Next Friday.

may secure circulation without joining any clearing house association and without imposing any guarantee on the associated banks. It has the privilege of depositing direct with the treasurer of the United States state, municipal, county, or district bonds from a public corporation which has been in existence for a period of ten years, which has not defaulted in the payment of either principal or interest for the ten years last past, and whose net funded indebtedness does not exceed 10 per cent of the valuation of its taxable property. With such bonds as security, the individual bank may receive circulation to a maximum of 90 per cent of the value of the securities.

Under the compromise agreed upon by the conferees a distinction is thus created between public bonds and all other securities. When such public bonds are used by a bank in a clearing house association the circulation based upon them will be only 75 per cent of the market value, they being included on the same basis as all other bank assets. When deposited direct with the treasurer of the United States they will be good for 90 per cent. Commercial paper can be used as a basis for circulation, of course, only through the intervention of a clearing house association, but the public bonds are given a double preference in the way of the proportion of the circulation and in their being permitted to be used by individual banks dealing direct with the treasury.

Public Bonds Are Favored.

It is the opinion of men on both sides that this preference will have a good effect upon the states and municipalities. Securities of this class where the total funded debt does not exceed 10 per cent of the taxable valuation of the property and where there have been no defaults for ten years, have a stable value as investment securities, and it is generally recognized that it will be a simple matter for the treasury officials to fix a market value, so that the 90 per cent limit will fully protect the government against any possible fluctuation. Bonds of this character have been favored as genuine investments, and many of them are held by savings banks and trust companies. Only about $60,000,000 of them are in the hands of the national banks now, but they could be borrowed for circulation purposes if it became necessary.

Automatic Security Provided.

In point of fact, experts believe that practically all the operations of the new currency law will be conducted through the national clearing houses, which are provided. In that case the municipal bonds, railroad bonds, and general commercial paper would theoretically stand on the same basis. In point of fact, the clearing houses would as a matter of self-protection insist on getting the best assets each bank could produce. Inasmuch as all the banks in the association are liable for the circulation issued by each, the executive committee will of course see to it that the best kind of security is deposited and if they know a bank has municipal bonds, will be apt to call for them in place of doubtful security.

There are in existence bonds of the states and local public corporations amounting to a billion or two, but not all of these will be available for circulation by individual banks outside the clearing house, because of the limitations which are thrown about this class of security.

Strictly Emergency Money.

In agreeing upon a basis of compromise the conferees, who were all republicans, it should be understood, were impressed with the necessity of making it clearly evident that the circulation provided is to be strictly of an emergency character; they, therefore, agreed upon an original tax of 5 per cent, increasing from month to month, so as to force the notes out of circulation when the pressing necessity for their use ceases. At the same time, it was deemed desirable to impress upon the country the opinion of congress that this legislation is for emergencies only, and is in no sense a makeshift attempt at permanent currency reform. For this reason the conferees agreed to limit the operation of the law to three years. The compromise provides for a currency commission, and it is intended that this commission shall actually do some work, being hastened by the necessity of getting a permanent law on the statute books before the emergency law expires by limitation.

Politicians Are Jubilant.

The republican leaders are jubilant tonight at the prospect of the actual passage of a currency law at this session of congress. They believe it is the one great issue on which they can go before the country in the next campaign. They expect the democrats to call the financial stringency of last October a republican panic, and they will respond with a demonstration that the republicans in congress promptly sized up the situation and have applied the remedy which will prevent any panic in the future, so far as an abundance of money can do so. With this measure on the statute books, if a panicky condition develops next fall before the election the republicans will be in a position to declare that it is caused by commercial conditions entirely outside of politics, and that congress has done everything any man could expect to strengthen the banks and commercial interests generally.

MILLIONS PAID FOR PRINTING.

Committee's Report on Government Shop Blames Congress for Recent Scandal.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—By direction of the joint printing investigation committee of the senate and house there was today submitted to congress the report of the subcommittee which has been investigating affairs in the government printing office, an investigation which resulted in the suspension and subsequent resignation of Public Printer Stillings.

The report says:

"Upon the strength of the committee's recommendation the president suspended the public printer. The action taken by the president at the instance of the committee effected a saving of nearly $40,000 through the termination of the audit system contract."

The subcommittee criticises the audit system severely and recommends placing a limitation in each appropriation bill which will prevent expenditures exceeding the estimates submitted by the public printer. After calling attention to the magnitude of the financial responsibility placed upon the public printer as instanced by the fact that the total resources of the government printing office from 1900 to 1908 amounted to over $54,000,000, the report proceeds: "Recent experience has demonstrated that most of the serious errors of administration which have occurred would have been avoided if closer supervision had been exercised by congress over the conduct of the office."

M'GAVIN AND SABATH WIN.

House of Representatives Decides Chicago Contest, Favoring Sitting Members.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—In the contested election case of Kuntz against McGavin, Eighth Illinois district, and of Michalek against Sabath, Fifth Illinois district, the house today, by unanimous vote, agreed to resolutions favoring the sitting members, Messrs. McGavin and Sabath.

DIVIDED ON PAPER REPORT

Committee Members Disagree as to Cause of High Prices.

DEMOCRATS BLAME TARIFF.

Difference of Opinion as to Effect of Greater Cost of Labor.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—The select committee of the house of representatives appointed to investigate the paper industry and make recommendations as to congressional action on the allegations concerning the unduly high price of that product to publishers labored hard on its report today with the expectation of delivering it to the house. It was asserted by one of the members of the committee tonight that the report would be made tomorrow.

Acting purely upon the evidence and testimony submitted, the entire committee will agree that there has been no combination in restraint of trade on the part of the paper manufacturers, although there are suspicious indications that such a combination does exist. As to the direct cause of the high price for paper at present imposed upon publishers there probably will be a division of opinion as between the republican and democratic members of the committee. The majority assert that it is due mainly to the cost of pulp wood and an increase in wages attendant upon the general prosperity of the country.

Tariff Rates to Blame?

The two democratic members have found that the tariff rates of $6 a ton on print paper and $1.67 a ton on wood pulp have operated directly in every instance in raising the price of paper to consumers, and in separate recommendations Messrs. Sims and Ryan will make to congress they will advise immediate action in the line of abolishing the duty on the two commodities.

The recommendations of the republican members of the committee will be milder in form and of such a general nature that reduction or removal of the duty at the present time will not be advised, one of the main reasons for which, of course, being the finding by the committee of the alleged fact that the price of print paper to publishers has "softened" or lessened somewhat since the commencement of the investigation a month ago, and indications that there will be still further reduction.

It is reported that part of the findings will show that profits in the newspaper business have decreased greatly during the last year and that an average of a page and a half of advertisements a day have been lost by each newspaper. This fact will be used by the committee in showing that the price of print paper did not commence to become oppressive until these reductions in profits began to occur

Disagree as to Labor Cost.

There is a difference of opinion among committee members as to the increased cost of labor in the paper industry, the democratic members claiming that owing to the increased efficiency of machinery and multiplication of labor saving devices the cost has remained practically the same, although wages have advanced slightly.

The diminished demand for paper owing to the depression in the newspaper business, will be advanced as one of the reasons why its price is assuming a lower level at present and why there should be no tampering with the tariff.

SENATE SWITCHES WATERWAYS BILL

Upper House Calls What They Term President's Bluff at Resource Conference.

NO HOPE OF PASSAGE.

Senator Newlands Vainly Tries to Get $20,000 Expense Item Through This Week.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—Although the leaders of congress were not destined to register a correct guess as to the date of closing up the mills of legislation, they really ceased to grind as nearly on the date that had been picked for adjournment as could be imagined.

The senate this week is marking time and waiting for the currency bill and the house is taking a slow gait on the few remaining bills. The bars are up as regards any other legislation. The inland waterways commission will not be created by law for some time to come in view of the fact that a bill to that effect failed to reach the senate in time to crawl into the arena with the rest of the legislation that was admitted in the last few hours allotted by the leaders.

Senator Newlands, who reported the bill for the continuance of the waterways commission, and providing $20,000 for the general expenses of that body, is sitting in the senate nursing a vain hope that his bill may be slipped in and passed quietly.

No Hope at All for Bill.

The bill passed the house last week, and has been reported favorably to the senate., yet it has no more show of becoming a law than has a bill to organize a government trip to Mars. The general excuse for not passing the bill, given by the senate, is a remark made by President Roosevelt during the conference of governors concerning the conservation of natural resources a fortnight ago, in which he intimated that if congress would not continue the waterways commission he would look to that small detail himself.

In the senate it is a case of calling Mr. Roosevelt's bluff as far as the unfriendly senators are concerned.

Strange enough, it has been the president's belief ever since the governors' conference, when he made the celebrated remark, that it was that expression which set the wheels of congress to running and almost immediately turned out a waterways bill at each end of the capitol.

House Passed Bill at Once.

The house did not seem to mind the president's little pleasantry in regard to keeping the waterways commission going, and almost immediately passed the bill. It is known the president immediately acquired the idea that his small association as to his intentions had started the machinery in favor of the bill, and, therefore, he was glad he made it. At last accounts the president was feeling quite sanguine over having his waterways advisers made into a legal commission and given an expense account.

The senate, however, took the remark directly to heart, and when the bill showed up there was a black mark placed against it by those senators who take unto themselves the rôle of official censors of legislation, and it was at once a doomed project.

PRESBYTERIANS END BIG FIGHT

Assembly Retains Committee on Executive Commission.

HEAR STELZLE ON SOCIALISM

Cincinnati Man Wants Colleges to Oust Freelove Teachers.

BY THE REV. S. S. GILSON.

Kansas City, Mo., May 26.—[Special.]—The Rev. Dr. James D. Moffat, ex-moderator of the Presbyterian General assembly and President of Washington and Jefferson college, today before the present general assembly saved his committee on executive commission from discharge and secured the adoption of his entire report. This ended the sensational fight of the assembly that continued with increasing spirit until a vote was taken.

When a member of the assembly moved to discharge the committee of twenty-one on executive commission and appoint a new committee, a motion unprecedented in the assembly, the delegates became excited. The Rev. Dr. R. V. Hunter of Buffalo, N. Y., said:

"Some of us feel that we are passing too much power into the hands of a few men."

The Rev. Dr. John R. Davies of Philadelphia said:

"We are burdening the church to the danger point with expense for those new committees and the people are complaining."

At this point Dr. Moffat, in a skillful speech, won over the voters, and the committee was continued for another year. The majority of the presbyteries have voted for the executive commission, and the assembly is to pay its expenses.

Offers Remedy for Anarchy.

The Rev. Charles E. Stelzle of Chicago addressed the assembly on the perils of anarchy and socialism and insisted that it is the duty of the church to send missionaries among the foreigners who come to this country. Mr. Stelzle is of the opinion that education of the aliens in the opportunities offered them in America, if they knew where and how to find them, would materially aid in reducing the desolation, poverty, and discontent that, he says, breed anarchy and socialism.

"The surest way to protect our institutions against anarchy and socialism," said Mr. Stelzle, "is to evangelize the foreigners."

The Rev. Dr. William C. Covert of Chicago reviewed the work of the home mission board in the United States and colonies. His report showed great progress for the year.

Doesn't Like Free Love Men.

Dr. William McKibbin of Cincinnati said that the college teachers must be men of the right character.

"I do not subscribe to the belief that there is any affinity between learning and impiety," he said. He said there was a university instructor in Cincinnati "who teaches philosophy in the classroom and free love outside." "We do not want that kind of men in our colleges," he said.

Dr. McKibbin said he had only kind words for the state universities, as many of them were under the control of Christian men. "But we must stand by the Christian college," he said, "and we will force the state university to impress the students with a Christian life."

Oak Park Veal Victims All Well.

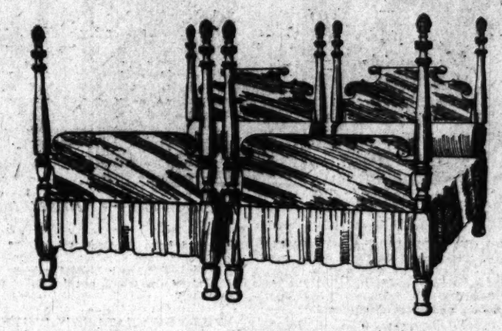

All the 100 victims of poisoning which resulted from the annual banquet of the First Methodist church of Oak Park last Friday evening have so far recovered as to be able to go about their work. As a result of the incident there has developed in Oak Park a strong agitation in favor of closer inspection of meats.

Deal Gently with the Bowels—Don't be Harsh

Some people say, "Cascarets are too gentle. I need a strong physic."

The trouble is this: They have taken harsh physic until their bowels are calloused.

Nature has caused the bowel linings to harden—to resist the attacks of harsh pills

And the bowels fail in their natural functions while that hardness exists.

In such cases, take Cascarets oftener—one tablet night and morning.

Cascarets won't irritate. They are as gentle and natural as a laxative food.

Soon the bowel lining grows soft again, and begins to resume its functions.

Then one Cascaret a day is enough; and a little later you need none.

For Cascarets cure the bowels. They bring back the natural action. They heal what physics destroy.

No harsher laxative can be used without injury, and none is ever necessary.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure to get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The box is marked like this:

Cascarets

The vest-pocket box is 10 cents. The month-treatment box 50 cents. 12,000,000 boxes sold annually.

MAY PROVE ALIBI IN CHINESE CASE.

Attorneys Expect to Show Harry Lee Was Writing at Time of Murder.

OFFER WAI'S STATEMENT.

Two Countrymen Testify for the State, but Evidence Is Not Damaging.

The proceedings in the trial of Harry Lee, Christian, who with Moy Dong Hoy and Moy Dong Chew is accused of murdering Chin Wai at 305 South Clark street on Oct. 16 last, sounded like the menu of a Chinese restaurant in Judge Chytraus' court yesterday. Wah Ling, state's witness, through an interpreter, told of conversations which he alleged he had heard between Chin Wai and Moy Dong Hoy in which Moy Dong Hoy urged Chin Wai to join the On Leong Tong, or Chinese Merchants' association, previous to the shooting.

Wah Ling failed to furnish any damaging testimony against the defendants. He said that in a store at 119 South Clark street he heard Chin Wai say:

"I can't join now; I can't afford it."

To this Moy Dong Hoy, according to the witness, responded:

"If you don't join the On Leong Tong now you will want to get in later and will be unable to do so."

The witness did not testify that Moy Dong Hoy made any threats on the occasion.

Policeman Testifies.

Earlier in the day Policeman Thomas Stitt testified that Harry Lee, when brought to Chin Wai's bedside in the Chicago Emergency hospital, was identified by Chin Wai as one of the men who shot him.

"We asked Wai whether Lee was one of the men who had shot him and he replied 'Yes,'" said the policeman. "He said that he was positive that he was one of the men."

Policeman Stitt was corroborated by Policeman Martin McTighe, Patrick Deehan, William Havern, and James A. Fitzpatrick.

Persons in the street told them that one of Wai's assailants had fled into the basement of Moy brothers' store, an alleged Chinese gambling house at 323 South Clark street. Policeman McTighe said that when he entered the basement he found a white man putting up stovepipe.

"We found Lee later in a room on the second floor which he could have reached by climbing a small stairway from the basement," said McTighe.

To Introduce Dying Statement.

Assistant State's Attorney George M. Popham attempted to introduce Wai's dying statement, but attorneys for the defense objected, saying that it could not be put in at this time. Mr. Popham declared that he will introduce it before the case goes to the jury.

The attorneys for the defense say they will present five white men and six Chinamen to testify that Harry Lee was writing a letter at the time of the murder. They declare that Yung Sue, a fugitive from justice, is the man really wanted.

Harry Lee, who is a member of the Eighth Presbyterian church, was encouraged by the presence in court of Presbyterian mission workers and women of the church who are interested in him and believe him innocent. The jury in the case is considered an unusually intelligent one. Already jurors have indicated the close attention they are paying to the case by rising in the jury box and questioning witnesses on points that have not been clear to them.

Rival Societies at War.

The shooting of Chin Wai is declared to have been the result of strife in Chicago's Chinatown between members of On Leong Tong and a rival organization. Moy Dong Chew, better known as Hip Lung, was the head of the On Leong Tong, made up of the wealthiest Chinese merchants in Chicago. He is accused of having used his influence to rid himself of Wai, who was known to have been the bitter enemy of his tong and Hip Lung's gambling house.

Moy Dong Chew and his brother, Moy Dong Hoy, are charged with hiring Harry Lee and Yung Sue. Sue is said to have invited Wai to have a cigar with him and so lured him to the place where he was shot.

Another Chinese Testifies.

The trial was delayed in the afternoon by the illness of Attorney Patrick H. O'Donnell, leading counsel for the defendants. Only one witness was heard. He was Wah Lint, who said that he believed in "Mah" as his God, but when asked whether he wished to take the regular oath he consented. He said that he had been taught Christianity in San Francisco, but when he was asked the name of God's son he replied that he had forgotten.

Lint told of overhearing a conversation between the Hoys and Chin Wai, in which Hoy told Wai that if he didn't join the tong "they would get him."

There were some arguments between Mr. O'Donnell and Mr. Popham as to who should be appointed interpreter for the court. Chin Kew of Brooklyn, N. Y., who is the official government interpreter in New York, was brought here especially by the state, but the defense objected, declaring that he had assisted the prosecution in preparing its cases. Judge Chytraus ruled that he be allowed to act.

Bessie McCoy and Whitney Chorus Girls to Appear at Hospital Benefit.

BENEFIT WEEK HALF OVER

Matinee Today Marks Middle of Unique Series of Performances.

AID TO SUMMER HOSPITAL.

Special Features Added Between Acts of "His Honor the Mayor."

Sale of seats for the huge benefit performances to be given by "His Honor the Mayor" company at the Auditorium theater every day this week in aid of "The Tribune" summer hospital and free ice fund is now in progress. Tickets may be purchased at room 336 Tribune building, at the Auditorium box office, or at any of "The Tribune" "ad" agencies.

SCALE OF PRICES.

Evening performances—75 cents, 50 cents, and 25 cents. Box seats, $1.

Matinee performances (Wednesday, Saturday, and Sunday)—50 cents and 25 cents. Box seats, $1.

Orders by letter should be accompanied by check made payable to F. H. Rawson, treasurer.

Only six more performances.

With the end of the matinée performance of "His Honor the Mayor" this afternoon the first half of the unique Tribune ice fund and summer hospital benefit series at the Auditorium theater will be completed, and with it one-half of your opportunity will be gone.

Those who have taken advantage of the big benefit programs during the first half of the week will tell you that never before in the history of Chicago theatricals has so generous a measure of summer entertainment been offered at prices so low. Not benefit prices; not even the scale prevailing at the other Chicago theaters; but a midseason entertainment at the summeriest of summer garden admission fees.

And every dime, quarter, and half dollar received at the box office, at The Tribune building or at any of THE TRIBUNE want ad offices, where tickets are on sale, means just so much more toward a summer outing out on the bank of the Fox river for some tenement baby.

Extra Features at Every Performance.

This isn't all, either. As announced before, each performance for the remainder of the week in addition to the complete program of "His Honor the Mayor," with Harry Kelly, Trixie Friganza, and the rest, will include one of the best features of the successes now playing at the other Chicago theaters.

This afternoon, at the second "bargain" matinée of the series, Gertrude Des Roche, the winsome comedienne, who charmed her audiences a week or two ago at the Majestic, will present a vaudeville sketch, including several songs, which are new to the Chicago public, and several more which established her success in vaudeville. Miss Des Roche is one of the most charming little personalities on the stage. She has offered her services for the afternoon as her contribution in aid of THE TRIBUNE'S summer charities.

The evening performance will include another special feature, arrangements for which were not complete last evening. And at each of the performances during the remainder of the week the same policy will be maintained. On Friday evening Bessie McCoy and the Whitney opera house chorus will present "The Yama Yama Man," the song hit of "Three Twins." At another performance Adele Rowland of the "Miss Hook of Holland" company will sing several songs in her inimitably comical fashion, and at others, other features, to be announced later, will be introduced.

New Song to Be Interpolated.

Another novelty to be introduced at each of the performances during the latter part of the week is a new comedy song, "A Cosy Little Flat," written by Rosemond McDonald and published by Victor Kremer. The music has been arranged for a full orchestra by Banks Cregier especially for THE TRIBUNE benefit, and the song will be interpolated by Miss Trixie Friganza, co-star with Harry Kelly in "His Honor the Mayor." For the benefit of THE TRIBUNE charities copies of the song will be sold in the audience.

Still another feature of the remaining performances will be the introduction of the song "Good-Morning, Judge," composed by Victor Smalley and Bernie Adler, the authors of "The Merry Widower," "Follies of 1908," and other musical comedy successes produced recently at the Pekin theater.

Messrs. Smalley and Adler, who have proved their ability recently by making an astonishing success of their eccentric "Lovin' Rag," have offered to sell copies of "Good-Morning, Judge," at the Auditorium during the remainder of the week, the proceeds of the sale to be devoted to THE TRIBUNE summer hospital and free ice fund.

BOMB SCARE CLOSES SCHOOL

Panic in the Ghetto Causes 1,700 Pupils to Be Dismissed.

ITALIAN PAPER IS BLAMED.

Fears of "Black Hand" Dynamite Plots Is Reported to Be Increasing.

The "Black Hand" scare in the Ghetto district assumed so serious an aspect yesterday that 1,700 pupils were dismissed from one school in the middle of the afternoon exercises.

Principal William Hedges of the Jackson school, Sholto and Better streets, took this action rather than continue his school exercises with his pupils, their faces blanched with terror, expecting every moment to be blown up. The scare, which is only one of a score the school has experienced, began in the morning when a story was circulated to the effect that a large pit had been dug under the building and filled with dynamite, which representatives of the "Black Hand" were to touch off late in the afternoon.

As the day progressed the pupils became increasingly restless and at intervals excited mothers would rush into the building, demanding their children. Half an hour after the afternoon exercises began Principal Hedges saw that the reassurances of the teachers were unavailing and decided to dismiss the school.

Blames Italian Paper.

"It was the only thing I could do," he said afterwards. "Conditions seem to be growing worse instead of better. An Italian paper the other day published what was said to be a Black Hand threat against the school children, and that, I understand, started the trouble."

It is probable the Italian paper in question will be investigated by the police, who are trying to quiet the panic. Assistant Supt. of Schools Roberts has sent a bulletin to principals and teachers in the Ghetto district, instructing them to talk to their pupils daily and do everything possible to reassure them.

Sue for an Injunction.

As the result of an agreement reached at a morning conference between President Schneider, Corporation Counsel Brundage, and Building Commissioner Downey the school board filed suit in the afternoon for an injunction restraining the city from closing school buildings because of failure to comply with the old state fire escape law.

The law, which was passed in the early '90s, requires one escape for every fifty occupants of a building above the second story. Commissioner Downey has threatened to enforce the law unless an injunction is issued to prevent him, and has urged the school authorities to have the matter cleared up by the courts. The school board contends that under present building conditions the enforcement of the law is a physical impossibility.

CURE BY CUTICURA AT CITY MISSION

Young Woman Found in Awful Condition with Scabies—Body a Mass of Sores from Scratching—Tried Many Remedies for Seven Weeks—Result Was Discouraging, But

ITCHING TORTURES YIELDED TO CUTICURA

"While I was doing missionary work in the lower portion of several cities I found it necessary to know a little of the efficacy of a few medicines and after a while I found that a little knowledge of Cuticura was about all I needed. One of the very bad cases I had to deal with was that of a young woman who had come to us not only broken in spirit but in a most awful condition physically. Our doctor examined her and told us that she had scabies (the itch), incipient paresis, rheumatism, etc., brought on from exposure and the effects of her ragged-edged life. Her poor body was a mass of sores from scratching and she was not able to retain solid food. We tried many things, a good tonic was prescribed and baths with a rubbing of lard and sulphur. We worked hard for seven weeks and you can imagine how discouraged we were when, after all that time, we could see so little improvement. One day I happened to see a Cuticura advertisement telling how a little baby had been cured of a bad case of skin eruption, and although I had but ninety-seven cents with me, I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a bottle of Cuticura Resolvent. When I reached home I was like a child with a new toy, and we bathed our patient well and gave her a full dose of the Resolvent. She slept that night better than she had since she had been with us and the next day I located the price of a box of Cuticura Ointment. I am not exaggerating when I say that in exactly five weeks this young woman was able to look for a position, being strong enough to work and full of ambition. In another month she left the home, and now has a good position in a nice family where she is respected and is strong and well. You may refer any one you wish to me, personally. Laura Jane Bates, 85 Fifth Ave., New York, N. Y., Mar. 11, 1907."

WEDNESDAY, MAY 27, 1908.

DON'T all speak at once for the vice presidency.

PLEASE remember that the vice presidency is the only office that ever gets a chance to seek the man.

A LACK of time* prevents congress from inflicting the punishment it is aching to inflict upon the paper trust.

*Not in the sense that time is money.

GOV. JOHNSON is confident he will get the vote of Illinois at the Denver convention. This classifies Gov. Johnson. He is one of the minions of predatory wealth.

MANY years ago L. U. Reavis wrote a book on "St. Louis, the Future Great City of the World." According to his calculations, which were based on undeniable facts and figures, that city was to have a population of several millions by this time, and it is reprehensible in the highest degree that St. Louis has obstinately refused to grow up to his predictions.

THE BIRTHDAY OF MRS. HOWE.

In Beacon street they are celebrating, and the celebration should be taken up in every one of the ninety or more millions of American hearts. For the author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" is 89 today.

It was in almost the darkest hour of the nation's agony that Julia Ward Howe gave to the northern cause the inspired poem by which she has won an immortality. It meant more than we can now measure that almost at the outset the doggerel of "John Brown's Body" was followed by the uplifting thoughts and Hebraic fervor of the battle hymn. And it has remained and will remain in our American poetry as the one exalted poetic expression born of the civil war.

Nearly half a century has passed since, on the morning after her visit to the union camps near the capital, Mrs. Howe wrote the battle hymn. The wounds that were then in the making are healed. The nation is more than ever one. But we have need as much as ever of the passionate patriotism that blazes from its proud marching lines. New battles are to be fought, though they are battles of peace, and it is fitting the American people resolve on this day to meet them in the spirit that gave us the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and the heroic and self-forgetting deeds of the blue army and the gray.

To Mrs. Howe the American people send their greetings with admiration and affection. May she remain long in the land her fine character and noble activities have graced.

MISCHIEF MAKERS.

Some members of the public library board have a mistaken idea of their duties. They were appointed to look after books, not to regulate street car loops. When they attempt to keep the tracks out of Garland court—which means keeping them in Michigan avenue—they are not only meddling with something which does not concern them but they are blocking to the best of their ability a great public improvement. Michigan avenue should be the connecting boulevard link. To that end the street car tracks which deform it and make travel unsafe must be removed. The city council recognized this when it provided in the Chicago City railway ordinance that the Michigan avenue tracks were to be removed when those in Garland court were constructed and operated.

The consent of one property owner on the west side of Garland court must be had before the track can be laid. Members of the library board, determined to defeat, if possible, the intention of the council and the expectations of the public, have resorted to the extraordinary course of urging property owners not to give their consent. These tactics may be successful for the moment, but cannot prevail in the end. The loop will be through Garland court finally.

The change in route should be made now. Nothing else remains to be done in the reconstruction of the Wabash avenue line. The tracks should be out of Michigan avenue and the new loop in operation by the time the national convention meets. Then the public would have perfect service on that important line. There ought to be at least one property owner on Garland court with sufficient public spirit to give his consent now, so that the work may be completed at once.

AN OUSTED TEACHER.

The University of Cincinnati has taken radical measures for ridding itself of a professor of the distinctly "undesirable" class. The facts in the case seem to be clear. The teacher came to the university without a frank understanding regarding peculiar personal views which had brought about an ending of his career in another institution. By his own published confession he has not been more careful in his instruction because of the former experience. By refusing to tender his resignation when it was demanded by the president he brought upon himself the penalty of dismissal by the trustees.

This is not an instance of interference with so-called "academic freedom." There is no restraint on economic questions owing to the fear of some wealthy donor. There is no attempt to force a certain line of conduct because of established institutional policy. If either of these things were involved there would be many ready to give the ousted teacher strong support.

Instead it is a case where a teacher in one department of an institution has been undermining the foundations not alone of the university but of society as well. In the responsible work of training the young boys and girls he has been unmindful of the recognized relationships of life. By precept and example, if reports be true, he has proved his unworthiness to teach ethics and other branches of philosophy. The university has been patient in the case. It has given the professor abundant time for handing in his resignation. It would have been justified in earlier action in ridding its faculty of such a member.

STATE'S RIGHTS—STATE'S DUTIES.

Imbedded in Secretary Wilson's gratifying report as to the efficiency and adequacy of the federal meat inspection is the following valuable though not novel hint:

> Much of the responsibility for the sale of tubercular and otherwise diseased beeves must be assumed by the individual states. We cannot touch plants which do not transact interstate business, and with tuberculosis on the increase every precaution against its entrance to the markets must be taken.
>
> It would be well if some of the states would pay greater attention to this branch of public protection. Such an increase of caution would aid materially in giving the purchaser a guarantee that his meat is in perfect condition.

The value of these remarks will be fully appreciated by the members of the Men's club of the First Methodist church of Oak Park as soon as they have recovered from the effects of their experience with the unpaternalized calf which formed the pièce de résistance of the club's recent banquet.

Secretary Wilson's words ought not to need such painful emphasis, and yet a good many men throughout the country who are so much alarmed at the uses of federal authority developed recently may need something as violent as ptomaines to bring them to a realization that the best of all ways to check the expansion of federal powers is to exercise state powers to their full and proper extent.

If the state does its duty few appeals to the nation will be necessary. Furthermore, unless the state does its duty the fullest exercise of the federal power will not fully protect the individual.

BATHING PLACES.

The occasional drowning of boys in ponds emphasizes the need of bathing places where the pleasures of the water may be enjoyed under supervision and with safety. The smaller children should have a chance to wade or play with their little boats as all small children love to do. With an extended frontage upon a splendid inland sea, the city affords few opportunities for this type of recreation. That such a condition of things is all wrong needs no argument.

The small parks have satisfied the need to some extent. No one ever visits one of these popular resorts without being impressed with the enthusiasm shown by those who use the wading pools or the deeper tanks for swimming. Particularly in the quarters of the city at some distance from the lake front these advantages are appreciated.

The record of attendance for four months of a recent year showed an aggregate of nearly 800,000 users of the swimming pools in the small parks under the management of the south park board. Making allowance for duplications, it is plainly evident that a large number of people, men and women, boys and girls, find recreation and better health through such wise provisions.

An abandoned quarry hole or a pond made by the accumulated water in some depression will attract the boys of a neighborhood if no other facilities for water sport are available. Remote and unguarded, these accidental "swimming holes" furnish a constant temptation without any of the safeguards which are present in parks or on bathing beaches.

The coming of the warm days makes this an annual problem. As the population of the city increases it will be more and more important. Any consideration of the use of the lake front for the benefit of the people must take this matter into account. There should be abundant bathing facilities where nature itself has been generous. There should be steady development of the small park plan which has accomplished so much for the happiness and health of thousands.

CARS WITH SIDE DOORS.

One of the methods of adding to the capacity of the New York subway specified by Mr. Bion J. Arnold in his recent report is the use of cars with side doors. That would diminish the time needed for loading and unloading. All who have traveled on the local suburban trains of the Illinois Central must have noticed the gain in time because of such cars.

That which would help matters in the subway would help them on the loop of the elevated roads and at their stations off the loop. A sudden replacement of the present rolling stock with cars of the type which has been mentioned might be considerable of a strain on the finances of the elevated roads. They are not affluent corporations. But they are at fault in that they have failed when buying new cars to get those which had side doors. Two of the roads have opened new lines within a year and thereby have added to the pressure upon the loop. They could have helped matters by getting for those lines cars which it would not have taken so long to empty and fill. Whoever has stood on the platform of a loop station during the evening rush hours must have noticed how long it took for one set of people to get out and another to get in.

If the elevated roads were to be asked to get new cars they probably would say they could not afford it. But sooner or later they will have to do that and much in addition to that so as to be enabled to give the public the satisfactory service which it demands and which it has a right to demand. The roads should begin equipping themselves with better cars before they are forced to do so.

IN A MINOR KEY.

Always the Unattainable.

Small William, whose stomach had been taking a day off, was trying to make a next morning breakfast on grapefruit.

"I wish," he said, looking enviously at the generous supply of food on his little sister's plate, "I was well enough to eat bacon and eggs, too."

"Huh!" exclaimed his little sister; "I wish I was sick enough to eat a grapefruit!"

Furnishing an Inspiration.

"What is it you are writing in such a hurry, Will?" asked Mrs. Borus.

"I saw you discharge the cook a few minutes ago," answered E. Will Borus, the struggling author, without looking up from his work.

"What of that?"

"It was intensely dramatic."

"Gracious! You are not trying to dramatize it?"

"Not at all, my dear. You can't get quick enough action on a drama. I'm novelizing it."

Great Thoughts of the Ancients.

"Plato," said Socrates, "You have observed, I doubt not, that we have two ears and two eyes."

"Now that you mention it," quoth Plato, "I have."

"And but one tongue."

"Quite so."

"Herein nature doth teach us that we should hear and see twice as much as we talk. Is it not so?"

"But, my master," objected Plato, "we have two nostrils and only one mouth. Must we therefore smell everything twice before we eat once?"

"Plato," irritably rejoined Socrates, "anybody can make a flippant comment that will knock the juice out of the wisest saying a philosopher can pull off. I wish you'd cut it out."

On preparing the stuff for publication, therefore, Plato prudently cut out his flippant comment.

Objectively Considered.

Ruggles—"What horse power is your new automobile?"

Ramage—"Two, I guess. That's the horse power it took to haul it to the repair shop when it broke down on a country road the other day."

O, No!

"Paw, what is the white slave traffic?"

"Buying and selling baseball players, Tommy."

The Business End of It.

"I shall be sorry to lose you, William. You are the most intelligent chauffeur I've ever had in my employ. Are you thinking of going into business for yourself?"

"Yes, sir."

"In the automobile line?"

"Y-yes, sir, in a way. You know my home is in one of the north shore suburbs. Well, there's going to be a vacancy in the office of justice of the peace up there, and if I work things right I can get it."

Race Suicide in California.

In the result of the city and school census, finished yesterday by N. D. Ellis, some unusual conditions are found to prevail in Whittier.

There are no negro, Indian, or Mongolian pupils in either public or private schools. One hundred and twenty-six children of school age are not attending school. There are 518 homes in Whittier where there are no children. The bona fide population is 4,000; with sojourners, Chinese, and Japanese, the total population is 4,206.—Los Angeles Express.

Merry Days.

All forgot—the storm and strife
Of a darkened day;
All the world's in love with life—
Singing on the way!

Singing of the love and light
Every path adorning;
Unto Sorrow, then, good night—
Joy comes with the morning!

SIR ERNEST CASSEL has just attained a social distinction which will go far to console him for his disappointment in connection with the peerage, which would have been bestowed upon him on the occasion of the king's coronation had it not been for the strenuous objections of the then prime minister, the late Lord Salisbury.

He has just been elected to membership of the Jockey club, the most exclusive organization of the kind in the world, with the exception, perhaps, of the Royal Yacht squadron. Blue blood has always been considered a necessary qualification, though it is not all sufficient. In fact, there are a number of members of the old aristocracy, titled and untitled, who have been for years on the turf, have maintained fine racing stables, but who have been mercilessly blackballed whenever their name has come up for election, even if they happened to have royal backing.

The private life of the candidate, his domestic relations, his principles, and his mannerisms all play a rôle in the affair, and sometimes he is the victim of the most unreasoning prejudice. Pillings are more frequent than elections, and there have been years in which every single name submitted to ballot has been blackballed.

I can recall only one other case of a self-made man being elected to the English Jockey club, in recognition of his services to the English turf, and to the sport of racing—namely: the late Sir John Maple, owner of the great retail furniture emporium in Tottenham Court road, London. The honor came to him a few months before his death.

Sir Ernest Cassel's election is still more unusual, for instead of being a thoroughgoing Englishman of the John Bull type, with a pronounced aversion for everything and everybody foreign, like Sir John Maple, he is of German-Jewish birth and education, and an Englishman only by naturalization. He has, however, been on the turf for about a quarter of a century or more, and has one of the finest racing stables and breeding studs in existence, at Newmarket, where he purchased the Moulton paddocks from Lord Gerard. He is devoted to the sport, which is his one hobby, although he has never yet managed to win any of the blue ribbons of the turf.

In fact, his stable is pursued by much the same ill luck as that of the king, whose victories have been few and far between. It is easy to understand, therefore, that Sir Ernest will value his election to the Jockey club more than any honor that it would have been possible to bestow upon him.

Sir Ernest is well known in this country, where he has many large interests, and which he frequently visits, usually as the guest of Jacob Schiff, the New York banker. Moreover, he has been an important factor in the construction and development of the present railroad system in Mexico. His most notable achievement is of course the Nile dam, the creation of which he rendered possible by the provision of the necessary funds.

He has been identified with all sorts of other great enterprises, has rendered invaluable services to the British government in a variety of ways, notably in the financing of great public works, and has well earned, therefore, the membership of the privy council and the Grand Cross of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, which the crown has bestowed upon him. He is also Grand Cross of the Victorian Order, and is held in high regard and in warm friendship by the king, who has been frequently his guest at his beautiful London house in Park lane, at Moulton paddocks, Newmarket, and at his place near Biarritz.

Cassel's house in Park lane formerly belonged to Lord Tweedmouth, in whose day it was known as Brook house. But Sir Ernest found Brook house too small, and accordingly secured the adjoining mansion, throwing the two into one. Its features are the superb great staircase, as well as the floors, the paneling of the walls, the columns, and the great dome, all of that exquisitely veined Tuscany marble, which Michael Angelo used exclusively for his statues, and which is derived from the famous quarries at Saravezza, which belonged to Popes Julius II. and Leo V. of the Medici family.

Sir Ernest Cassel has no son. But his only daughter and sole heiress to his enormous wealth is married to Wilfred Ashley, member of parliament for Blackpool, and the grandnephew and heir of Lord Palmerston. On the death of his father Wilfred Ashley will become the master of Broadlands, the historic home, near Romsey, of Lord Palmerston, whose peerage will it is said be then revived in his favor. So that, although Sir Ernest Cassel has been disappointed in obtaining a peerage for himself, he may yet live to see his daughter and heiress a peeress of the realm.

There is no country in the world where the crime of perjury is more severely punished than in Germany, where even the most apparently trivial misstatement under oath entails a sentence of as much as ten years' penal servitude. In fact, it is no exaggeration to assert that next to murder, there is no offense in Germany that carries with it such heavy penalties as perjury, Teuton jurisprudence taking the ground that the entire system of justice rests upon the respect for the oath administered in law.

That is why Prince Eulenburg is being treated with so much severity, and why bail to the amount of over $100,000, which was offered for his release from the prison ward of the great Charity hospital at Berlin, was refused in his case. Nothing save death can save him from receiving the penalty of his crime, which will carry along with it the loss of all his official dignities and honors, foremost among them being his membership of the Order of the Black Eagle.

The latter is the Prussian counterpart of the English Order of the Garter, and it will be the first occasion in its annals, extending over hundreds of years, of the conviction of one of its knights of a felony. Unlike most of the other princely titles bestowed by Emperor William since his accession, that of Prince Eulenburg is not limited to the life of the nominee, but is inheritable in the order of primogeniture in the male line direct.

In Austria a felony often carries with it the forfeiture of nobiliary titles and rank. It remains to be seen whether this will be applied by the Prussian courts in the case of Prince Eulenburg, whose eldest son will otherwise inherit his title of prince at his death.

A peculiar feature of the affair is that the oath in connection with which the prince has been indicted for perjury was more or less of a voluntary character. The unsavory offenses laid at his door by Harden, at any rate the specific cases, have long since been outlawed by the statute of limitations. It may be remembered that at the first Harden-Moltke trial, when aspersions were cast upon the prince's character, he declined to appear as a witness and submit to cross examination on the ground of ill health. Everybody felt that even if dying he should have availed himself of the opportunity to deny on oath the insinuations against him. His failure to do so led to his being completely boycotted.

This preyed on his mind to such an extent that in the proceedings brought some time afterward by the government against the disreputable journalist, Brand, for libel of the chancellor, Prince Bülow, Eulenburg asked and insisted on being heard as a witness in favor of the chancellor, and when on the stand demanded permission to make a personal statement on oath to the effect that he himself had never been guilty of the offenses imputed against him by Harden.

His declaration was so well received that when not long afterwards Moltke brought his suit for libel against Harden, resulting in the latter's conviction, Eulenburg was encouraged to again volunteer to appear in the witness box and to again deny on oath ever having been guilty of the immoralities imputed to him, thus atoning for his failure to appear in the previous Harden-Moltke trial.

It is on the strength of these two oaths, now shown to have been false, that the prince has been indicted for perjury. He had to choose between silence, with its social ostracism but immunity from punishment by law on the one hand, and on the other, perjury. He selected the latter alternative.

Disagreeable Sensation.

While perusing the Dead Horse Gulch Bugle of last week we notice the following item: "Hank Snooks had a hog die on him last Tuesday." We have never had a hog die on us, but can imagine what an awful sensation it would be.—Riverton (Wyo.) Republican.

TAFT FAVORS PUBLICITY BILL

Responds to Bryan's Request for Expression of Opinion.

LETTER SENT TO SENATOR.

Candidates Appeal for Action in Interest of Clean Politics.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—When Secretary Taft reached his office today he found a number of newspaper men with an inquiry as to what answer he intended to return to the invitation from William J. Bryan to join him in an effort to secure the enactment of a bill requiring the publication of campaign contributions. The secretary replied that he had not seen any communication from Mr. Bryan on this subject, and, in fact, it was several hours later before the telegram reached him, as follows:

I beg to suggest that as leading candidates in our respective parties we join in asking congress to pass a bill requiring publication of campaign contributions prior to election. If you think best we can ask other candidates to unite with us in the request. W. J. BRYAN.

Confers with the President.

Secretary Taft had meanwhile, and before he had received this telegram, had a talk with the president at the White house, so that he was prepared immediately upon his return to the war department to give out for publication his answer, as follows:

The Hon. William J. Bryan, Lincoln, Neb.: Your message received. On April 30 last I sent the following letter to Senator Burrows, the chairman of the committee on privileges and elections of the senate:

"My Dear Mr. Burrows—I sincerely believe that it would greatly tend to the absence of corruption in politics if the expenditures for nomination and election of all candidates and all contributions received and expenditures made by political committees could be made public both in respect to state and national politics. For that reason I am strongly in favor of the passage of the bill which is now pending in the senate and house bringing about this result so far as national politics is concerned. I mark this letter personal because I am anxious to avoid assuming an attitude in the campaign which it is quite possible I shall never have the right to assume, but so far as my personal influence is concerned I am anxious to give it for the passage of the bill. WILLIAM H. TAFT."

Since writing the above, in answer to inquiry, I have said publicly that I hoped such a bill would pass. WILLIAM H. TAFT.

Bryan Urges Action on Bill.

Lincoln, Neb., May 26.—William J. Bryan this afternoon received a telegram from Secretary Taft containing the views of the latter on publicity in regard to campaign contributions. Mr. Bryan sent the following reply:

The Hon. W. H. Taft, Secretary of War, Washington, D. C.: I am very much gratified to receive your telegram and trust the publication of your letter will add the weight necessary to turn the scales in favor of the measure. Elections are public affairs and publicity will help to purify politics. W. J. BRYAN.

Mr. Bryan wired Senator Culberson and Representative Williams as follows:

Please secure copies of my telegrams to Secretary Taft and his reply concerning campaign contributions. His letter to Senator Burrows may enable you to secure action on the bill. W. J. BRYAN.

FREE BEACH AT OHIO STREET; RESIDENTS DROP OBJECTIONS.

Plans for New Bathing Location Nearly Ready for Fulfillment—New Move in Wilson Avenue Project.

The establishment of a free bathing beach at the foot of Ohio street practically is assured. Plans in the hands of the special parks commission for the beach are nearly ready; authority from the United States government to construct a light breakwater has been received, and property holders' objections to the project have been removed, it was announced.

The bathing grounds will be the only municipal beach available between Hyde Park and Diversey boulevard and is expected to accommodate the children of three congested wards, the Twenty-first, Twenty-second, and Seventeenth.

Promoters of the Wilson avenue bathing beach enterprise have withdrawn the suit pending in the Superior court and filed a second petition to compel the city authorities to grant a license to operate the beach. The action is to have the courts compel the city clerk, but a writ of mandamus, to issue a license to the promoter. It is set up that Commissioner of Health Evans has approved the location.

"SOCIETY CIRCUS" OPENS AGAIN.

Berwyn Entertainment Starts on Bigger Scale After One Interruption by Accident.

The "society circus," which on its opening night at Berwyn last week was interrupted by an accident, when six persons were injured by the falling of a section of seats, was reopened on a bigger scale last night for a four nights' run.

The circus is being given under the auspices of the Chapel of St. Michael and All Angels, of which the Rev. Charles E. Taylor is pastor.

James H. Delany, superintendent of the Western Electric company, is in charge of the performance, which contains all the features usually found in a circus and several athletic numbers.

For this evening a feature on the program will be a public demonstration of the gyroscopic monorail car.

PLAN FIGHT ON PROHIBITION.

Preliminary Steps Are Taken at Monthly Meeting of the Manufacturers and Dealers' Club.

Steps in preparation for the fall campaign against the prohibition movement were taken at the regular monthly meeting of the Manufacturers' and Dealers' club held at the Bismarck hotel last evening.

The policy to be upheld by the organization in the annual convention of the United States Brewers' association at Milwaukee June 8 was discussed in detail, and a committee chosen to represent the Chicago body was appointed. Henry Scarborough, Cooper Lyon, H. J. Davenport, and Jacob Greiner were named as members of this committee.

Two visitors—John M. Glenn, secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, and Nathan Cole, editor of the Peoria Saturday Herald—spoke briefly to the members of the club.

WILL DISCUSS BOULEVARD LINK

Advocates and Opponents of Driveway on Stilts to Meet This Afternoon.

A conference between the advocates of the boulevard link on stilts and the Michigan Avenue Improvement association which favors a surface driveway will be held at 1 p. m. today in the office of Architect Daniel H. Burnham.

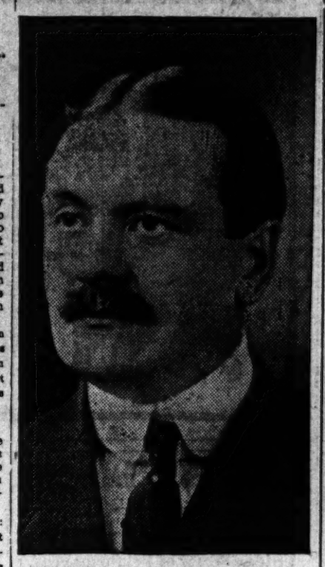

The meeting is the result of the protest against the elevated boulevard recently made to Mayor Busse.

City Controller Walter Wilson, who is a member of the Commercial club's boulevard link committee, sent out the invitations to the conference. Both propositions are to be debated and the objections of all interests heard.

Dean Willett Addresses Convention.

Galesburg, Ill., May 26.—[Special.]—The annual convention of Christian churches of the Third missionary district of Illinois was addressed today by Dean Herbert L. Willett of Chicago, who spoke on the relation of Illinois to the world wide Christianizing movement. Mrs. J. A. Barnett, Galesburg, was reelected district secretary.

Chosen President by Bank Clerks.

GEORGE A. JACKSON.

The Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Banking elected officers for the ensuing year last night. It was a spirited contest, and the full result will not be known until the count is completed today. The meeting broke up at midnight, when it was certain who the principal officers would be. Those known to be elected are:

President—George A. Jackson.
Vice president—Arthur A. Briggs.
Secretary—Charles G. Fisher.
Treasurer—George R. Martin.
Executive committee—Leigh Sargeant and H. S. Smale.

All of these, with the exception of Martin, were on the regular chapter ticket. Martin was on the "floor" ticket, which was headed by C. Frank Sparin for president. The thirty-seven delegates to the Providence convention remain to be determined.

Mr. Jackson, the newly elected president, began his career twenty-five years ago as messenger for the Continental National bank, and is now its chief clerk.

NEW NOMINATING METHODS URGED BY STATE SENATOR.

Walter Clyde Jones Says Direct Primary Law Is Only a "One-Third Step" Toward Reform in Chicago.

The new direct primary law in Chicago is only a "one-third step" toward reforming nominating methods, according to State Senator Walter Clyde Jones, who addressed members of the Political Science club of the University of Chicago last night on "Nomination Reform in Illinois."

"The reform of the nominating machinery in Chicago calls for three radical advances," he declared. "They are: Nomination by direct primaries, to eliminate thereby the objectionable and unrepresentative delegates and conventions; a substantial reduction of the number of elective officers, whereby the voters at the direct primary can act with intelligence and discrimination; and the extension of civil service to limit appointive office holders' activity as political workers.

"The people of Chicago must not lose sight of the fact that the enactment of the direct primary law is but one step in the reform of the party nominating machinery. In the country districts, however, where the number of candidates to be nominated scarcely ever exceeds a dozen, and where there are few appointive office holders to perform political work for the organization, the enactment of the direct primary law is a full measure of reform of the nominating machinery."

PRAISES COLLEGES IN AMERICA.

Father Coutu, Belgium Educator, Impressed by Visits to Illinois Institutions.

The progress of Roman Catholic institutions of learning in America has surprised the Very Rev. R. Coutu, C. S. V., visitor general of the Clerics of St. Viateur, who arrived in Chicago from Belgium recently.

Father Coutu first visited St. Viateur's normal institute at Chicago, and then proceeded to Kankakee, where he was given an enthusiastic reception by the students and faculty of St. Viateur's college.

"The new buildings erected since the fire are splendidly adapted to educational purposes," said Father Coutu. "I predict a bright future for the other Catholic colleges which I have visited in this country."

LECTURES AND ENTERTAINMENTS.

Graduating exercises of the Oak Park High school will be held the week of June 7. On Sunday the Rev. E. W. Bishop of the First Congregational church will preach. Monday the tennis tournament will be held; Tuesday the annual field day exercises will take place at River Forest athletic grounds; Wednesday afternoon the class day exercises will be held in Warrington opera house. Thursday evening the graduating exercises will be held in the same place.

Liquor and prohibition advocates will meet in debate in the Third United Presbyterian church, Evans avenue and Forty-sixth street, Thursday evening. William A. Brubaker, secretary of the prohibition central committee of Cook county, and Charles E. Gilbert, first vice president of the United Societies, will be the debaters. The question is, "Resolved that prohibition is preferable to license in dealing with the liquor traffic and the social evil."

The commencement exercises of the German Hospital Training School for Nurses will be held in St. Paul's church, Orchard street and Kemper place, this evening. Dr. Frank W. Lambden will make the principal address.

The National Association of Speech Arts will meet in Oak Park the week of June 29. On the first evening Miss Mannheimer, director of a Cincinnati school of expression, will give an interpretation of "Merely Mary Ann."

SPLIT IN LOMBARD CHURCH

Controversy Over Denomination Disrupts Its Organization.

LIBERAL SERMONS SCORED.

Dissatisfied Members of Congregational May Form Methodist Church.

The placid little village of Lombard, out beyond Oak Park, has been stirred deeply of late; stirred by no less a thing than the sermons of the Rev. Everett Martin, the young pastor of the only English church in town, and the conduct of the leading lights of the church. As a result Methodist services are being held in the town and a Methodist church may be formed from the dissatisfied members of the Congregational congregation. That is, if the church which for over forty years has been known as "the Congregational church" is really a Congregational church, or ever has been one. That is one of the most bitterly mooted of the many mooted points in the controversy.

The First church of Lombard was founded over forty years ago. Thus far all parties are agreed. They also agree that it has always been "affiliated" with the Congregational church, but that it has ever been an orthodox church of that denomination is denied by those who support the minister. It is certain, however, that until a few years ago the church was conservative and evangelistic in its doctrines.

To Form Methodist Church.

According to some of the discontented ones a change came with the advent from Chicago of a liberal, nonchurchgoing element, which joined the church mainly for social purposes, and have since by their wealth and social prominence dominated it. The young minister who was given the charge two years ago is said to have delighted the liberal element and to have shocked the old orthodox members.

The young minister is variously classed by the malcontents as "a socialist," "an anarchist," and a "Unitarian." His defenders declare that he is "a humanitarian," "an altruist," "an advanced thinker," and "a progressive."

"It is a great shame," declared George H. Rogers, who has resigned as deacon of the church and is now attempting to establish a Methodist congregation. "The church has been an orthodox Congregational church until recently. It was orthodox for the first six months after Mr. Martin took charge. Then after he had gained a great personal following and brought many new members thinking as he does into the church he turned around and preached radical doctrines that are not Congregational at all. I have not been to my old church for a year. I am not a Methodist, but I am trying to get a Methodist church established here because I think it would be more of a Congregational church than the one we now have."

Mrs. George L. Alley, once a pillar of the church, has not attended the Congregational services for a year.

Say Pastor Upheld Anarchist.

"I do not think it is honest for a man to obtain the pastorate of a church by pretending to be a Congregationalist and then preach unorthodox doctrines," declared Mrs. Alley. "He is not a Congregationalist at all. He does not believe in the deity of Christ. He says that he was divine, but only as all men are divine. He does not believe in the inspiration of the bible and said on Easter Sunday that the resurrection was a myth. He defended that Goldman woman from the pulpit and has made socialist speeches."

Dr. Charles Caverno, who was pastor of the church from 1874 to 1889, and who lives within a stone's throw of the church, but seldom attends its services, said he did not agree with the Rev. Mr. Martin's doctrines. He admitted that probably the chief reason for the docile attitude of the congregation was the social status of the liberal element in the church.

Declares Minister Progressive.

R. W. Plum, who is one of the most prominent of the liberals, laid the trouble at the doors of those who "want the same old thing in religion that their daddies had and that their daddies' daddies had." He said that there was progress in religion as well as in everything else, and the "humanitarian, altruistic teachings" of the Rev. Everett Martin were the most up to date products of progressive theology.

Dr. R. D. Oleson, a deacon of the church, laid emphasis on the fact that the church, though affiliated with Congregational churches, has never been known as anything but "the First church of Lombard," and said that there had always been doctrines preached in it which made the old orthodox members hold up their hands in holy horror.

FORM NOTRE DAME CLUB HERE.

Organization Has for Its Object Occasional Reunion of Former Students.

The Notre Dame club of Chicago was formed last evening at a meeting in the Sherman house, at which the Rev. John W. Cavanaugh, president of the university, was present. This is one of a number of clubs of like character which have recently been formed in various parts of the country, the object being to bring together former students of the university in occasional meetings to discuss college days. John S. Hummer presided at the meeting, which was addressed by Father Cavanaugh and some of the old graduates. The gathering resulted in the election of an executive committee which shall arrange for an annual dinner and any other affairs which may be planned. The members of the committee are: Daniel P. Murphy, Francis O'Shaughnessy, John S. Hummer, Byron V. Kanaley, Thomas T. Cavanagh, J. V. O'Donnell, George S. Crilly, Hugh O'Neill, Francis H. McKeever, and J. J. Sullivan. A number of those present also arranged to attend the commencement exercises at Notre Dame, Ind., on June 17.

MR. LEITER SETTLES THE ELECTION.

[Preston Gibson in Washington Post.]

Joseph Leiter, who returned from Chicago yesterday, said of the political situation:

"There is no doubt that Mr. Taft will be the republican nominee, but I do not think he will be elected.

"I am a democrat, but I do not believe in many of the policies that Bryan advocates. At the present time Bryan has more delegates, but Gov. Johnson of Minnesota is getting stronger day by day.

"If the democrats can nominate Johnson they can elect him. The thinking men of the best element of the democrats are for Johnson. The democrats can elect Johnson because he can carry more northern states than any other man who has been heretofore mentioned. He has a record for justness and fairness as an executive officer, and he has looked to the enforcement of the law rather than to an interference with the legislative and judicial branches of the government.

"He is against the centralizing tendencies of the times, and believes in congress and the judiciary being left alone to the exercise of their governmental functions.

"The feeling in the west is strong for Johnson and growing stronger. If he had been presented to the people three months earlier he would be the nominee without question.

"While there is a strong Bryan sentiment among many classes, he is committed to many policies which do not appeal to the deeper thinking and more conservative element of the democratic party.

"The chances for democratic success in the election are better than they have been since Cleveland's first election, on account of the dissatisfaction of the many classes of the community who have suffered by being put out of employment through executive interference.

"The country was never in a more prosperous condition from the standpoint of actual production or that which goes to make up the national wealth. This, of necessity, must come from the ground, and the executive needs only to let matters readjust themselves in order to restore confidence in the continued prosperity of our country.

"This can best be accomplished through the election of a democratic president, which would probably carry with it a democratic majority in the house; and this, together with a republican senate, would insure the passage of only those measures which would result in national welfare."

IN THE SEWING ROOM

How to Feather Stitch.

Feather stitching is one of the easiest of the ornamental stitches to do and is also one of the showiest and most effective. It also is durable and makes a pretty finish for all kinds of sewing, although it especially is appropriate for underwear and for babies' clothes.

On cotton fabrics it is worked in embroidery cotton and in silk, wool or flax. The stitch is worked on the right side of the material, towards the worker, and the needle is taken alternately on the right and left side of the pattern and the cotton from the last stitch must be carried under the needle so as to form a loop stitch.

This is the most essential point in the whole stitch; to carry the thread under the needle. The stitches are taken so that the top of one stitch will be on a direct line with the bottom of the preceding stitch.

It is not necessary to count the threads, as the distance can be gauged correctly enough with the eye.

Place a knot on the end of the thread and stick the needle up from the wrong to the right side so as to bring the knot on the wrong side.

Now, holding the work toward you, take a small straight stitch, the top point of which will be on a direct line, but about a quarter of an inch to the left of the point from which you started. Before pulling the needle through carry the thread under it so as to form a thread which slants diagonally from the bottom of one stitch to the bottom of the next.

The third stitch is taken in the same manner, a quarter of an inch to the right of the second stitch or directly under the first stitch.

TESTED RECIPES

New Meat Dishes.

CURRIED MUTTON.—Cook together two tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of chopped onion, and one scant teaspoonful of curry powder until slightly colored.

Add two scant tablespoonfuls of flour and cook for three minutes, then gradually stir in one pint of mutton broth. When smoothly thickened season to taste, add the diced meat, and simmer for half an hour.

In the meantime wash one cupful and a half of rice, drop it into rapidly boiling salted water, and boil at a gallop until tender, which will take about twenty minutes. Drain and serve it as a border around the mutton.

* *

LITTLE MEAT PIES.—Take the remains of a boiled shoulder, cut the meat and chop it fine, seasoning with salt, pepper, and curry powder. Add just enough butter or gravy to moisten slightly.

Make some piecrust or biscuit dough, roll out, and line small pans with this, fill with the seasoned meat, mixed, if deficient in quantity, with chopped cold potato or boiled rice, cover with an upper crust, and bake in a quick oven.

* *

MUTTON AND CUCUMBER SALAD.—As a dish following boiled mutton dice some of the cold mutton. For one pint of meat dice a firm cucumber or two to make a heaping cupful. Make an unsweetened brown jelly, using sufficient gelatin to insure molding. Season the mixed meat and cucumber and lightly fill wetted molds, then pour in jelly until the molds are full. Serve each, when turned out, on a lettuce leaf, heaping mayonnaise on top.

THE BOUDOIR

Pretty Arm from Housework.

The woman who plays golf, tennis, or fences or who wields a broom in pursuit of household duties has more gracefully rounded arms than does the woman who seldom uses her arms. Piano playing to a certain degree develops the arms and makes them beautifully rounded and graceful.

The perfect arm is the arm with the round and flowing outline from shoulder to wrist, with a constantly changing curve.

The flesh must be white, with a skin as soft and smooth as satin, but it must be firm and not flabby.

An exercise which develops all the muscles of the arm from the shoulder to the wrist is one which is called the corkscrew movement. Stretch one arm at a time high above the head, and, with the fingers lightly curved upwards, twist the arm around as far as it will go, first one way and then the other. Continue this exercise until the arms begin to feel fatigue and then desist.

Bathing the arms in cold water every morning will make them firm, and lemon juice will bleach them and keep them white.

ALL AROUND THE HOUSE

Cobwebs for Wounds.

If a cut, scratch, or wound of any kind bleeds profusely bind the bleeding part with cobwebs and brown sugar pressed on like lint. Or, if these are not available, use the fine dust of tea. When the blood ceases to flow apply laudanum.

Another way to make a wound stop bleeding is to stop it with blood. Hold the finger over the wound until the blood forms a clot and it then will stop bleeding. This method cannot be depended upon unless the wound is not small enough to be covered with the finger.

* *

Economical Clothes Hanger.

A clothes hanger can be made at home from a barrel hoop. Cut a piece the desired length from a barrel hoop and in the center of it insert a screw eye. Cover the hoop with a thin layer of cotton batting and then with a dainty piece of lawn, muslin, or dimity, make a loop of ribbon through the screw eye and hang the hanger to a hook by this. Two hangers can be made from one hoop.

FINANCE OF "DICKY" GIBSON'S AGAIN BEFORE THE COURTS.

Brother of Preston, and Numerous Others, Are Defendants in Suit to Enforce Judgment for $20,849.

The financial troubles of the "Dicky" Gibsons were brought into the limelight again yesterday when Preston J. Gibson, Mary Duncan Gibson, Harvey T. Weeks, Fred S. James, and Fielding L. Marshall, with Richarson T. Gibson and Gilbert M. Weeks, were made defendants in a bill filed in the Circuit court yesterday morning to enforce a judgment for $20,849 against the last named two. The judgment is in favor of the Hamilton National bank and was entered on promissory notes signed by Richardson ("Dicky") T. Gibson and indorsed by Weeks.

The money was obtained for the purpose of promoting the manufacture and sale of a breakfast food, it is said. It is charged that Richardson T. Gibson and Weeks have concealed personal property belonging to them and that they have property worth $30,000. The four others in the case are charged with having some money, stocks, bonds, promissory notes, etc., which they hold for the benefit of Gibson and Weeks.

Further, it is asserted Gibson and Weeks are interested in real estate in Illinois and stock in some company. Richardson T. Gibson is said to be in New York.

Attorney Frederic A. Fischel, who filed the present suit, wants the court to take charge of all the personal property of the debtors. The hearing probably will be tomorrow morning. The original judgment was entered on July 31 for $21,630. About the same time Minna Field Gibson secured a rapid fire divorce from Preston J. Gibson, brother of Richardson T. Gibson, on a charge of cruelty.

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Cubs and Giants treated a big crowd to another slugfest yesterday and the Giants came out on top, 7 to 4, because they pounded Reulbach harder than the Cubs did Crandall. Before it was over the outfielders of both squads had worn the spikes off their shoes chasing leather all over the park, and the Cubs used four outfielders at that.

Three home runs, one triple, five two baggers, and a lot of singles on the side kept the rooters in the merriest kind of a mood despite the fact that the Cubs were getting it where dogs wear their collars. Twenty hits for a grand total of thirty-six bases were peeled off by the two teams in a couple of hours. That was two shy of Monday's record in the matter of safe hits, but was 'way ahead in the total bases

If the ratio of swatting keeps on increasing through today's game the veteran rivals will hang up a record which will look like the days of 1876. In three games Cubs and Giants have piled up an aggregate of sixty-one base hits, and these hits have netted eighty-eight bases. Five of the sixty-one drives have been home runs and one of them for three bases. Ten two baggers and forty-five singles have been made in the series up to date.

Spoils for the Swatters.

Besides swelling their batting averages the players have driven several Chicago business places to wonder if a conspiracy does not exist to bankrupt them. One hat shop is damaged to the extent of five $4 lids for the home runs and one $3 hat for the triple. One local trust company which pays $5 for each home run is set back an even $25 already, and a savings bank which offers $10 each for the first five home runs made by Cubs is out $20 on the series.

Bresnahan, Schulte, Tinker, Seymour, and Tenney have made the home runs, the last three named pounding out theirs yesterday, and Steinfeldt made the triple. Besides a hat for each, Tinker and Schulte have $15 apiece to collect, and Bresnahan, Seymour, and Tenney will net a five spot apiece.

Not all the hitting was done with bats, at that, for Reulbach hit four batsmen, and Seymour always will believe Ed tried to make it five, while Crandall punctured our peerless leader. This kind of marksmanship, aided by two passes issued by Reulbach and three by Crandall, furnished plenty of base runners for the sluggers to bring home, and the fact the score did not mount into double figures was due to the fact that all three of the home runs were made with the bases empty. In strong contrast to Monday's chaotic performance yesterday's was clean cut and straight from the shoulder.

The battle was bitterly fought all the way and close, and at its finish the rival warriors walked off the lot hurling jeers and defiance at each other, so strong was the feeling inspired by the contest. The Cubs showed in front for only a few minutes at the end of the first and second innings, and the Giants were in front all the way from the fifth, but their margin was only one lap up to the ninth, when a parting bombardment was given Reulbach and netted two more runs.

Giants Bag Twelve Hits.

The Giants bagged twelve hits for a total of twenty bases of Big Ed, while the Cubs had to be satisfied with eight hits for fourteen bases off Crandall, the youngster of McGraw's pitching staff. Seymour and Doyle whacked out three hits apiece, "Cy" getting a double, a home run, and a single, and Larry a pair of singles and a double. Chance was the only Cub to get more than one safety, and his two netted him a swatting average of 1.000 for the day.

Reulbach gave a woolly exhibition in the opener. He hit two Giants, passed another, and allowed a two bagger, but only one run came out of the mess because Tinker pulled off a brilliant play by which Reulbach's throw caught Tenney napping at second just before Seymour's two base hit came off. Crandall was so wild in the Cub opener that Evers and Sheckard walked before he could find the location of the plate. Schulte bunted, and, although Crandall had oceans of time to force Evers at third on it, he threw out Schulte instead. Chance scored the Trojan with a long fly to left and Steinfeldt drove Sheckard home with a smash along the left foul line for three bases. Slagle grounded out.

Doyle opened the second inning with a single and Reulbach plugged little Herzog, subbing for Bridwell. Crandall advanced them with a sacrifice, and Doyle scored on Shannon's out by way of Evers. Tinker untied the score in the Cub half by swatting a ball through right center and making the circuit on it because Seymour played the rebound from the stand badly. Evers wasted a double in that round.

Great Clout by Seymour.

Seymour led off in the third with a wallop far over center. Slagle just missed making a sensational catch after chasing back many yards to get under it, but failed, and before they could get the ball back "Cy" was across the pan with the second home run of the day. Reulbach struck out Needham and Doyle to square himself.

The score remained tied until Tenney broke it by opening the fifth inning with the third home run. It was a terrific drive through left center and was the cleanest four bagger of the day, for the Cubs handled the ball like lightning and made two brilliant throws, but Tenney beat the ball home by half a step. The Cubs missed a chance to tie it up in their half. Schulte and Chance singled with one out, the former going to third. A squeeze play was tried here, but Steinfeldt bunted so hard that Tenney nailed Schulte at the pan. Slagle flied out.

Two were out in the eighth, when the Giants fell on Reulbach for two doubles and a single. Doyle made the first double and scored on Herzog's single, but when Crandall pulled a double past third, Sheckard and Tinker by beautiful work cut off Herzog at the plate, ending the inning.

Cubs in Strong Rally.

The Cubs rallied strongly in their half. Chance led with a single. Steiny flied out. Howard was sent to clout for Slagle, and put a Texas leaguer over second. Moran followed with a single, scoring Chance. Tinker would have broken up the game, but his liner went straight into Doyle's hands and resulted in a double play, Moran being the other victim.

The sun mainly was responsible for New York's two runs in the ninth, for the Giants dropped three flies into left field safely, any one of which Sheckard would have caught if he could have seen the ball quickly enough. Kling led a forlorn hope in Reulbach's place in the last half, but grounded out. So did Evers. Sheckard walked, but Schulte hit to Doyle. Score:

IT HAPPENS EVERY DAY.

NOTES OF THE CUBS.

New York once more today.

The first two innings lasted thirty-five minutes by the clock.

The best the Cubs can get is an even break with the Giants.

There was little variety to Needham's performances at bat. In five times up he struck out three times and was hit twice.

The editor of the score card will do well to keep out of Pat Moran's way. He gives the Cub catcher's age as 80. And Pat is meditating matrimony, too.

Manager Chance will take his Cubs to St. Louis tonight for a four game series lasting over Decoration day, but will bring them home again for a double header with Pittsburg on Sunday.

Bridwell joined the New York hospital list yesterday with an attack of malaria, and gave Herzog, a Tri-State league recruit, a chance to shine. Bridwell will get well fast if the youngster can keep up yesterday's clip.

Reulbach hit Needham in the head in the first inning and Tom didn't even blink, but trotted to first unconcernedly. The sound of the concussion reminded the fans of President Dovey's assertion regarding Needham.

When Seymour came up in the fifth, after having bagged a double and a home run, he thought Reulbach intentionally tried to knock his head off with a wild pitch. "Cy" threatened dire things, and started a chewing match which lasted until Umpire O'Day ordered it cut out.

Roger Bresnahan's injured hand was examined yesterday and it was found the bone was splintered and that an abscess had formed. Lancing will be necessary, and the Giant backstop will be out of the game for some time.

Chance robbed Donlin in spectacular fashion by spearing his hard hit right on top of first base in the second inning. The manager fell flat, but held the ball on the sack. That rap would have driven in two runs if it had gone through.

President Murphy utilized the two world's pennants which he purchased for the Cubs for the double purpose of decorations and awnings for the grand staircase. The national commission's world's pennant was missing from the flagstaff.

The Cubs scored two runs, had one hit, and three men on bases during the first inning, yet only two of them legally were at bat. Two bases on balls and two sacrifice hits accounted for the anomaly. During the game forty-one Giants faced the pitchers, yet there were only thirty-four legal times at bat for the visitors and thirty-two for the champions.

Brooklyn Pitcher Fans a Dozen Reds, but Home Players Pile Up Four Runs and Win, 4 to 2.

Cincinnati, O., May 26.—Rucker struck out twelve men today, but Cincinnati made enough hits between time to pile up four runs. Brooklyn had the bases full in the ninth inning, with none out, yet scored but one run through the good pitching of Campbell, who succeeded Weimer at this stage. Score:

ROBISON DENIES CELLA DEAL.

President of the Cardinals Says He Never Has Made the St. Louis Turfman Any Offer.

St. Louis, Mo., May 26.—[Special.]—"I have not talked to Louis A. Cella for over two years and have never given him a price on my ball club," said Stanley Robison, president of the Cardinals. "Several people have asked of recent years if my club was for sale, and some of them insisted that I put a price on the club and franchise.

"Like every man who owns something, I have my own idea of its value. My price may not suit others, but I can't help that. I am not anxious to sell the Cardinals, never offered the club to anybody and don't know that I shall.

"If I chose to sell my club it is no business of George Dovey or of Barney Dreyfus, and they have absolutely nothing to say about it."

BY CHARLES DRYDEN.

Boston, Mass., May 26.—[Special.]—Such a rasping did our White Sox get from the Red Sox, née Beaneaters. In the comparatively short space of two hours the hostiles cleaned up on the long end a 16 to 5 count, with the aid of the errors of Freddie Parent, who is celebrating old home week all by himself.

Three pitchers tried to stop the raging Red Sox, who collected eighteen bingorinos for a total of twenty-two bases. Andy Nelson, southpaw, was the only one that succeeded, and he came on in the seventh while the hostiles were sparring for their second wind after pounding Altrock and Owen to all points of the compass.

The only excuse we have to offer is that Boston got into the habit of beating St. Louis and couldn't quit after the White Sox got here. That excuse is better than none. Then, again, it was "ladies' day," and the M. W. hats may have disturbed Mr. Altrock.

Time was when Nick had the local team eating out of his shapely left hand, but McGuire has a new gang now that doesn't fear the handsome Russian. He pitched two rounds and part of another. The total home product in that time was eight hits and seven runs. Owen hooked on in the third, with none out, and stuck until the end of the sixth. The war hero was stung nine times and nine tallies resulted.

Magic in Their Touch.

Nearly everything the bean fiends touched turned to base hits. Luck was with the local crowd, and Burchell was tighter than a down east Yank until he loosened up a bit at the tail end of the combat. The White Sox got to the local south paw for eight swats, including some long ones by Parent, Davis, and Dougherty. Burchell walked two men, neither of whom scored. Altrock was shaky. He passed one and hit two and all three counted. When Nick didn't walk or smite them they walloped the ball on the piccolo, which was a great deal worse. Owen was fairly effective after getting the third inning out of his system. Five of the seven swipes in that round were made off the soldier. He slipped up again in the fifth, where the red legs bunched two singles and a triple for a pair of runs.

Andy Nelson toiled through the seventh and eighth and yielded but one safety, a single by Wagner. In the last round the young south paw had his nerve with him. He walked Cravath for a starter in the seventh, but Shaw pegged him stealing. Then Jones wrecked a prospective triple for Gessler by cutting across lots and snatching a line drive in his bare hand. The applause was defeaning. Thus encouraged, Nelson struck out Unglaub, who is said to be some swatter.

Right in the opening stanza Nicholas Pietrovich Altrockski listened like a bomb explosion in the winter palace at St. Petersburg. Zowie, and likewise Bingle, McConnell stung the first ball for a single, and Lord sacrificed. Cravath walked, and Nick hit Gessler on the kimono just as the other two fellows started a double steal. Unglaub copped a safety, scoring McConnell and Cravath. D. Sullivan swiped a triple under the ropes into right. Gessler and Unglaub tallied. Wagner's sacrifice fly to center brought in Sullivan. A fumble by Parent saved Criger. Burchell hit safely and was forced by McConnell.

Result of Doleful Doings.

Ten red legs faced Nick in this round; four of them soaked the ball and five scored. Still the brave Russian stuck to his guns. In the second round, Lord led with a swat and Cravath forced him. Cravath stole second and Gessler filed to right. Unglaub's single counted a run, and the hitter was chased to death between first and second. Soothed by this lull in the hostilities, Altrock came back in the third and was shot to pieces before the hand was out. He started it by hitting D. Sullivan with the ball. Wagner and Criger exploded singles, scoring Sullivan.

At this point Jones snatched Nick and subpœnaed Soldier Owen, who had been under fire at San Juan hill. The Red Sox had their batting regalia on and nothing could stop them. Burchell tickled the soldier for a swat, counting Wagner. A remarkable catch by Anderson spoiled a triple for McConnell. John galloped into deep field and speared the ball over his head in one hand. Lord, Cravath, and Gessler made singles in a row, scoring Criger, Burchell, and Lord. While Unglaub was striking out Gessler stole second. D. Sullivan, No. 10 at bat in that round, sawed off swat No. 7 for the same round, scoring Cravath and Gessler. Shaw threw Sullivan out stealing and the inning came to an unhappy end.

The locals filed out in order in the fourth, McFarland taking Criger's place in the lineup. Our heroes were futile against Burchell until the fifth. After Donohue fanned Parent tripled, Tannehill flied, and Unglaub and Shaw doubled. The crowd cheered the former Bostonese for putting together our first tally. Owen filed to short.

Unspeakable Reds Continue Swats.

In the local fifth McConnell bounded a safety to right and Lord sacrificed, catcher to first. Cravath tripled, sending in McConnell. Gessler sent in Cravath with a single. Unglaub and Sullivan flied out. Dougherty opened the sixth with a double and tallied on Davis' double after Jones flied out. Anderson skied to left and Donohue was thrown out by Burchell.

Parent's miss of Wagner's grounder opened the local sixth. McFarland and Burchell were easy outs. McConnell popped a Texas leaguer over short, counting Wagner with the last Boston tally. Lord flied to short.

In the eighth the White Sox looked like their old selves. Dougherty drew a pass and Jones beat a knock to Unglaub. Davis struck out and Dougherty was doubled up trying to steal third. Anderson then got industrious with a double to left, counting Jones. Burchell stung Donohue on the leg and Parent came along with a two bagger, scoring John and Jiggs. Tannehill was thrown out by Lord. One gone in the local eighth, Wagner singled and was doubled up on McFarland's bump to Parent. Score:

Gov. Warner of Michigan Sees Detroit Beat Philadelphia, 1 to 0—Powers' Wild Heave Settles Contest.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 26.—Gov. Warner of Michigan and a party of distinguished visitors from that state who were here for the launching of the battleship Michigan today saw Detroit defeat Philadelphia by 1 to 0. Plank had the better of a pitchers' battle with Donovan, but the home team could not get a man past second base. Detroit did not get a man past first except in the seventh inning, when Schaefer beat out an infield grounder and scored when Powers threw a safe bunt by Crawford to the fence. Score:

NOTES OF THE SOX GAME.

Nick may do better when he gets acquainted with the new Red Sox.

Mr. John Anderson, the well known athlete, is visiting his family at Worcester, Mass., and playing ball between whiles.

The last knock off Altrock in the third was Criger's stinger through the box that flirted with Nick's finger nails as it passed.

President Ban Johnson was among those who sidestepped the glories of a circus in the next lot in order to be with the patriots at the pastime

There was copious applause for Parent, who used to shortstop here. The patriots also remembered Al Shaw and his double in the fifth, one lap behind Mr. Parent's triple, which evoked salvos of applause.

Another society item—Mrs. F. Parent and small son of Sanford, Me., are guests of Mr. Parent, the prominent shortstop, who is sojourning at a hostelry in this city conducted by Mr. A. Whipple licensed victualer.

J. McGuire's revamped young men in white suits splashed with vivid red look like half ripe strawberries. They wear red sox on their legs and another across their breasts inscribed "Red Sox," so that people will know what it is.

This old town feels like it had pulled off another tea party. It is true they dumped Altrock and Owen into the sea, but wait until Walsh gets back from his pall bearing job at Meriden with the can of axle grease and the double shoot ball The Red Sox will not look so good then.

Economic note—Al Shaw doesn't need to buy one of the new fangled chest protectors. He can borrow direct from the inventor while Bill is laying off with a weak arm. There is no pain or soreness in Sullivan's whip. It lacks ginger and he cannot peg the ball down to second as of old. Meanwhile Mr. Shaw, is wearing the green straight front.

Inventor B. Sullivan was busy ahead of the game with Mr. L. Criger demonstrating the new wind-pad with a view to future sales. The stuffing used in the pad, instead of wind, is a scientific business secret which Mr. Sullivan refuses to divulge. From outward indications and general contour we opine that tripe is employed to protect the athlete behind the pad.

YACHT CUP DONOR MAY SEE CONTEST.

Sir John Nutting of Dublin Tentatively Accepts Chicago Invitation.

HERE IN SPRING OF 1906.

On That Occasion He Gave Trophy to Be Sailed For This Year in August.

BY JOHN G. DELONG.

Members of the Chicago Yacht club are jubilant over the prospect of entertaining Sir John Nutting of Dublin, donor of the cup bearing his name and raced for annually by the eighteen foot restricted class. In answer to an invitation from the club to be present at the coming series of races for the trophy, the baronet has written that he intends to accept.

The Chicago Yacht club last night informally opened its clubhouse for the season with a dinner and business meeting, upon which occasion Sir John's letter was read. The letter follows:

"Carleton Club, London, May 18.—Secretary Chicago Yacht Club—Dear Sir: I am glad to learn that the coming meeting is to be one of the most interesting and important events on the great lakes this summer, and I desire to thank you for your gracious invitation to be present. I shall look forward with much pleasure to attending the races and hope that it may be possible to be with you for your regatta. Thanking you for your courtesy and kindness, and with best wishes for a successful season, very cordially yours, JOHN G. NUTTING, Bart."

Sir John Nutting's last visit to Chicago was in the spring of 1906, when he donated the perpetual challenge trophy to the C. Y. C. The races for the cup are to be held this year on Aug. 28-31-Sept. 1. The five yachts entered will represent the Chicago, Columbia, and Duluth Yacht clubs.

The prospective Nutting visit was not the only good news imparted to the club members last night as the first outside entry for the 330 mile Mackinac race was announced at the same time. In a letter to Chairman Gould of the regatta committee, James G. Coleman of Detroit announced his intention to compete in the long race with his forty-five foot yawl, Nahma. Mr. Coleman formerly was a member of the Chicago Yacht club and raced the boat here before moving to the City of the Straits.

A letter received from William Hale Thompson and George R. Peare conveys the information that the two local yachtsmen are now on their way down the St. Lawrence with Mr. Thompson's schooner, Valmore. The Chicago men left Mulgrave, N. S., on Friday, bound for Quebec. The damages wrought by a recent Atlantic gale have been repaired and all is reported as being well. An incident of the trip from Digby to Mulgrave was the sighting of an enormous whale, which it is hoped will hang on to Valmore's Jonah until the yacht reaches Chicago.

Upon the arrival of Valmore at Toronto, Mr. Peare will leave the yacht and go to Hamilton to superintend the shipment to Chicago of La Rita II., formerly Raven. The twenty-one footer now is owned by Mr. Peare and Dr. A. N. Dickinson of this city, and the boat is entered in the coming Lipton cup races.

GRAHAM IS STAR IN TRAP EVENTS.

Younger of Famous Marksmen Takes Board of Trade Diamond Badge.

DEFEATS BEST IN STATE.

Extra Round Is Necessary in Order to Settle the Hard Fought Contest.

High honors in the first day's shooting in the Illinois State Sportsmen's tournament, which is being held at the Chicago Gun club grounds, went to Jay R. Graham, one of the younger brothers of the Graham family of shooters, when he won the 100 target event for the $800 board of trade diamond badge.

Graham's victory came after a hard fought match with the best marksmen in Illinois, and not until he had defeated Lem Willard in an extra round affair, 25 to 22 targets.

Both Graham [21 yards] and Willard [20 yards] scored 93 clays out of the first 100, while H. Dunnill registered 92. George Roll, another local crack, counted 91. The last two named were on the twenty yard line.

This event brought out the most excitement of the day, as several out of town men of the highest reputations entered with the intention of carrying the much sought prize away from the Chicagoans, who have held control of the medal for a number of years.

Marshall Out of Form.

Among those of established ability who were out for the badge were Tom Marshall, mayor of Keithsburg, Ill., who enjoys the honor of being the only man to ever win the Grand American handicap two years straight. Marshall was expected to push the local men, but for lack of practice this season the downstater was unable to keep pace and fell down with a score of 83 targets.

Crosby of O'Fallon, O., who won the badge last year, was well down in the list, with 86 hits.

The $70 Krupp pigeon gun for the highest average in the merchandise handicap, was carried off by C. E. Binyon, a Chicago shot, who tied with Graham, Weinsberg, and Vance in the first round, and with steady work in the shootoff, came out on top with a score of 25 straight targets, while Vance and Weinsberg were deadlocked for second in the shootoff with 22. Graham showed a bad reverse in form in the shootoff and missed seven, most of which were cast at bad angles.

Contest Is Hard Fought.

The shoot for second place was even more prolonged than the board of trade event, as George Roll and Lee Barkley were unable to get a lead over one another in two extra rounds, and it was only on the third that Roll finally won the Marlin takedown rifle, 22 to 20. In both the first and second extra shoots each scored 24 clays.

During the morning session, when the state sweepstakes were contested, Lem Willard and Lee Barkley tied for first money with three errors out of the 100 birds thrown, while Fuller, the Wisconsin state amateur champion, and Ditto, a star from Tom Marshall's town, each added up 96. As the rules called for a split of the money in case of a tie, there was no extra shooting in this event.

Today's program includes another big attraction in the 200 target sweepstakes and the L. C. Smith cup, which goes with the two barrel state championship title, and it is expected that some new lights will loom up that failed to show yesterday. All the shooters will stand on sixteen yards in the two barrel event, which is twenty-five birds.

WAR OF THE AUTO CLUBS THOUGHT TO BE CERTAIN.

Declaration of the A. A. A. Racing Board Taken as Tossing of Gauntlet to the A. C. of A.

New York, May 26.—What amounts to a formal declaration of war between the American Automobile association and the Automobile Club of America, with control of the Vanderbilt cup race and other national and international events as the stake, was made at a meeting of the American Automobile association's racing board held here today.

Two drastic resolution were adopted, aimed at what the A. A. A. feared was an attempt of the other body to obtain control of racing, and perhaps all motoring contests in this country. One resolution authorizes the chairman to notify foreign organizations that the Automobile Club of America "is a local club, situated in the city of New York, without national functions or jurisdiction."

The other resolution provides for a general notification to all foreign and American clubs and manufacturers that the American Automobile association, "the national governing body in the United States," hereafter annually will sanction only three national or international events—namely: the Vanderbilt cup race for racing cars, the annual touring contest for Glidden and other trophies, and the Demont-Thompson cup contest for stock cars."

It was explained that this resolution did not apply to local events planned by automobile organizations, but such local events must hereafter receive the sanction of the A. A. A. or be penalized by disqualification of entrants and their drivers.

The board announced there would be a Vanderbilt cup race this year, and that prior to July 1 the course and the day of the race would be announced.

Regarding the foreign protests, William K. Vanderbilt Jr., donor of the Vanderbilt cup, who was present, stated that he had presented the cup to the American Automobile association with the intention of giving American automobile manufacturers a chance of competing against foreign cars in a race to be held in this country, and that the purpose intended—the raising of the standard of American cars—had been achieved.

Mr. Vanderbilt considered that, as the A. A. A. had never been invited to participate in the Ostend conference which adopted rules governing this season's racing abroad, it was not in any way bound by these rules.

That there will be an automobile race for the Vanderbilt cup this year was authoritatively announced here tonight. While official announcement was lacking as to detail, it may be said that the race will be held on Long Island, probably on the Long Island motor parkway, a private roadway which it is hoped to have far enough advanced toward completion to permit the running of the big international event over it in the fall. A Saturday in the latter half of October will be selected for the race.

In automobiling circles here tonight reprisals of some sort seem to be expected on the part of the Automobile Club of America.

PAIRINGS IN GOLF TOURNAMENT

Eight Women Qualify in Medal Play Round for Championship at the Essex Country Club.

Orange, N. J., May 26.—Among the eight players who qualified in today's eighteen hole medal play round for the championship of the Metropolitan Women's Golf association at the Essex Country club are last year's winner, Miss Georgianna Bishop of Brooklawn, Conn., and Miss Julia R. MILWAUKEE FANS ON EDGE

Papke-Ketchel Fight on June 4 Arouses Great Enthusiasm.

BEST CARD ON THE MARKET.

Winner of Bout Will Have Clear Title to Middleweight Honors.

BY GEORGE SILER.

Milwaukee fight fans are up on their hind legs regarding the Stanley Ketchel-Bill Papke middleweight championship fight which the Milwaukee A. C. will dish up to them on June 4.

It is without doubt the best fistic attraction ever staged in the Cream City and undoubtedly the best in the market. Packey McFarland and Batling Nelson or Joe Gans against either the first named pair would have been a magnet strong enough to draw fans from all the large and small towns in the middle west, but Bill and Stanley is by far the better card, which will be Milwaukee's banner event both from a box office and fistic standpoint. The contestants are the top liners in the middleweight division, and the winner of the bout will have a clear title to the championship.

Both claimed that honor before they were matched. Papke because of his victory over Hugo Kelly and Ketchel because of his defeat of Jack "Twin" Sullivan. Their respective battles with Kelly and Sullivan were advertised as championship affairs, which makes their coming contest a simon pure mill for the toga. Their battle will be short for the honors, and should it result in a draw they will be compelled to battle again, but over a longer route. In that case Ketchel undoubtedly will demand a forty-five round fight at San Francisco, the only city outside of the state of Nevada where a battle of that many rounds can be pulled off. Jim Coffroth, the hustling San Francisco fight promoter, writes he will be at the ringside prepared to offer the fighters a good guarantee to fight before his club should the referee fail to pick a winner at the end of the bout.

Neither of the men, it is said, expects the battle to go the limit, as they both hope to win with a knockout. Papke's reputation as a slugger is well known hereabouts, and Ketchel comes well recommended as a hard punishing fighter. Neither is what generally is termed "fancy scienced," but they are clever in their respective styles of milling. At any rate, science will be thrown to the winds for downright hard slugging, and the man who is fortunate enough to land a blow on the right spot, irrespective of cleverness, will be the white haired boy.

KETCHEL TO MAKE THE WEIGHT.

Pugilist's Manager Says He Has but Eight Pounds to Lose to Come Within Requirements.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 26.—[Special.]—Stanley Ketchel will make the necessary weight for his battle with Billy Papke on June 4 with the greatest ease. This was the news sent forth from the Ketchel training camp this afternoon, after a hard workout, during which the western hurricane mauled the stamina out of three of his sparring partners.

Just after the match was closed a story was started that Ketchel could not make the weight required in the articles, 154 pounds at 3 o'clock. This is now strenuously denied by his manager, Joe O'Connor, who asserts there is nothing in the yarn.

"Stanley weighed just 162 pounds after his workout today," O'Connor said. "He can take off eight pounds with the lightest kind of work, as it is much easier to get rid of superfluous beef in Wisconsin than on the coast."

TERRY NO LONGER IS TERRIBLE.

"Spike" Robson of England Makes McGovern Look Like an Amateur in Six Round Bout.

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Terry McGovern has gone away back. The former featherweight champion of the world met "Spike" Robson of England in a six round bout at catch weights tonight before a large crowd in the arena of the National Athletic club and when it was all over McGovern's many friends shook their heads dubiously.

McGovern was not the clever, swift footed, rushing slugger of yore, was slow, cautious, and erratic. He had no speed to his rushes, missed countless wild swings, and showed to an advantage only at close quarters, when Robson consented to mix it with him. He could not hit with the old time power.

Robson's cleverness made McGovern look like an amateur at times. The Englishman, in excellent physical trim, was fast on his feet, and always keeping a cool head, he feinted and jabbed until McGovern was clearly bewildered.

Referee John White gave no decision.

WOLGAST GAINS THE DECISION.

Milwaukee Pugilist Outpoints Jeff O'Connell in Eight Rounds at Fond du Lac, Wis.

Fond du Lac, Wis., May 26.—[Special.]—Ad Wolgast won the decision over Jeff O'Connell tonight after eight rounds of fast milling.

Wolgast was three and a half pounds overweight. O'Connell carried fight to the Milwaukee pug during the first four rounds. The last round was fast and furious, Wolgast seeking to land a knockout. O'Connell blocked beautifully.

O'Connell was favorite with the crowd, but the decision was well received. Delegations from Chicago, Milwaukee, Oshkosh, and Appleton were present.

Jack Ryan of North Fond du Lac won a decision over "Young" Sharkey of Appleton in the second semi-windup. Clarence Zuelke of Appleton knocked out "Young" Moran of North Fond du Lac in the fourth round of the preliminary.

Promoter Coffroth Coming East.

San Francisco, Cal., May 26.—[Special.]—Promoter Coffroth will start east on Thursday to try to arrange matches between Papke and Kethel., Moran and Attell.

FRANK GOTCH TALKS OF PLANS.

Wrestler Will Meet Roller in July and May Cross the Water for Matches.

Franch Gotch, champion catch as catch can wrestler of the world, dropped into town last night after filling a ten weeks' theatrical engagement. The champion will remain in town several days and on Memorial day he will give an exhibition of his prowess at Canton, O.

Regarding his future he says he is matched to wrestle B. F. Roller of Seattle on July 1. Gotch said he considers Roller the toughest man in the business and that he will have to be in the pink of condition to win from him.

"Once I contracted to throw him twice in one hour," Gotch said, "and at the end of that time I was so tired I did not know my name nor where I hailed from. I have been offered a good engagement in London, but have not accepted, as I do not care to make the trip unless I can secure three matches with the three best men in the old country. I never felt better nor stronger in my life and think I will make short work of Hack should we meet again."

TOURENNE TRIMS SCHREIBER HORSE

Son of Odd Fellow Wins Easily Despite Jack Atkin's Interference.

ROUGH RIDING IN STAKES

Two Horses Bumped at Start and Animal Responsible Takes the Prize.

New York, May 26.—[Special.]—Jack Atkin, carrying 129 pounds, and an 8 to 5 favorite, was beaten in the rich Cosmopolitan handicap at Belmont park today by R. A. Mackenzie's Tourenne. The latter, with only 100 pounds on his back, overhauled Jack Atkin, the pacemaker, at the head of the stretch, and though Schreiber's great colt carried Tourenne wide, the son of Odd Fellow won easily by three lengths. Fred Cook's Lawrence P. Daley, prominent always, finished third.

Rough riding at the post was responsible for the defeat of F. A. Forsythe's High Private, favorite, and the Patchogue stable's Ross Fenton, heavily backed in the Laureate stakes for 2 year olds. At the start James R. Keene's Mellisando collided with Ross Fenton, knocking him out of it, then bumped High Private so he swerved over to the outer rail and lost several lengths. After that J. Lee put up a vigorous ride, High Private running a fine race, but at the wire Mellisando beat him by three parts of a length. Statesman was a length back, while Ross Fenton never had a chance.

Frizette Romps In Winner.

J. A. Wernberg's Frizette made a runaway race of the first and came home on the bit four lengths before Samuel Emery's Anasee.

Roseben was beaten in the minor handicap. He picked up 132 pounds, but was made the favorite. After a slow break Shaw rushed him up to H. P. Whitney's Royal Tourist, the pacemaker in the first quarter of a mile. There Roseben showed that he could not outrun the Whitney colt, which drew away in the stretch and won in a gallop by four lengths. Roseben was put under the whip to beat Pantoufle half a length for the place.

H. P. Whitney's Bobbin, second choice, led all the way in the second race and won easily by two lengths from L. O. Appleby's Star Thistle, a 50 to 1. shot. Suffragette, favorite, after throwing Notter at the barrier, bolted at the start and had no chance.

LOCAL SEMI-PRO NOTES.

The All Havana baseball nine, a picked aggregation from the Cuban league, will arrive in Chicago for its opening game against the South Chicagos tomorrow at Logan Square park. The team was originally scheduled to open here on Decoration day, but canceled a Montreal date and will come direct from New York instead. Joe Taylor and Tommy Asmussen will be in the points for the South Chicagos tomorrow.

The Rivals have disbanded for the season on account of not getting enough games to hold the players. Manager Johnny Rogers has scattered his players among the other local clubs.

After Milwaukee-Chicago Record.

George Stokes, the veteran English pedestrian, will start from Milwaukee for Chicago Friday night in an effort to beat the record of 19 hours and 54 minutes held by Henry Schmehl. He will wear the colors of the Illinois Athletic club, finishing at the clubhouse.

IN THE WAKE OF THE NEWS.

BY HEK.

It is quite natural that the organized forces of baseball should view with alarm the threatened invasion of their favorite preserve by Cella, Adler & Tilles, but if Cella, Adler & Tilles want to acquire a baseball franchise they will acquire one, for there is nobody in sight who has what he calls the good of the game at heart who has the price or the inclination to outbid them. If the noisome St. Louis racetrack syndicate wants a baseball franchise it will get a baseball franchise and within two years it will have all the present custodians of baseball franchises kow-towing to it. Professional baseball is a commercial proposition and anybody who has the price may enter, this tiddy-fol-la sentiment to the contrary notwithstanding. Cella, Adler & Tilles will butt into the game if they want to. You can play this with a copper as long as you have a mind to, but the turn will come and if you don't switch with it you'll lose.

We expected to be informed that Mr. Corrigan was prompted by mere caprice when he offered his racing establishment for sale. Consequently the previous remarks go without warrant. When you beat Mr. Corrigan to the diagnosis of a case involving himself it is the wrong diagnosis. If you want him to go to St. Paul, say that he has checked his trunks to Cincinnati.

We are in receipt of a cablegram from our Mr. Edward E. Ayer, dated Aix-les-Bains, informing us that he had safely (or safely had) crossed Mount Cenis in a snow storm with his 46 h. p. Hotchkiss. Four of the 46 h. p. was hitched in front.

We hope nobody has ever accused us of being lacking in our appreciation of what John McGraw, Nick Altrock, Rube Waddell, and Bugs Raymond —if that be the name—have been worth to this national game.

Not having heard anything in the last few days anent the legislative sloughing of the pernicious habit of trailing along with the geez in Louisiana, we take it that the superior forces are at work.

We should like much to tear out of here and witness the running of the Belmont, but we hear at the last moment that Colin will be deleted* and that the race, therefore, will be robbed of more than a modicum of its interest.

*Slang for scratched.

In answer to a question, let it be said that the best way to tell a hired automobile from a proprietary one is to follow it and see where it stops.

Organized baseball has overlooked a great many things that Louis Cella might discover. The various leagues might be startled at first, but they would get around to it just the same, as we had to get around to it on the abandoned racetracks of the middle west.

There is nothing too good for Joe Gans when he comes to Chicago, even if the head waiter has to explain afterwards and the hotel proprietor has to break in a new set of bellhops.

Packey McFarland may have been crabbed out of some glorious opportunities, but he is consoled with the thought that when he does get it it will not have to go so many ways.

When the umpire starts Muggsy McGraw on his way to the clubhouse Muggsy is conscious that every step takes him nearer to Broadway, the clubhouse being situated on the east end of the grounds. Therefore, he accepts the dict with a greater degree of philosophy—well, you know the rest.

At the Woodbine course in Toronto drinking water costs 5 cents the swallow, while the real sport can take home a lovely one after his day's outing for the trifling additional cost of 20 cents.

QUIGLEY LOSES HIS BLACK "C" AND SEVERAL TROPHIES.

Deposed Maroon Captain Is Stripped of His Emblem, but Will Be Allowed to Finish His Course.

Raymond Quigley, the University of Chicago track captain, who was deposed as leader and expelled from the team on account of professionalism Saturday by Director Stagg, yesterday suffered the loss of his black "C," emblematic of the captaincy, and all the trophies which he has won since he became a professional, last July 4.

His case was heard by the faculty yesterday morning. After an hour of discussion, in which every detail of the affair was gone over by the professors, it was decided that expulsion from the university was too severe. In the place of such action it was voted to take away his black "C" and the medals he won recently.

It was decided also to rub out his name from the list of "C" men in the official list. He will be allowed to retain his two "C's," which were won on the track team in 1905 and 1906.

Quigley declares he will willingly give up his black "C," and is ambitious to remain in the university and "face the music."

Director Stagg was loaded with epigrams on morals yesterday, and called his track athletes together in the gymnasium for a lecture on cigaret smoking and a general breaking of the training rules.

MICHIGAN SQUAD OFF FOR EAST.

Fitzpatrick Takes Ten Men to the Eastern Intercollegiate Meet at Philadelphia.

Ann Arbor, Mich., May 26.—[Special.]—Michigan's track squad left tonight for Philadelphia for the eastern intercollegiate meet on Saturday. Coach Fitzpatrick picked these men to make the trip: Capt. Rowe and Dull, two milers; Coe, Tower, and May, milers; Bohnsack, half miler; Heath and Wolin, broad jumpers; Merritt, sprinter, and Hurlburt, hurdler.

This squad is twice as large as last year's, which ran up to the championship. Michigan hopes for twenty-eight points, which the fans believe will be enough to win.

The paper score is distributed by Wolverine rooters as follows: Coe, 10 points, first in mile and half mile; Rowe, 6, first in two mile and fourth in mile; Dull, 3, second in two mile; Heath, 3, second in broad jump; Bohnsack, 3, second in half mile; Hurlburt and Merritt, a point each in the hurdles and sprints.

Fast Fight Ends in Draw.

Boston, Mass., May 26.—[Special.]—Young Erne of Philadelphia and Tommy Quill fought twelve as fast rounds as have been seen in Boston this year before the Armory A. A. club tonight. Referee Flaherty's decision of a draw was greeted with cheers.

WANT PLACES ON AMERICA'S TEAM.

Many Athletes Enter for the Olympic Tryouts from Central Section.

DASHES MORE POPULAR.

Seventeen Events Carded Attract an Average of Seven Competitors Each.

Entries for the Olympic tryouts to be held at Marshall field tomorrow were announced yesterday. There is an average of seven men in each event, or 119 entries in the seventeen events carded. The dashes drew the largest number, sixteen having entered the 100 meter, thirteen the 200 meter, and twelve the 400 meter run. The smallest number of entries occurs in the 1,500 meter run and in the hammer throw, in which there are three each.

It is probable the entry of Lightbody in the 1,500 meter event frightened out possible contenders. Lightbody is an Olympic champion and sure of a place on the American team, while there are several other milers who will be chosen from past performances anyway.

Most of the well known sprinters and dash men in Chicago and the surrounding country have entered in the short runs. A great race is looked for in the quarter, in which Vickery, Ramey, and Blair are entered. R. K. Mason of Vanderbilt university comes from the south with the reputation of being a fast man.

There are five jump events carded, including the running broad and high, standing broad and high, and the hop, step, and jump. They have drawn practically the same fields. Holmes, the local colored wonder, injured his knee yesterday and may not be in shape for the meet. He was looked upon as a possible member of the American team. The entries follow:

CONFERENCE TO DECIDE IT?

Action at Meeting on Friday May Clear Streets of Traffic.

The most important move of years toward relieving street traffic congestion in Chicago may result from a conference on Friday between representatives of the eastern trunk lines and the Illinois Tunnel company. Industrial teaming may be eliminated to a large extent.

The conference will be held as the result of the action of the Wabash railroad several weeks ago as a bid for increased traffic when it inaugurated the system of assuming tunnel transportation charges on all shipments over its lines. The charges, which at present stand at 3 cents a 100 pounds, only were assumed, however, on shipments delivered at the west side public tunnel station. But as the Wabash holds to its announcement after the opening of the seven public stations now planned it will force competing roads to meet the inducements offered to merchants and shippers.

The action of the Wabash has occasioned a storm of protest from eastern roads, which must follow suit or suffer traffic losses. The assuming of the tunnel charge is virtually a reduction of 3 cents in freight rates, and with the 10 per cent advance in rates decided upon the eastern railroads do not relish a voluntary reduction which will weaken their position.

The conference probably will take the form of a "persuasion" meeting to show the Wabash the error of its ways in the matter.

However, railroad officials, in discussing the matter yesterday, asserted there is small chance of a recession on the part of the Wabash and that the other roads will be forced to grant the same shipping conditions or adopt other means to "get back." This effort, if compromise is impossible and a fight is made, will be toward eventual store door delivery by the tunnel to as many shippers as can be induced to establish individual connections with the tunnel.

Cut Cost; Relieve Streets.

"I have advocated making the Illinois tunnel a through transportation facility for some time, but some of the roads are firm against it," said a traffic official of one of the trunk lines yesterday. "If the roads would agree to the move it would mean the revolutionizing of traffic in Chicago.

"The greater business of transportation on such commodities as are adapted to tunnel transportation should reduce the cost and this either would be assumed by the roads in part and incorporated in through tariffs or divided between the railroads and the shippers.

"On their part, if shippers who have truckage contracts could be induced to connect their establishments with the tunnel they could consign their freight from their own basements. This would minimize the cost of handling and take fully half of the present intolerable street traffic from Chicago downtown thoroughfares.

"I don't know that the conference will go so far as to consider this eventual solution of the present controversy, but it is safe to say that something of the kind will be done in Chicago before many years, and the present contest between the Wabash and the other roads may lead to its adoption within a much shorter time."

Other railroad men asserted they had heard "rumors" that a conference would be held Friday, but that they had not been officially informed. President Samuel McRoberts said that he was not aware that a conference would be held, but railroad men and several representatives of large shippers were equally sure that the meeting would take place.

Low Rates Plan Carried.

Another cheering announcement to Chicago's merchants was the announcement during the day that the railroads of the Central Passenger association will resume the practice of granting low rates for merchants' meetings next fall in New York, Chicago, and St. Louis. Figures prepared by the Chicago Association of Commerce show that with the stoppage of reduced rates the attendance at such gatherings fell off enormously, and the custom of holding annual fall and spring meetings in Chicago for a "buying week" was abandoned. An effort then was made to have the low rates resumed, and that the campaign was successful is proved by the announcement of the passenger association.

GOVERNMENT MAY BUY TUBES

Uncle Sam Plans Purchasing Pneumatic Mail Services.

CONSIDERS CHICAGO SYSTEM.

Postmaster General Will Ask Price from Present Company.

Washington, D. C., May 26.—[Special.]—The second assistant postmaster general will tomorrow organize a force which is to begin the inspection of equipment for a pneumatic tube mail service with a view to purchasing or installing such a service for the use of the government.

The postoffice appropriation bill, just passed by congress, directs the postmaster general to investigate various pneumatic tube systems in the country and report to congress not later than Jan. 1, 1909, the feasibility of government ownership of those facilities for transporting mails.

To Learn Cost of Those Used.

He is directed to ascertain the approximate cost of purchase of various pneumatic systems now in use in large cities, and also to ascertain and report the cost of installation, maintenance, and operation.

The second assistant postmaster general, who has supervision of the pneumatic service, will make his first investigations in Philadelphia. The private concern owning the tube system there has already made overtures to the government for its purchase.

Will Look at Chicago Tubes.

The pneumatic tube service at Chicago will be investigated later, and the company owning that property will be asked to name a purchase figure.

In connection with the Chicago property the second assistant postmaster general said today that every consideration is to be granted to the company and every encouragement is to be given to it to cause an extension of its lines, franchises for which the concern now holds to the extent of many miles.

When the postoffice appropriation bill two or three months ago was first put in shape by the house committee on postoffices there was inserted a provision wherein the postmaster general would not be allowed to contract for the extension of the Chicago pneumatic service unless the city government would remove certain restrictions as to the reversion of the property to the city at the expiration of a twenty year franchise.

This clause was stricken from the bill in the house, and the matter was left open entirely to the discretion of the postmaster general. The senate inserted the provision for the inspection of the entire pneumatic tube service of the country with a view to its ultimate purchase.

To cure a stomach trouble, first Digest the Food

That is essential.

The pain is caused by undigested food, which irritates the stomach lining.

The stomach can certainly never get well while that irritation continues.

No need to doctor the stomach. And dieting helps but little.

The vital thing is to do the stomach's work. To eat what you want, and digest it.

Then the stomach, in a little time, will do its work itself.

There is only one way to digest all food. That is Kodol.

Pepsin digests albumen only.

Starch requires something else; fat something else.

Then bowel digestion must be accomplished too. That requires other ingredients.

It requires an exact combination to digest every food, and it must be in liquid form.

Kodol is that combination.

In test tubes, in our laboratories, we have seen it digest every food that man eats.

It does the same in the stomach, in one-third of the time.

One can't cure the stomach by giving it half-way help.

There are many partial digesters—perhaps you have tried them.

But, however careful you are with your diet, there is food which they can't digest.

The irritation continues.

But Kodol, whatever you eat, digests it at once and completely. Please prove this at our risk. See how instant is the relief. See how quickly the stomach recovers.

You will never again permit yourself to suffer from indigestion.

Our Guarantee

On the first dollar bottle of Kodol your druggist gives a signed guarantee. If it fails to do all we claim, your druggist returns your money. You take no risk whatever. This $1.00 bottle contains 2½ times as much as the 50c bottle. Made by E. C. DeWitt & Co., Chicago.

LEADING GRAINS IN A ROCKET RISE.

Corn and Wheat for Current Month Delivery Score Sensational Gains.

SHORTS RUSH FOR COVER.

Patten Again Displays His Mastery of the Situation in May Maize.

Old fashioned bullishness—the kind that keys traders to a high pitch of excitement and stirs uninitiated galleries to a mild delirium of interest—prevailed in yesterday's wheat and corn markets. Sensational advances were scored for current month deliveries in both cereals, the deferred futures bounding up under the impetus of market stringency, speculative maneuvering, and generally unfavorable crop advices. The final hour found the markets, especially the wheat market, at the height of their activity and excitement, the call of the buyer drowning that of the seller. In this period shorts were rushing at full speed for shelter that was most difficult to reach. Aside from the enormous amount of short covering, there was big buying by prominent traders that have been arrayed on the long side of the markets. Several traders individually bought lines of 1,000,000 bu of wheat, and there was a mass of operators who dealth in lots of 100,000 bu and upward. The outside speculative interest came out of its trance and lent good support to the markets.

Corn Deal Still Much Alive.

Market developments indicated that the Patten bull deal in May corn is not yet wholly a matter of history, but that the big dealer is only entering into the finals with much zest and earnestness. The rapid upturn of May corn to 78¾c, within ⅛c of the top price on the present movement, dampened the persistent talk that the important shorts had effected settlements; rather, it indicated that a big part of the battle is yet to be fought out in the pit. Developments in May wheat also were such as to spell trouble with a big T for belated shorts. The current month soared to $1.06 on only a moderate amount of buying, big elevator interests evidently having the situation well in hand. Even the fancy prices failed to dislodge much grain, and the lightness of offerings was largely responsible for the pronounced strength displayed.

There was some recession from the session's top values, due to profit taking by scattered small longs. Final quotations on wheat showed net gains of 2⅜c for the current month, 1⅝@1¾c for July, 2⅛@2¼c for September, and 2⅜c for December. Corn wound up at net advances of 4⅛c for May, 2@2½c for July, 1⅞c for September, and ⅝@⅞c for December.

Crop Deterioration Bolsters Wheat.

Accumulating evidence of marked deterioration of winter wheat in important counties of banner Kansas and disquieting advices from other sections of the winter belt formed the biggest trumps in the hands of the market optimists. Pit developments seemed to indicate that almost everybody awoke at the same time to a realization of the seriousness of conditions in Kansas and elsewhere in the winter wheat territory. Some of the messages from Kansas bordered on the sensational, and the general unanimity of opinion as to the state of affairs went far toward unseating the confidence of the shorts. While the trade in the July was big and general, that in September was relatively larger and more important. The scramble for the September was indulged in by shorts of all calibers, bids for "fives" and "tens" mingling with those for "fifties" and "hundreds." The higher the market went the less pressing became the offerings, holders, noting the unusual uneasiness of shorts, showing little disposition to sell. Most of the grain put into the market came from small holders. Buying by southwesterners here lent color to the unfavorable crop talk from Kansas and sections of the southwest.

Kansas Reports Serious Damage.

Many messages from important counties of Kansas indicated that the fields show damage to the extent of 25 to 50 per cent as a result of Hessian fly invasion and effects of early drought, and some of the recognized reliable and conservative investigators said that 75,000,000 bu for Kansas seemed like an unusually high estimate. The more rabid bulls say that that state will be doing well if it turns out a crop of 65,000,000 bu. The bottom lands of the Ohio valley added to their previous tales of woe, and Texas is not expected to harvest more than 3,000,000 bu. There was little at hand to indicate the effect of the recent heavy rains in the harvesting sections of Oklahoma and the Lone Star state. Some messages from Oklahoma, however, had it that the general situation was favorable. Indiana, lower Illinois, and the southern sections of Kansas are expected to harvest by the middle of next month.

Sharp Advance at Budapest.

With the exception of Budapest, which advanced 2⅝@3⅝c on continued drought in Hungary and Roumania, the principal foreign markets paid little attention to the bulge on this side of the water the day before. Liverpool closed ⅛@¼d lower, Paris ½@1¼c weaker, Antwerp ⅝c off, and Berlin unchanged. Buenos Ayres was in holiday garb. Droughty conditions in the Crimea and backwardness in the interior provinces of Russia were reported, but the general foreign crop summary showed little change from that of a week ago.

Visible Shows Big Decrease.

Expectations of a material decrease in the visible supply were realized, stocks on the lakes and in the Canadian northwest showing a much larger reduction than the bears had figured on. The visible showed a decrease of 2,415,000 bu, against a falling off of only 196,000 bu the similar time last year. The total now in sight is 24,072,000 bu, compared to 50,797,000 bu a year ago at this time. Bradstreet's statement on world's available supplies was delayed. Total primary receipts were 417,000 bu, against 425,000 bu last year. Duluth and Minneapolis had 161 cars, compared to 252 the preceding Tuesday and 370 the corresponding day in 1907. St. Louis and Kansas City together received 89,000 bu, against only 36,000 bu last year. Clearances at the seaboard were 195,000 bu, wheat and flour. Stocks at Minneapolis showed a decrease of 225,000 bu for three days. Exporters reported little interest on the part of foreigners.

Leading Holders Buy Cash Wheat.

Leading holders of local stocks grabbed up about everything offered at the sample tables. Local arrivals were comparatively heavy at 86 cars, compared to 51 cars a year ago. The general cash demand here was light and uninteresting, but more activity and firmness marked the markets southwest and northwest. Minneapolis No. 1 northern sold at 4c over July, with offerings scanty. Almost everything in the way of crop news from spring wheat territory favored the bears. Winnipeg reported a brisk cash demand, with receipts running not more than 25 per cent of those of a year ago at this time. The Armour people, it is believed, will make it warm for some of the outstanding shorts in the current month, gossip having it that they have the big holder of corn and oats in an uncomfortable position.

Corn Shorts at Patten's Mercy.

May corn shorts were given a rude shock when Patten, spick and span in a new gray suit and a nobby fedora, turned on more of the bullish steam, and when they were brought to a realization that much of the settlement talk was only torrid atmosphere they fell all over themselves in their attempt to find shelter from a storm that burst out of an apparently clear and unblemished sky. Within a twinkling the May price was elevated to 78¾c, offerings being almost as scanty as hen's teeth. Early in the session the current month sold at 73½c, and it was then that the shorts overstepped their liberties. The Patten people added to pit interest by taking in its July hedges and giving good support to the deferred futures, in which the short interest unquestionably is large. There was unconfirmed gossip that the coterie of Wall street longs who were

INTERESTING TRADE GOSSIP ON CHANGE.

Broomhall's weekly crop summary read: "United kingdom—As a result of better climatic conditions during the last week, a moderate improvement is reported in crop conditions. France—The outlook for the crops is fair. The yield, however, is expected to be smaller than last year, but with reserves will be sufficient for requirements. Hungary—The weather is again hot and dry, after light rain. Roumania—Crops are suffering greatly as a result of the continued drought. It is reported that fully 25 per cent of the crop has suffered damage as a result. Russia—In Bessarabia, Kherson, and the Crimea damage is threatened to the crops as a result of the drought. In the southwest the arrivals of wheat are insignificant. Bulgaria—Much apprehension is expressed regarding the crop outlook, as this country is still without rain. Turkey—The outlook is unfavorable, owing to the hot, dry weather, which has already caused damage to the growing crops. Italy-Spain—The crop outlook has improved during the week, and is now reported as being generally fair. North Africa—Much of the growing crop has sustained damage as a result of drought, and prospects are reported as being poor. Germany—The outlook for both the winter and spring crops is excellent. The imperial statistical bureau estimates the conditions of seedings in the empire May 15 as follows: Winter wheat, 82 per cent, against 80 per cent last month and 70 per cent a year ago; spring wheat, 78 per cent; rye, 78 per cent, against 78 per cent last month, and 72 per cent a year ago; oats, 82 per cent. The recent imports have been absorbed."

Car lots of wheat in the sample crowd were in good demand, especially the contract grades, which were wanted for delivery on May contracts. A small lot of hard winter wheat was sold to millers, who report a little better inquiry for flour in some directions. The market for anything but contract wheat again was weak, and sold at materially lower discounts under the May, and also relatively lower compared to the July, the lower grades not sympathising with the advance in futures. Higher premiums compared to the July were paid for No. 1 northern at Minneapolis, some choice wheat being held at 4½c over, with the bulk of the offerings going at 3¼@4c over. Philadelphia wired that cash wheat was getting farther away from an export business every day. No demand was reported from the seaboard, but local exporters said there were fair bids slightly under the advanced level of prices. Cash corn was steady, the advance in May having occurred after the cash market was closed. Offerings were fair and a fair shipping demand was reported. Oats were ½@⅝c lower, due to a slow demand. Local sales were 40,000 bu wheat, 250,000 bu corn, and 100,000 bu oats.

Farmers are now asking 70c for their No. 3 corn, their ideas having advanced since they have seen how easily the higher prices were obtained. The demand from the south is the chief support of the outside cash markets, and Omaha and Kansas City report no abatement in the demand, the high prices prevailing being no bar to the steady consumption of the cereal. Omaha reported that 1,000,000 bu corn had been sold to go south the last week, and that they were independent of this market. Some of the local corn men expect to see a big shortage in yellow corn in the near future; also much higher prices. Country shippers have been induced to sell No. 3 yellow freely for some time on account of the fancy values, and available supplies at distributing points and in the country are understood to be small. The New England demand for this kind of corn is good.

Chapin, Lake, Peavey, Barrett, Armour brokers, Pringle, Logan-Bryan, and Bartlett-Frazier were the best buyers of wheat. Chapin bought about 1,000,000 bu, partly through Pringle-Fitch. Peavey and the Rosenbaum Grain bought the May. Outside buying, especially of the September, was much larger than recently, and several commission men reported a broader public interest in the market, Bartlett-Frazier, Rankin, Comstock, Gearhart, and Allen were the leading buyers of July and September corn. Long bought May early, and near the close Love bought a little. Little May was offered. Brosseau and Comstock were sellers. Bailey and Gardner-Paddleford sold September oats on the bulge. Marx, Van Ness, and country houses bought. Bartlett-Frazier and Bailey were the leading buyers of provisions. Selling was scattered.

The weekly weather summary read: "Very heavy rains fell over a large part of Texas and generally throughout Oklahoma and in portions of the upper Mississippi and Red River of the North valleys and northern Rocky Mountain regions. Damaging freshets occurred in Texas and much low land in Oklahoma and Louisiana was flooded. There were several local storms in the western portion of the upper lake region and also in Texas and portions of the south Atlantic states during the forepart of the week, but most of the country experienced no damaging local storms. There was much cloudiness in the Atlantic coast districts northward of Georgia. In Texas and from the upper lake region westward to the north Pacific coast and elsewhere there was more than the usual sunshine."

"July wheat could easily be advanced 5c a bu on present legitimate conditions," said one of the most conservative cash wheat men on the floor. "Foreigners are coming for our new hard wheat right along, and millers are inquiring for and buying wheat much more freely than a few days ago. The visible is getting down to the danger point, and scarcity of supplies is soon going to be a big problem, especially in the northwest. Interior mills in the northwest are gobbling up all the available wheat, as is shown by the small receipts at terminal points. With any appreciable increase in outside buying to offset the constant bearish pressure exerted by the local professionals, the market would do much better."

Operations in May wheat were mystifying to the trade in general. Peavey and the Rosenbaum Grain company were the leading buyers, their purchases being chiefly instrumental in forcing an upturn of nearly 4c from the low point of the day. Peavey was the best buyer, taking about 200,000 bu. Offerings came from scattered holders. Bartlett-Frazier, who were the big sellers of May the previous day, were not in the May trade to any large extent. Armour bought a little May. The Armour Grain company was a fair buyer of cash wheat in the sample crowd, and, with Peavey, took in the 105,000 bu wheat delivered on May contracts last night.

The provision warehouses of the following firms were made regular for the ensuing year by the directors yesterday: Anglo-American Provision company, Armour & Co., H. Boore & Co., Boyd, Lunham & Co., Brennan Packing company, Continental Packing company, Friedman Manufacturing company, C. H. Hammond & Co., Hately Cold Storage company, Libby, McNeill & Libby, Morris & Co., Illinois Cold Storage company, North American Provision company, Omaha Packing company, Roberts & Oake, Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, and the Stockyards Warehouse company.

The visible supply of wheat decreased 2,415,000 bu last week. Corn decreased 473,000 bu; oats, 528,000 bu; rye, 48,000 bu, and 126,000 bu barley. Comparative visible figures follows:

	Last week.	Previous week.	Last year.
Wheat	24,072,000	26,487,000	50,797,000
Corn	3,702,000	4,175,000	5,238,000
Oats	7,919,000	8,447,000	11,040,000
Rye	250,000	298,000	705,000
Barley	1,626,000	1,752,000	1,057,000

Duluth wired Pringle-Fitch: "Same old story in the northwest. They say receipts will increase after farmers get through thrashing or after roads freeze up, or after snow makes good sleighing, or after seeding completed, or as soon as new crop assured, but still they don't come. Truth is the wheat was never raised, and 50 per cent of the northwest mills will close in a month for absolute lack of wheat."

The Commercial Review of Portland, Ore., says that conservative traders are now estimating the California crop at slightly over 4,000,000 bu. That California is a heavy buyer of the surplus stock in Oregon and Washington; that the entire northwest Pacific country lacks three inches of the normal rainfall, and that the crop will be a little later than usual on account of a lack of rain.

Kansas City wired Logan-Bryan: "Lawless of Moore-Lawless has just returned from a trip to Ellsworth, Kan., west to the Colorado line. He says a half crop is the best that can be made in that territory. He says the whole central part of Kansas is full of fly and no one can tell how much damage will be done before harvest, which will not commence till June 15."

Clement-Curtis had the following wire from their traveling correspondent in Kansas: "Prospects in Barton, Stafford, and Rush counties are for fair yield of wheat—about 80 per cent. Some fly here; rain helpful. Ness county and entire west section dried out beyond revival by rain. Will not raise enough for bread and seed."

Officials of the Texas Grain Dealers' association estimate the damage to the grain crops of Texas and Oklahoma by recent storms and floods at $3,000,000 in Texas and $2,000,000 in Oklahoma.

According to the Mark Lane Express, the wheat crop of England for 1908 is likely to be 10 per cent below that of 1907, but 10 per cent above the mean. The color is improving, but the plant is thin.

Deliveries on May contracts were 105,000 bu wheat, 225,000 bu corn, 180,000 bu oats, and 250 brls pork. Peavey and Armour took in the wheat, Bartlett-Frazier the corn and oats.

The following were elected to membership on the board of trade by the directors yesterday: Robert J. Brennan, Samuel C. Osborn, and Ezra C. Wing.

A late Broomhall cable said that the rains reported in Roumania had resulted in only partial showers, and that more is urgently needed.

The spread between July and September wheat was narrowed considerably yesterday as a result of the heavy buying of the latter month.

Local stocks of contract grain in public houses are 2,726,155 bu, of which 1,183,000 bu are available for delivery on May contracts.

Estimated receipts for today are: Wheat, 21 cars; corn, 365 cars; oats, 85 cars; rye, 3 cars; barley, 13 cars; hogs, 25,000.

E. W. Kalb wired from Kansas City that wheat looked fine on the bottom lands and that farmers said there was no damage.

Sales on the call were: Corn, No. 3 yellow, May, 6,000 bu at 75c; 20,000 but at 75½c, Illinois proportional.

Coffeyville, Kas., wired that the wheat in that vicinity had been damaged 40 per cent.

For three days Winnipeg had 181 cars of wheat, against 800 cars a year ago.

Minneapolis wheat stocks decreased 225,000 bu for three days.

Charters were made for 100,000 bu corn to Buffalo at 1c.

caught in the bull campaign had effected a settlement with Patten, squaring up accounts for 3,000,000 bu at an average of 77c. Most of this grain was said to have been bought at an average of about 62c.

Local Receipts Are Liberal.

Local receipts again were large at 440 cars, of which 155 graded contract, against 414 expected, and 469 received the similar day last year, but they were not considered large in view of the extraordinary efforts that have been made to get the grain in from the country in time to deliver on contracts. The estimate for today was for only 365 cars. Total primary arrivals were 651,000 bu, compared to 736,000 bu a year ago, and clearances at the seaboard were 20,000 bu. The visible supply showed a decrease of 473,000 bu, compared to a falling off of 1,406,000 bu last year, the total now in sight being 3,702,000 bu, against 5,238,000 bu a year ago. The Patten people again bought up the better grades at the sample tables, presumably for the purpose of preventing the grain from going into hands that mix for delivery on contracts. The outside cash demand was light and devoid of notable feature. Liverpool closed ⅛d firmer for corn.

Snappy Trade in September Oats.

Oats joined the leaders in the trip upward, pit business being lively and interesting at times. Principal interest was centered in the September, which received support from the leading holders of May, country traders, and local shorts. Pressure at no time was pronounced. Stop loss orders were caught on the way up. While some sections complained of too much moisture, crop news in general was more favorable than that which affected the wheat trade. Indiana did not seriously follow up its "green bug" reports of the previous day, but there were enough messages at hand to indicate that the pest is doing business in numerous fields around the central part of the state. Final quotations represented unchanged for old May, ⅜c higher for new May, ⅛@⅜c up for old July, and ⅜@⅝c stronger for September.

Local receipts were 222 cars, of which only 14 graded contract, against 310 cars received the corresponding day last year. The estimate for today was light at 85 cars. Total primary arrivals were 524,000 bu, compared to 538,000 bu last year, and clearances at the seaboard were 2,000 bu. The visible supply showed a decrease of 528,000 bu, against a gain of 642,000 bu a year ago, the total now in sight being 7,919,000 bu, compared to 11,040,000 bu the similar time in 1907.

Rye Market Is Weak.

Rye was 2c to 3c lower for carlots. The demand was slow. The visible decreased 48,000 bu. No. 2 fre on board sold at 80@81c; No. 3 was quoted, 70@78c; and No. 4, 60@70c. Receipts were 7 cars.

Lack of demand for malting grades and a continued demand for feed barley has brought the two kinds into close price relationship. Yesterday malting was quoted 62@65c, while feed or mixing barley was quoted 61@64c. Screenings were 44@64c. Receipts were 57 cars. The visible decreased 126,000 bu.

Flaxseed was ½c higher. No. 1 northwestern was quoted, $1.25½; No. 1 from the northwest, $1.24; No. 1 southwestern, $1.18½. Receipts were 1 car.

Timothy seed offerings were light. September sold at $4.00, and country lots were quoted $3.00@4.10.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK MARKET.

CHICAGO, May 26.—A sharp reduction in the receipts of hogs was of slight benefit to the market, as buyers were so liberally supplied with Monday's run that they wanted only a few hogs and were inclined to discriminate against the quality of the supply on the market. The trade was slow and draggy all day and the finish was the weakest part of the session, with sales at 10c lower prices than Monday, although earlier in the day sales were made at steady to 5c lower values as compared with the close the previous session. Average prices for the day, $5.33, compared with $5.37½ Monday and $5.43 a week ago. Moderate offerings of cattle met with fair demand at generally unchanged prices. The quality of the steers offered was plain and $6.90 bought the best beeves on the market. About 5,000 calves were received and they sold at prices largely 25c lower than a week ago, packers, who were the best buyers, discriminating against the plain light vealers. In the sheep houses the trade was the best in many days, and the supply was absorbed at an early hour, the bulk of the offerings clearing at an advance of 10c. A few loads of common stock sold at unchanged values, but there was a good outlet for everything of desirable quality, and traders felt optimistic concerning future prices, if shippers will continue to market stock cautiously.

CATTLE.

Steady prices were paid for about all the beef steers included in the run of 2,200, with packers the best buyers, although shippers were out looking for a few strongweight beeves of good quality, and paid $6.90, the top of the market, for one load of prime 1,376 pounders. Most of the good to prime steers cleared at from $5.85@6.60, while a fair kind sold at from $5.40@5.75, and light common sorts went over the scales at from $4.75@5.25. The supply of choice cows and heifers was meagre, few lots being good enough to bring over $5.50, although heifers touched $5.75 and cows $6.00. Most of the medium to good cows and heifers cleared at from $3.85@4.60, with a common class at from $3.00@3.75. Moderate offerings of bulls sold at steady prices, prime bolognas making $4.25@4.30, and good butchers $4.75@5.25. The quality of the calves received was only fair, and they did not meet with a brisk call, most of the good vealers selling at a decline of 25c, while instances of 35c loss were noted. Packers were the best buyers and they discriminated against the light, thin stock, most of which sold at around $5.00, while good weight offerings made $5.50@5.75, with a few odd lots of prime stock up to $6.25@6.30. Canners and cutters were slow sales, with killers taking most of the latter at around $2.75@3.10. Stockers and feeders sold at unchanged prices, moderate offerings meeting with a light demand from country buyers. Quotations:

Good to prime steers	$6.50@7.30
Fair to good steers	5.00@6.55
Common to fair steers	4.50@5.00

Cattle at six western markets, 16,600, against 22,100 a week ago, 21,900 a year ago, and 28,600 two years ago. Total for 1908 to date, 2,903,000, against 3,325,000 the same period in 1907.

HOGS.

Receipts were only about 9,000, but with 13,000 carried over from the preceding session there were enough hogs to supply all requirements, as shipping orders were light and packers had secured such liberal supplies on Monday that they were not forced to come out after stock. Speculators were active for the first day since last Friday, and opened the market at steady prices. Packers held out for concessions of 10c and sellers had to meet their views before a clearance could be effected, most of the hogs selling at a decline of 5@10c. Small packers and shippers bought most of the hogs on the market, as the big killers pegged their bids too low, Armour & Co. refusing to pay more than $5.20@5.25 for the same grade of swine that cost them $5.35 on Monday, while Swift & Co. wanted shipping hogs at $5.35, which brought $5.42½@5.45 the day before. Sellers considered these prices too low, with the result that these two firms secured only 2,500 hogs between them. The quality of the hogs was poor and the bulk of the mixed lots sold at from $5.25 to $5.35, while good butchers brought $5.40@5.45, with a few loads of choice stock up to $5.47½. Rough heavy packing hogs were slow sale at from $4.90 to $5.10. Strongweight pigs met with a good shipping demand, 130 pounders selling at from $5.10 to $5.25. Lightweight pigs moved slowly at from $4.25 to $4.75, according to quality. Quotations:

Average price of hogs at Chicago, $5.33, against $5.37 Monday, $5.43 a week ago, $6.16 a year ago, and $6.44 two years ago.

Eleven markets received 87,000 hogs, against 65,900 a week ago, 99,100 a year ago, and 105,300 two years ago. Total for 1908 to date, 12,680,000, against 10,423,000 the same period in 1907.

Hog purchases for the day follow: Armour & Co., 1,300; Swift & Co., 1,200; Anglo-American, 100; Boyd-Lunham, 1,100; Hammond, 300; Boore & Co., 700; Morris & Co., 700; Schwarzschild & Sulzberger, 2,000; Western Packing company, 1,200; butchers, 500; shippers, 3,500; total, 12,600; left over, 9,000.

SHEEP.

Supplies consisted largely of clipped lambs, there being but a small number of sheep and yearlings included in the run of 11,000. Wool lambs also were in limited supply, but they came in for a better call than on the first day of the week and made the full 10c gain. Shippers and exporters had a few orders for suitable offerings, but local killers were the best buyers and took the bulk of the supply, paying the advanced prices as readily as the other purchasers. Another feature of the trade was the good demand from feeders, who figured that prices were low enough to risk the chance of taking the half fed stock which arrived to send out in the country and finish. Western wethers made $4.75, with wethers and yearlings mixed at $4.90@5.00. Small wool ewes brought $5.00 from killers, while feeders paid $4.00 for half fat lots. There were practically no native wethers or yearlings offered, while native ewes of good quality made $5.00@5.85, with plain to fair kinds at from $4.00@4.75. Bucks made $4.00@4.25. Wool lambs moved more freely, with several loads of prime offerings at $6.70, with a fair kind at $6.35. Clipped Colorados touched $6.00, with strictly good killers at from $5.75@5.90. Best western clippers brought $5.90, with other loads at from $5.75@5.85. Exporters bought clipped lambs at $5.60. Springers of good quality made $6.50@6.75. Quotations:

Wool wethers	$4.90@5.50

Receipts for May 27 are estimated at 16,000 cattle, 23,000 hogs, and 14,000 sheep, against 15,771 cattle, 29,053 hogs, and 19,983 sheep for Wednesday, May 29, 1907.

STOCKYARDS GOSSIP.

Exporters were better buyers of cattle Monday than the generality of the trade believed, taking 95 loads, the largest day's shipment abroad in several weeks. The shipments were as follow: W. T. Brauer, 34 loads; Doud & Keefer, 27; Armour & Co., 18; Morris, 13; and Swift & Co., 3 loads.

Despite this increased competition from abroad and the fact that preliminary estimates are for moderate receipts the rest of this week, traders do not look for cattle prices to go much higher, as buyers have orders not to pay over a certain price and refuse to take hold at above this level, claiming that the consumptive demand for dressed beef does not warrant their paying any more.

Advancing pastures are inducing holders of good light steers to keep these at home, as prices for such stock here are not attractive, while good fat cattle are selling to much better advantage.

Monday's receipts of hogs were officially counted at 69,756, or nearly 3,000 more than the nearest estimate made. Although this run was the largest since last February, when all previous records were broken, it was smaller than it should have been had the weather been cooler, as it was estimated that more than 3,000 hogs died of the excessive heat before they could be unloaded and sheltered.

Big packers placed their bids for hogs so low that sellers refused to sell them good hogs, with the result that the small packers and shippers secured all the desirable offerings on the market.

Hogs left over from Monday's market were officially counted at 13,000. Many of these hogs held on country orders were not placed on the market, and it was estimated that the carried over supply would be nearly as large as the fresh arrivals.

As was the case last week, hogs coming in from nearby territories showed exceptionally poor quality, there being a large percentage of common light mixed grassy hogs inncluded in the arrivals, in which it was difficult to get buyers interested. One salesman said the hogs were not worth within 25c of those on Monday's market.

ON THE BOARD OF TRADE.

Strength in the grain list, lighter receipts of hogs here and at other western packing centers, big buying of lard and ribs by a leading packer, and general covering by a large commission house gave provision values a materially stronger undertone. It was said that the big covering was for James A. Patten, the orders being executed through the house in which he is interested. Prices early were at about the previous close, but it was not long before good strength developed, and the better part of the day's gains was maintained to the close. Final quotations represented net advances of 17½@27½c for pork, 7½@12½c for lard, and 5@7½c for ribs.

The western run of hogs was 77,200, about half of those of the previous day, against 85,800 the similar day last year, Chicago contributing 10,000, or about 6,000 less than expected. The local estimate for today was 25,000. Shipments of meats hence for the day were 2,559,000 lbs, compared to 3,881,000 lbs the similar day in 1907; lard, 1,340,000 lbs, against 1,638,000 lbs a year ago. Liverpool quoted bacon and lard unchanged and hams 6d higher. Pork loins were off 1¼@1¾c, and the general domestic cash demand showed little life. Exporters are reporting a little more interest on the part of foreigners, but actual business is not large. The recent spurt in the southern demand has petered out, but bulls in the trade are looking for an early resumption of the inquiry.

Chicago Horse Market.

Drivers and gaited saddlers met with a good inquiry at steady prices, and there was a good demand for medium weight draft horses suitable for delivery service at around $135.00@175.00, but poor conditioned offerings were slow sale at unevenly lower values. Arrivals for the first two days this week were estimated at 1,085, which compared with 1,384 a week ago, but the decrease in the demand was fully as large as that in the offerings, and sellers did not look for better prices. Drafters having weight moved at from $175.00 to $230.00, with lighter kinds at from $135.00 to $175.00. Farm mares and eastern chunks sold at from $100.00 to $165.00; drivers, $150.00@350.00; saddlers, $200.00@400.00; feeders, $160.00@190.00; actors and coachers, $150.00@350.00; carriage pairs, $225.00@675.00. Mules were unchanged, at from $125.00 to $225.00.

Groceries.

CHICAGO, May 26.—Although the trade lacked activity, steady prices prevailed in nearly all departments, while in the canned goods market slightly better values were obtainable for tomatoes and corn. Jobbers who had excessive stocks of any kind on their hands and were anxious to clean up before the advent of new crops made special price offers on these goods, which were readily absorbed by the trade. Favorable crop reports on fruits have given rise to expectations of a large business in glass fruit jars and manufacturers of the latter are looking forward to an enormous business. Trade in cereals showed little improvement, but values held generally unchanged.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

CHICAGO, May 26.—Dealers who had large stocks of refined sugar were liquidating at the recent decline of 10 points made in prices, as they had good profits and were satisfied to realize on their holdings. Big refiners, however, were not anxious to book orders at the concession, as they figured that it was only momentary, and that higher values would be obtainable before long. Following were the ruling prices in wholesale circles, quotations being on 100 lb lots: Standard, granulated, $5.57@5.67; cut loaf, H. & E., $6.40; standard powdered, $5.80; canary, $4.78; extra C, $5.28; chemically pure milk sugar, 18c per lb in brl lots.

COFFEE.

CHICAGO, May 26.—Steadiness prevailed, although foreign markets were reported slightly easier. Hot weather is expected to reduce the consumption, but local stocks are not burdensome, and jobbers look for no radical change in prices.

NEW YORK, May 26.—COFFEE—Spot steady; Rio No. 7, 6⅜c; Santos No. 4, 8⅜@8½c; mild quiet; Cordova, 9⅜@12⅝c. Dry Goods.

CHICAGO, May 26.—Recent reductions in cotton goods values were followed by an almost unprecedented demand from jobbers, retailers, and consumers, mills were overwhelmed with orders and prices reacted ¼c. Offerings on the market were moderate and merchants had little trouble in finding an outlet for their stocks. Special price offers made on warm weather fabrics in order to create a more active demand and clean up stocks brought most gratifying results and a firmer under tone pervaded the market for all merchandise. Good progress was being made in placing orders for fall goods and initial prices on several lines were advanced, while the readiness with which offers were being accepted led merchants to predict further gains in values before long.

NEW YORK, May 26.—The activity in cotton goods continued during the day. Revisions were made in nearly all lines of wide sheetings on a basis of 25c for fruit of the loom 10-4s. Large sales have been made. Cotton quilts for fall were opened on a basis from 5@10 per cent below previous values. Linings are firmer, with a higher tendency. Cotton yarns are firmer and higher, with a light business done. The sales of export goods recently include 2,500 bales of lightweight sheetings for China and 1,000 bales of standard drills for India. The carpet trade is improving materially. Jobbers are doing a fair general trade on wash goods and knit goods. A better movement is noted in some dress goods lines this week.

Cotton.

NEW YORK, May 26.—COTTON—Spot, closed steady; middling uplands, 11.50c; middling gulf, 11.75c; sales, 135 bales. The market was less active and showed considerable irregularity with the new crop easy, while near positions were rendered relatively firm by a strong spot situation. Unknowns Attempt Arson and Murder

Benton, Ill., May 26.—While Frank Blanchard, residing near here, was absent from his home last night two unknown men entered the house, bound Mrs. Blanchard and gagged her, and after sprinkling coal oil over the floor set fire to the place. Blanchard returned in time to rescue his wife, who was badly burned, and to save the house from destruction. Two previous attempts had been made to burn the house.

GRAIN AFFECTS STOCK LIST

Severe Loss to Crops by Floods Factor in the Trading.

RAILWAY FIGURES NOT GOOD

No Further Engagements of Gold for Export, Yet Rates Are Firm.

[FROM THE NEW YORK TIMES FINANCIAL LEADER.]

NEW YORK, May 26.—[Special.]—While the severe declines in stocks in the last few minutes of trading in today's stock exchange session appeared to be due almost exclusively to urgent offerings by a small group of houses which has been intimately associated with the interests credited with the management of the recent long forward movement, and bore therefore a more or less artificial aspect, the movement was interesting as showing the possibility of a change of attitude on the part of these interests.

Whether if this is true, it has come about as a result of the New Haven suit or the less favorable crop advices which have been reaching Wall street of late, or from any one of the number of other matters of equal moment at this time, is yet to be disclosed.

News from Crop Territory Factor.

It is certain, however, that the financial community as a whole today was made uncomfortable by the day's news from the crop territory, particularly when this was read in connection with the course of prices on grain markets. There seems to be little question now in view of the detailed reports coming to hand from the west and southwest that a great deal of damage has been wrought to both property and crops by floods and rainfalls, estimates placing the crop damage from this source in Texas at $3,000,000 and in Oklahoma at $2,000,000. Perhaps the view of grain markets was distorted by the speculation under way in both wheat and corn, but certainly such advances as five points in corn and three points in wheat in a single session of the board of trade are calculated to send observers to incoming reports with some anxiety.

Another source of unsettlement to sentiment was to be found in the railroad earnings statements of the day, the most important of these being the April return of the Chicago and Northwestern, with its loss of $1,004,000 in gross, an amount reduced to $49,000 in net. Such showings also are borne out by the verbal statements of railroad managers. These various matters were, of course, exaggerated on the stock exchange, where were witnessed such losses as four points or so in Union Pacific, Reading, and St. Paul, and the stock exchange also distinguished itself by producing the first election tremor of the season over a report of an alliance between the democratic party and labor organizations.

Exchange Rates Rule Firm.

No additional engagements of gold were announced during the day, but exchange rates ruled firm, and further shipments are among the probabilities. Money rates were unchanged, although the banks for the moment are feeling the effects of the gold engagements and treasury withdrawals severely, having lost to the subtreasury $12,765,000 since Friday last. In banking circles the evident determination of the republican membership of congress to jam through currency legislation of some sort is viewed with more alarm than pleasure, since it is only too apparent that no bill going to the root of the real trouble can be devised and enacted within the time left for action.

MONEY—On call, easy, 1½@1¾ per cent; ruling rate, 1¾; closing bid, 1½; offered at 1¾. TIME LOANS—Dull and steady; 60 days, 2¼@2½ per cent and 90 days, 2¾@3 per cent; 6 months, 3½@3¾ per cent. Prime mercantile paper, 3½@4 per cent. Sterling exchange, steady, with actual business in bankers' bills at 487.10 for demand and at 485.25 for 60 day bills. Commercial bills, 484¾. Bar silver, 53⅜c. Mexican dollars, 47c; government bonds, steady; railroad bonds, irregular.

IN THE BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

BOSTON, Mass., May 26.—[Special.]—There was not much business on the Boston board today. Amalgamated was moderately active and Victoria had a little spurt on favorable reports from the mine, but the coppers as a class were dull. The local industrials were neglected, even fruit and telephone, which usually have attracted some attention, were traded in little. The general undertone was heavy in sympathy with the feeling in New York. Price changes were unimportant. Call loans, 2½@3 per cent; time loans, collateral, 3@4¾ per cent; time loans, mercantile paper, 3½@4½ per cent; clearing house loans, 2 per cent.

IN THE FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, May 26.—Money was plentiful today and discounts were easy. Trading on the stock exchange developed a more cheerful tone. The outlook was considered good, and, with cheap money and investment buying, gilt edged securities hardened. The settlement of the shipbuilding dispute cheered home rails, and the settlement, which commenced with Kaffirs, revealed substantial advances on the fortnight. American securities, after adjustment to parity, went easy, but they strengthened later on professional support of the Harriman issues, while Canadian Pacific benefitted on crop and weather news. The New York opening brought light supporting orders, but business narrowed and the market closed dull and steady. Paris supported the market early, but offered stock later.

ON THE CHICAGO EXCHANGE

Trade Dull and Some Issues Decline in Sympathy with East.

RAILROAD EARNINGS POOR.

Talk of Another Reduction in Atchison Common Dividend.

Business was dull on the local exchange. Chicago Subway shares were moderately active, and sold off in sympathy with New York. The market for the stock has apparently been made by a few individuals. Those in control of the property have taken more than a passing interest in the course of quotations.

There was some interest in United Boxboard issues, owing to their weakness. The sales of the stocks were accompanied by statements of small business and small profits. Commonwealth Edison shares were steady at 94. A few shares sold at the close at 93. The demand is an investment one, and continues steady on a moderate scale.

Swift & Co. shares were fairly active, and the price sympathized with the movement on the eastern exchange.

In the bond department prices were steady without special features.

Burlington Bonds.

The $16,000,000 Burlington 4 per cent bonds offered by J. P. Morgan & Co. yesterday morning were several times over subscribed. Concerning the purpose of the mortgage, President Harris of the Burlington issued yesterday the following:

"This mortgage is now a first lien on 3,070 miles of completed road, and on the retirement of the outstanding bonds enumerated in the mortgage will become a first lien on the entire railroad mileage enumerated in the mortgage, aggregating 8,599 miles.

"Of the $300,000,000 bonds secured by the mortgage $175,000,000 are reserved for the special purpose of retiring all outstanding bonds of the company of previous issues, at this date aggregating $167,565,000, of which $17,428,300 are held in various sinking funds; $32,000,000 are issuable to meet expenses of retiring said prior bonds; $45,000,000 are to be issued for reimbursement of the treasury of the company for outlays already made by it for betterments of and additions to the property covered by the mortgage, and the remaining $78,000,000 are issuable only for additions, improvements, and betterments of and to the mortgaged property which, when acquired, must be placed under the lien of the mortgage; thereby increasing the mortgaged property by the full amount of such additions."

May Reduce Atchison Common.

Gossip in Wall street is now to the effect that the dividend on Atchison common may be further cut to 4 per cent. The outlook for railroad earnings is a poor one, and there is a strong element in the direction of the Atchison which favors keeping dividend disbursements well within the volume of surplus profits.

International Nickel's Year.

The profit and loss statement of the International Nickel company and its constituent companies in America for the fiscal year ended March 31 was issued yesterday. It made a poor exhibit. Speaking of the figures, President Monell said:

"As the business conditions of the last year are so well known, it is hardly necessary to state that our own business felt the depression."

Last year $1,548,482 was expended for new construction, compared with $1,390,071 the previous year. The profit and loss statement follows:

Railroad Earnings.

In discussing the railroad returns compiled by it for March the New York Financial Chronicle says, among other things:

"Complete returns of the gross and net earnings of United States railroads for the month of March are now available, and the results are exceedingly unfavorable. Unfortunately, too, there is every reason to believe that the exhibit for April, when a full return shall have been received, will be even poorer, and, according to present indications, it looks as if the results for the current month of May would be worst of all.

"We have returns for March of both gross and net earnings from roads comprising an aggregate of 152,058 miles of line. These roads show a loss in gross earnings of $21,531,681, as compared with the corresponding month last year. In addition we have returns from 34,377 miles more of roads which furnish returns of gross alone. Combining the two, we get a loss in gross earnings on an aggregate of 186,435 miles of road of only a trifle less than $25,000,000. As the total railroad mileage of the country is roughly 220,000 miles, it is within the mark to say that if we could have figures for the other 34,000 miles the loss of the entire railroad system of the country would be shown to be not less than $30,000,000, which is at the rate of $360,000,000 a year. The result is the more remarkable, inasmuch as in March suspension of work at the bituminous coal mines throughout the country had not yet begun—in fact, in that month mining in some districts was prosecuted with special vigor in anticipation of the stoppage which actually occurred on April 1. That the loss in gross revenues should have reached such large proportions despite that circumstance, attests the extent and magnitude of the reverse under which the railroad industry is laboring at present.

Reduction in Expenses.

"If, however, the traffic gross revenues of our railroad transportation lines have not been improving in the slightest degree—have, in fact, been going from bad to worse—the managers have at least been getting better control of their expense accounts. By reason of that fact the showing as to net is much better than it was for January or February. While the roads reporting gross and net showed a loss in gross of $21,531,681, this was offset by saving in expenses of $14,988,050, leaving a loss in net of only $6,543,631. As a consequence the ratio of decrease in the net is found to be only 14.40 per cent, or but little heavier than the ratio of decrease in the gross, which is 13.23."

The Chronicle also compiles a table showing gross and net earnings for the month of March, covering a period of twelve years. It follows:

March.	Gross earnings— Year.	Increase.	Net earnings— Year.	Increase.

Delegates from All Over the Country Attending National Convention of Underwriters' Organization.

The National Fire Protection association is holding a three days' session in the rooms of the Chicago board of underwriters. Men connected with fire insurance companies and underwriters' organizations are present from all over the country.

Yesterday's meeting was given up to discussion of automobile garages, automatic sprinklers, fireproof construction, fire hose, concrete, and reinforced concrete.

The objects of this association are to promote the science and improve the methods of fire protection, to obtain and circulate information on the subject, and to secure the cooperation of members in establishing proper safeguards against loss of life and property by fire.

MEAT INSPECTORS END SESSION

Conference Closes and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson Leaves for Ames, Ia.

The conference of the chief meat inspectors from all the packing house centers of the country was concluded late yesterday afternoon, and Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson took an evening train to Ames, Ia., where during the next ten days a demonstration of the government's treatment of hog cholera will be given.

"I was not present at today's conference," said the secretary, "but I have been told that there were no developments of importance. It has been of benefit to the department in that it has brought the bureau of animal industry to higher efficiency through its educational influence and the discovery of little improvements that could be made in the system."

Nearly all of the 150 inspectors who attended the meeting will leave the city today.

Conveyance by Robert P. Bass, as one of the trustees under the last will of Perkins Bass, of a one-third interest in seven properties of the estate, to the Merchants' Loan and Trust company, filed for record yesterday, may be preliminary to a partition of the estate.

The three heirs are Mr. Bass, John F. Bass, his brother, and Gertrude B. Warner, a sister.

The transaction simply amounts to a resignation by Robert Bass of his trusteeship, which was confirmed by a court decree.

The total value of the seven parcels comprising the estate will approximate $1,750,000, and they consist of twenty acres at the southeast corner of Stony Island avenue and Sixty-seventh street, one acre at the southeast corner of Sixty-seventh street and Madison avenue, 75x174 feet in Mackinaw avenue, 200 feet north of Eighty-fourth street, and four other lots in the same subdivision, 25x161 feet, in Indiana avenue, 100 feet north of Twenty-second street, east front, and the following central business holdings: Southeast corner of Jackson boulevard and Fifth avenue, 200x100 feet, valued by the board of review at $786,000; the northeast corner of Market street and Jackson boulevard, 124½x112 feet, valued by the board of review at $589,480, subject to ground lease; and the southeast corner of Fifth avenue and Monroe street, 40x70 feet, and 20x100 feet, subject to ground lease, valued by the board of review at $216,275.

ODD PIECE SALE

Sample & Misfit Garments

25% TO 50% OFF.

SOMETHING TO INTEREST EVERY MAN.
Owing to the volume of our business and the liberal treatment which we accord to our customers who find fault of any kind with our work, or with the fitting of their garments, we receive a large number of garments back. In the course of a season we sometimes receive as much as many small clothing stores buy for their season's requirements. We are obliged to take a loss on these garments, and we do it gracefully and as quickly as possible.
We have just had returned by our branch stores all of their season's accumulation of misfits, errors, and returned garments of all descriptions. If we can fit you, we will sell you a $40.00 suit for $25.00; a $30.00 suit for $20.00; a $25.00 suit for $15.00, and other garments at proportionate reductions. We have some few of last year's garments which we offer at about ¼ of the above prices, so you can see why we are anxious to turn them into money quickly. The style changes and they are worth only ½ as much the following season.
These garments are brand new and we will guarantee them in perfect condition. Here is an opportunity to dress well at a decidedly low cost. Call early and select before best patterns are taken.

When a Woman Looks Well She Feels Well.

There is no beauty in pale cheeks. No matter how attractive her gown, no woman ever looks her best unless her cheeks and lips show the delicate, rosy glow inseparable from real beauty. There is no woman, no matter how good her general health, who isn't pale SOMETIMES, just when she wants to look her very best. Most refined women object to rouge, because the most expensive imported varieties rarely look NATURAL. Besides, they fade quickly, rub off, and are too easily detected by another woman.
GIRLHOOD BLOOM is the only NATURAL coloring. It cannot be detected in the brightest sunlight; it will not fade or rub off; you can wash your face in cold water without affecting it; soap with warm water removes it instantly.
Send for a TRIAL bottle, sufficient for two months' use, forwarded prepaid in PLAIN PACKAGE, for twenty-five cents. REGULAR SIZE one dollar.
